PINE CITY, MINNESOTA, SEPTEMBER, 1923

FROSH WIN HONORS IN PINNACLE DRIVE

The reports of the campaign staged to gain subscriptions for the Pinnacle, name the Freshmen Class winners of the first award for the largest number of subscriptions while the Senior class had merited the second, for the highest percentage within the class. The third prize, offered to the individual securing the highest number of subscriptions, lies between Ben Cummings, Wesley Flayton and Helen Carlson—all Freshmen.

The captors of the first prize gained their honors by an unrivaled, industrious spirit which drew to them the sum of forty subscriptions, sixty-five per cent of them being taken from the members of their class.

The worthy Senior class, having one-hundred per cent of its members subscribing, obtained the second prize.

The Sophomores and Juniors were about on a level, the former reporting seventy per cent of its class signed up and a total of twenty-one subscriptions, the latter, ninety per cent and twenty subscriptions.

Wednesday, September 25th, at twelve o'clock, Mr. Grinnell announced the opening of the campaign. The matters in which the awards would be judged were stated thus: 1—The class obtaining the highest number of subscriptions, within and without the school, shall first place. 2—To the class obtaining the largest per cent of its members would go the second award. 3—The individual person securing the largest number of subscriptions would be awarded third prize.

At four o'clock the same day

A Feature of First Month

For fifteen whole seconds there was silence, absolute stillness. No one moved a finger nor winked an eye. Everyone from the most wiggle some Freshman to the most stern and dignified Senior sat perfectly motionless—while a great shining eye bore upon them. Click! and it was all over! P. C. H. S. had had its picture taken, for the very first time.

This was the first of a series taken to show the different departments in the highschool work. These pictures were shown at the Family Theatre for the purpose of interesting the public in the school. It undoubtedly will be of value to both parents and teachers, and will further student pride in the school.

Each student is given the opportunity to buy one of these pictures and as they will be of great interest to all, it is hoped that everyone will take the opportunity.

That Strong but Invisible Bond

It cannot be denied that "school spirit has been lacking in our high school for the last several years. Judging from a few things, I do not believe that there will be more than needed during the present year. The reason for this condition is known; unfortunately I am not permitted to state it. Most of the faculty are free from blame. We are fortunate in having a splendid line-up of new teachers; the best in the high school for many past seasons.

Our school is an institution, just as our government or any government is. If we read the histories of all the nations we will not find a single prosperous, happy, or contented people unless the scheme of the government is "organization" or "union."

We have class organization in high school. This, it seems, divides the pupils into four groups—and omits the teachers. We cannot have a visible organization of all the members of the school. But an invisible one is possible and highly desirable. That invisible bond is "school spirit."

How to acquire and develop it is some one's problem. I have told you what it is; you all know what it can do. It merely remains for some genius to step up with a solution of the puzzle of getting the long-talked-of "school spirit" in our school. Let's have it!

LOT FALLS TO JUNIORS TO START PROGRAMS

As a result of drawing the number one slip when the various classes drew for places on the schedule of entertainment, the Junior class will entertain the assembly the last two periods on Friday October 25. The other classes will appear a month apart in the order determined by the draw, which was, Seniors, Freshmen, Sophomores.

These entertainments or programs usually have been held to celebrate some notable occasion, such as Lincoln's or Washington's birthday, Thanksgiving, etc. This year the school has been divided into four entertaining classes. Each class will entertain the assembly for about two periods every four weeks.

Frances Willard Commemorated by Co. Superintendent

Mr. Miller, the county superintendent of schools, gave a short talk in honor of the birthday of Francis E. Willard, before the assembly on Friday afternoon, Sept. 28.

His talk was not about Francis Willard herself but about temperance. He gave examples and reasons why boys and girls should not use intoxicating liquors. "People who drink," he said, "never amount to as much as those who do not drink, for drinking has decreased their ability to hold worthy positions."

He also talked about the bad effects of smoking. Smoking lessens chances to get positions. Smoking is not so detrimental to health when started in later life as it is when started during the high school age.

