FIRE IN ROYALTON.

Andrew Jungbauer Loses His House, Barn, and Other Property.

At about 10:30 o'clock last Monday morning, while Andrew Jungbauer was at work in his field, he noticed his straw stack was on fire, and at once ran to the house, but before he could get there his stable was ablaze, and all of the contents, consisting of timothy hay and farm tools, was being quickly consumed. He at once directed his attention to the granary, and tried to save some of his grain, having about 175 bushels of wheat and 214 bushels of oats, but the fire spread so rapidly that he succeeded in getting out but a very small quantity. His house then caught fire and burned, together with its contents, only a small amount of clothing being saved. Two fat hogs were roasted alive in their pen, and his buggy, harness and wagon were also burned.

Mr. Jungbauer has been on his place only a few years, but has worked hard while he was there, and was just getting in such shape that he could realize something on his labor. All his buildings were built of logs, except the granary and summer kitchen, which were frame—but it was a home, and would have answered for a few years, until he could erect new buildings.

His neighbors should turn out and lend a helping hand and give him a few weeks of encouragement, as well as more substantial help, for when we interviewed Mr. Jungbauer, he was feeling very blue and down-hearted. He estimates his loss on buildings, machinery, farm tools, household furniture and other property at about $1,000, with no insurance whatever.

After the flames died down Mr. Jungbauer tried to gather up some of the wheat and oats, but he says that but little was good for anything.

A Fight With Water.

On Monday afternoon a few members of the fire department got out the engine for the purpose of filling the cistern under the engine house. After the cistern was filled, the boys thought they would have a little sport, and went down to where Street Commissioner Sexton was grading the streets. Attaching two nozzles, they proceeded to wet down the roadway, with James Hurley and Chas. Griffith as nozzlemen on one line of hose, and Jos. Thomas, the captain of the company, and W. J. Gottry on the other nozzle. After throwing water for a while, Captain Thomas thought it would be a fine joke to wet down James Hurley, and accordingly directed a stream against the nozzlemen on the other line of hose. In making the assault Joe had not the same chance of seeing where he was throwing the stream that Mr. Hurley had, who held the stream on the side of Captain Thomas' and Will Gottry's heads until they were compelled to drop their nozzle and run. The bystanders all say it was a battle royal, in which the Irish beat the Dutch. The nozzlemen enjoyed it as well as the bystanders, although they were all wet to the skin.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 26, 1898. The managers of the democratic party are not indorse the absurd charges that individual democrats have been making concerning the conduct of war. The Campaign Book issued by the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, which is supposed to state the party's attitude on all the issues of the campaign, does not even mention these charges. This shows as plain as it can be shown that the democratic managers know that before election day the Commission, which has already begun the work of taking testimony, will have made it perfectly plain to everybody that there was nothing in the general conduct of the war that was not creditable to the republican administration.

Nothing could show the attitude of President McKinley towards the investigation of the conduct of the war, just started, more fully than his own words to a member of the investigating commission: "I feel that the American people have committed these boys to my hands, and if anybody has wronged them, I want to find it out." The following gentlemen compose the investigating commission: Gen. G. M. Dodge, of Iowa, Chairman; Col. J. A. Sexton, of Ills.; Capt. E. P. Howell, of Ga.; Maj. Gen. J. M. Wilson, U. S. A.; Hon. Chas. A. Denby, of Ind.; Ex-Governor U. A. Woodbury, of Vt.; Ex-Gov. J. A. Beaver, of Pa.; Gen. A. D. McCook, of N. Y., and Dr. P. S. Connor, of Ohio. It has not been decided whether the commission will do all of its work in Washington, summoning such witnesses as may be able to give information, or will later visit some of the camps. There is work enough to keep them in Washington for a while, anyway. Daily sessions will be held, and work pushed to a conclusion as rapidly as possible.

Hon. Binger Hermann, commissioner of the U. S. Land office, who represented an Oregon District in the House for twelve years, thinks the republican gains in the extreme West, this fall, will surprise those who accept the apathy in Maine and Vermont, which resulted in a large stay-at-home vote, and a consequent reduction of republican majorities, as representing the general condition of the republican party. Mr. Hermann has recently returned from an extensive trip through the west, and his knowledge of the people and conditions in that section, make his judgment trustworthy. He said: "This country fought with brilliant success, a great war since President McKinley's election; the West, fiercer with enthusiasm over our territorial acquisitions in the Pacific, and enjoying an era of great crops and a plentiful money supply, will be heard from emphatically in November. I think the casting up of votes out there will be a surprise to nearly everybody."

The conference of Gov. Holcomb and Col. Bryan, at Washington, has added to the belief of the republicans that Nebraska is coming back to the republican fold this year. The following from Mr. E. P. Meyerhoff, is a fair sample of the talk of Nebraska republicans seen in Washington: "There is very decided decline in the free silver sentiment in Nebraska, and I do not think the state could be carried again on that issue. Mr. Bryan, too I think, lacks a great deal of having his former popularity, and many men who voted for him in '92, would not support him if he should again head the democratic ticket." It is believed that Gov. Holcomb told Col. Bryan that he feared republicans would carry the state, and that if they did, his chances for again heading the democratic Presidential ticket would not be promising.

Nothing more than amusement is felt in Washington about the story that Aguirre, the head of the Philippine insurgents, intends to drive our army out of the Philippines and turn the island over to Germany. Admiral Dewey and Gen. Otis are not men to be driven by any country's soldiers, and the idea of them being driven by the rabble, which composes the insurgent army, is too ridiculous to be entertained for a moment, and that Germany has any idea of openly assisting the insurgents in any movement against the Americans is not at all probable.

Nothing official has been given out on the subject, but it is known that the request of the Spanish Military Commissioners to make a six months job of evacuating Cuba, has been very positively refused. The Spaniards have been courteously, but firmly told that the evacuation of Cuba must begin not later than October and must be completed before the end of December. It is probable that a considerable body of American soldiers will be in Cuba before the first of November, and that the entire army of occupation will be there by the first of December.

Capt. R. W. Austin, U. S. Marshal for the Eastern District of Tennessee, now in Washington, said of public sentiment in this state: "The most popular man with Tennesseans is President McKinley, whose course in the war won for him the approbation of men of all parties. The idea of retaining every acre of conquered territory is favored in our state. The opening up of Cuba and Porto Rico will be of immense advantage to the South, for it will give us a splendid market for our coal and iron, flour, and other products. To many we are in favor of building the Nicaragua canal, the construction of which will add millions to the revenues of the Southern states."

MEADOW LAWN.

Miss May Smith was thrown from a horse, and received quite a severe shaking up.

Mr. O. Fassett and family, of Elmwood, Wis., are visiting with Mrs. R. E. Smith and friends.

Three of the boys