Mr. Miller gave as an example the hiring of teachers. The school board always asks, "Does he smoke?" If so, they do not secure his services unless necessary.

In closing, he wished every mem-

CLASS PILOTS CHOSEN AND PLANS STARTED

During the second week of school the three upper classes met for the purpose of electing officers, advisors, and making certain plans for the year. The officers and advisors were elected as follows:

SENIORS

Grace Halstrom Treasurer
Mr. Grinnell Class Advisor

JUNIORS

Dorothy Carlson President
Mary Mack Secretary
Edward Peterson Treasurer
Mrs. Brown Class Advisor

SOPHOMORES

Gladys Barnum President
Edward Woehrle Vice President
Thomas Mack Secretary
Joseph Engle Treasurer
Miss Olson Class Advisor

Seniors Lay Plans for Big Hallowe'en Party

Plans for a Hallowe'en party are being made by the Seniors. They have decided to have it in the "Gym" and have spoken for the use of it. It is not known as yet whether they will entertain the Freshmen or Juniors. Very definite plans have not been made for the entertainment etc., but the Seniors all look forward to a peppy party in the near future.

ber of the high school a long life of health and happiness.

The students were very much impressed by his address and hope to have the pleasure of hearing Mr. Miller speak to them again.

FIRST MONTH POINTS TO VERY ACTIVE YEAR

September has passed, and with it the first month of school. Four weeks of earnest study! For such it has been for the majority of students—those who realize that a "good start" always produces a "good finish."

With the exception of two—Mr. and Mrs. Brown—all of our High School teachers are new. Mr. Brown, our superintendent, teaches Physics again this year, and Mrs. Brown the Domestic Science classes. The following are the new instructors: Miss Bender, English I, Latin, Spanish; Miss Olson, Algebra, Geometry, Chemistry, Higher Algebra; Miss Bingenheimer, Commercial Arithmetic, Bookkeeping, Typewriting and Shorthand. Messrs. Grinnel, English, General History, American History and Principal; Morrow, General Science, Biology, Algebra, Manual Training and Athletic Coach.

The Freshmen may take General Science, Latin I or Commercial Arithmetic besides the required Algebra, English I, Sewing or Manual Training.

Latin, Bookkeeping, Biology or General History was offered to Sophomores, English II and Geometry being required. Cooking is also required for the girls.

The required Junior subjects are English III, Physics or some other science, and the elective are Latin, Type, Shorthand, Higher Algebra.

The Seniors are required to take English IV and American History. Their electives are Chemistry, Spanish II, Type II, Shorthand II, Higher Algebra.

The first month of this school year has passed very successfully. It is expected that the other eight will produce the same good results.

Kozy Kamp Party

Opens Social Year

Accompanied by their guests of the faculty, the Seniors followed the trail to Kozy Kamp on Kross Lake last Friday night. They carried with them numerous packages and bundles and an immense appetite, all signs of a jubilee.

Upon arriving they made themselves comfortable around a huge bon-fire on the lake shore. In due time the string that held the weiners was cut and after a scramble everyone had a "hot dog" perched on a stick. Shortly after this marshmallow trees began to bloom and these blossoms were soon devoured.

Afterward, some gathered around the fire to hear gruesome ghost stories and others went boating. Then the rest of the evening was spent in the cottage dancing and playing games.

It was growing early, rather than late, when the pleasure fed bunch reached home.

This Issue of The Pinnacle

This issue of the Pinnacle is our first try at Journalism. We have done our best to make it a success and we plan to make our paper better as times goes on. To do this we must have co-operation, freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Any one class cannot make the paper a success alone, nor can the staff alone make it successful of the school. The Pinnacle is a school, not a staff paper. The school must work as one to make it so. We, of the staff, will do our best and we appeal to our classmates to get behind and push.

There will be a general contribution box in the assembly in which every member of the high school can contribute news, stories, jokes, or other articles which he thinks or hopes are fitted for the Pinnacle. When this contribution box is started do not hesitate to support it by your contributions. Don't take the attitude, "Let the other fellow do it," for if we all think that, there won't be any other fellow.

This, our first issue of the Pinnacle, institutes a new plan for selecting assistant editors and reporters. A large number of the students were given assignments. Several were asked to write on the same topic. From these the best were selected and they make up this issue of the Pinnacle. In this number all of the writers are classed "reporters." From these reporters those showing most ability and willingness will be elected to the staff.

And, now, fellow boosters, when asked to write for your paper, don't refuse. Only a slacker would do that. If you are truly a booster for Pine City High School, you will write that article, and write it to the best of your ability. You will lessen the work of the staff by your contributions, and make the Pinnacle worthy of our pride.

Welcome Freshmen

Once more the doors of Pine City High School open to welcome another class of freshmen. They enter, swayed by one of two purposes—to obtain the maximum amount of pleasure possible or the maximum amount of knowledge.

Pine City High School is ready to give every freshman with an earnest desire for an education every possible assistance in aiding him or her to obtain such a purpose. In return they expect and know they will receive the co-operation of all in helping to uphold and maintain the high standard of the school.

Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors join with the teachers in extending a hearty welcome to the freshmen and in wishing them the best of success in their high school career.

Three Fundamentals

It is possible to attend school, year in and year out, acting like individuals, possessing not the slightest spark of school spirit, and yet establish records of achievement? This question is easily answered—in fact every one knows the impossibility.

A school which cannot boast of accomplishments shall never advance to a higher degree! As the time passes it will take the downward course, gradually becoming a thing of the past. School spirit is therefore necessary for the success of the institution.

Consequently we slowly begin to realize the importance of school undertaking. We continue to live as individuals yet we know that it is our duty to make our school a success. If we are ambitious and thoughtful we shall soon discover that if school spirit is combined with co-operation and executed with enthusiasm the desired results are obtained. Let these three fundamental points be found in our school today, tomorrow—and forever.

STUDENT OPINION

How About the Honor Roll

What an unfortunate thing it seems, that we are born into this world without a knowledge of anything. It is quite evident that we must get our knowledge from others. We know of prehistoric man who had to get everything for himself. It took him many years to find the few essentials of even decent living. Knowing this, we might consider ourselves fortunate in being able to avoid all those bumps and knocks which he must have undergone in his battle for existence.

Many of us consider this a cruel, old world. We must labor eight long tedious years in order to get the few essential elements of our future knowledge. But we have learned something else. We have learned that if we want to amount to anything; if we want to climb higher we must have knowledge—some understanding of the laws of this earth.

We enter the second phase of our work. It is high school. Someone tells us that we get out of high school just what we put into it. Our first impression is that we will get four years of prosperity in the future. But it doesn't mean that. If we intend to be the most progressive in the future we must be to the most progressive in school. If we sige to reap a bountiful harvest we must sow seed of the highest quality. Our utmost efforts should be put into our school work. Then we can look forward to our career.

Now, then, how about the honor roll? Why not be determined to do everything in our power to get our names among those of scores of our classmates. Then we can feel certain that our names will appear among the noted men of our times. They will appear among lawyers, judges, senators and governors; among great scientists and inventors.

We can vision them appearing among the great men of our Congress and later generations will read of them in American History. Let us remember, then, this little proverb, "Whatever is worth doing is worth doing well."

The Honor Roll

It should be the ambition of every student in high school to earn a place on the "Honor Roll." To do this he must pass in a good solid study. He must not come to class two or three or even one day out of the week without his lessons prepared. Each daily lesson should be thoroughly prepared. Each daily lesson should be thoroughly prepared and outlined; then when it comes to a quiz, or a final six week test, he will not try to cram at the last minute; and he will find at the end of the period that his marks are at the top of the list, where they really should be.

While several students were discussing the subject of the Honor Roll the other day, one of them said, "One has to have an average of ninety in all his subjects to get on the Honor Roll. Why put on a lot of extra work trying to get ninety when one can scrape by with seventy-five and graduate with his class mates even if they have been on the honor roll ever since the Freshmen year?" This student has the wrong outlook. It is true that it takes considerable studying and hard work to win a place on the Honor Roll. But why do we go to high school? To play and waste our time? Of course not. We go there to learn and, in order to learn, we must study; we must work. We must hold as our goal, not a chance to scrape through with the bunch, but the honor of graduating with flying colors and of feeling that we have neglected none of the golden opportunities offered in high school.

It is a good idea to publish the honor roll in both the school and local papers where the students and parents will have chance to see it. It will stimulate effort and arouse ambition among those who are slow to appreciate the value of high scholarship. Though scholarship asks no better reward than the satisfaction of attainment and the culture that goes with it, yet it deserves to get their recognition and encouragement.

The Assembly Clown

In every high school there is some certain person who has the reputation of being "funny." Every time he moves or makes any little remark there is a general laugh. There is nothing so serious but can be made ridiculous in the eyes of our cut-up. In fact, the clown will stop at nothing that will bring a laugh—at the other fellow's expense.

How many embarrassing situations this person makes! How many times the whole object of a lesson is lost because of some ludicrous remark made by the jester! At such times a clown is the despair of both his teachers and classmates.

For a moment he is as studious as the most long-faced senior, and the next minute—?!! Oh! The assembly is in a grand uproar. When at last even the dignified senior president can scarcely keep a faint smile from his grave face, our principal looks sternly at the offender, and all is silent.

If our assembly is ever in a state of undue stillness, we look in the direction of our buffoon. When satisfied that he is industriously filling his cranium with the contents of a Latin book, we heave a sigh of relief, for we know that we can study in peace for another period.

Do you think the pranks of the incessant joker should be stopped? Occasionally, it may be admitted, he does say something funny, but more frequently it is not worth noticing. Therefore, I think his silliness should be stopped.

But how can we reform our assembly clown? Joking seems to constitute his entire make-up. In fact, it seems to be the very "bread of life" to him.

By ceasing to laugh at his stale remarks, we may cure him to some extent. At least he should be taught that there are some times when they are appreciated, but more often they are not.

If you, dear reader, are, or think you are, one of these clowns, please, consider the time and place before you get funny."

ALUMNI NOTES

Miss Louise Woehrle '23 is attending the Iowa State Teachers' College at Cedar Falls, Iowa.

Miss Verna Erickson '23 is taking a stenographical course at Young Hursh Business College in Duluth.

Miss Mildred Sobotka '23 is a freshman at the University this year.

George Roberts '23 and William Johnson '23 are taking an academic course at Macalester.

Miss Carrie Boyle '21 has resumed her studies at Hamline College in St. Paul. She is a Junior.

Miss Edna Dippery '22 is teaching at Adolph, west of Duluth.

Miss Mildred Carlson '22 is teaching at Royalton, west of Pine City.

Miss Rosemond Barnum '21 drove up from the city for a short visit with her folks. She is studying art in Minneapolis.

"Ducky" Brandes and "Bob" Woehrle, notable P. C. H. S. athletes are back at Hamline this year. The boys expect to get a trip to Oklahoma in connection with their athletic work.

Miss Catherine Poerl '22 spent the week end with relatives here, recently.

Those attending Macalester this year are Miss Vilost Jensen '22, Lester Wilcox '20, George Roberts '23, William Johnson '23, Lorena Bede '20.

Harry Petschel '23 is taking a business course.

Albert Herdina left recently to attend an Electrical Engineering school in Milwaukee.

Frosh Win Honors

everyone attended his or her respective class meeting. Each class elected a team composed of four to six people who were under the best circumstances to do the greatest amount of active work in the drive. However, everyone was urged to take part.

From Thursday morning until Monday morning the entire assembly was in confusion. Buzz! buzz! buzz! the members of the teams are reporting to their chairman, the chairman in turn are handing in reports and cash to the business manager.

Thus, the campaign rolled on to a finish. Monday morning saw the close of the greatest campaign in the history of the Pinnacle, having listed in that brief time the amazing sum of one hundred nine subscriptions.

Grade News

The seventh graders have completed their history project. The Pilgrims and Indians look real enough to make one think they will soon declare war.

Tests seem to have taken a good hold of the pupils for the dreamy age is gone and study reigns.

Popular Indian Museum

The Eighth Grade has started a decidedly good museum. The museum has Indian collections, which are very interesting. Everyone is invited to look at their museum and Indian village. Visitors will find that their time was not wasted in looking over the "Eighth Grade Museum."

The Eighth grade people are working for a progress pen in writing.

They have just finished outlining "Evangeline", the well known poem by Longfellow, and are now starting on "Rip Van Winkle."

When the contest was brought to a close the main question among the Freshman and Seniors was, "What is the reward?" The staff decided to make the second issue of the Pinnacle a Freshman-Senior issue, having the picture of each class in the paper. The two classes will select the material for that issue of the paper, while the staff will do the work.

This announcement was met with favor by both classes.

The humor in the Anokah is very good.

Carletonian, very good bulletin of College News.

We enjoyed the Bubbler very much, "Little but oh my!"

The Dunwoody News is a very neat little paper.

We enjoyed the cartoon on the front page of the The West High Weekly.

The Saints Reporter is a peppy little paper.

The literary department of the Breeze was exceptionally interesting.

The "Want Ads" in the Ellionatro are very clever and original.

"The Pied Piper" of The Hamline Oracle was a snappy little paper.

Freshies' Heart Pitty-Pat
on First Day of School

September 5th!! School!! The little Eighth Grade graduate finds herself on the threshold of another world! Oh! What will it be like? Will she like her new associates and be liked by them?

Timidly she follows the multitude of pupils before her and accordingly finds herself in a large but not uncrowded room. Wide-eyed she scans the sea of bright and mischievous faces while a million giggles reach her ears, seemingly from everywhere.

The poor little Freshie's heart stations itself in her throat—and a million questions pop in her bemuddled brain.

CHUCKLES

Is He Afraid of Himself
Harold Truesdale says he's so tough he has to hold a gun on himself when he shaves so he won't cut his throat.

Means "Grasshoppers"
Les Hagen says he'd rather chase butterflies than play golf because it makes for more accuracy in the art of jumping. (Anything to help us in track, Les.)

Like Checkers
Eddie Erhart says: Horse-shoe is one game where they can't rough it. (from the game) "G-r-r-r"

Galen Weinberger to Fats Hoefler: "Say Fats, you keep Ben Cummings out of the way, because when we Seniors move, we jump, and we don't want him under our feet."

Spontaneous or Habitual?
Miss Olson in Chemistry: "Katherine, what is spontaneous combustion?"

Katherine Bevar: "That's what happened when I saw a guy walk down the street yesterday."

Miss Olson: "What on earth do you mean?"

Katherine: "All at once my heart was on fire."

? ? Frosh ? ?
Freshmen are asked to refrain from asking the chemistry students foolish questions as some one may explode on one off hem.

Be Good Saxe
Saxe was thinking about what George did to him a few nights ago, when they had a brotherly spat. He picked History class to do it in.

The class was reciting on George Washington and the next question from Mr. Grinnell was: "And then what did George do, Saxe?"

Saxe, drowsily: "He hit me a peach in the jaw."

Earth Quake Predicted for China

Tom Mack fell down and hit his chin on the ground when he was trying to get the foot ball in his mouth.

Teacher: "What is a citron?"

Carl Holmberg: "Well it must look like a water moon because we swiped some once and got sick on 'em!"

Mr. Grinnell in Am. History: "Who is our present vice president?"

Les Hagen: "Coolidge, I think."

"What are they laughing at? Of whom are they talking and why do they look at one so?" Etc. Etc.

Then comes the registering, trembling she chooses her subjects, and, at the same time, eyes the principal from the corners of her eyes.

"Hmmm! he looks very kind and friendly—but will he stay that way?"—she comes to a conclusion or—"She guesses he will."

Still, the greatest test is yet to come—that is, finding the proper class rooms at the proper time.

Such confusion and the poor little Freshie's head spins like a top. Oh, why are there so many rooms and queer that those bells always ring so much?

"Oh, how I wish I was back in the Eighth Grade" she sighs, distractedly.

But, after several weeks of school she is decidedly glad to be a Freshman!
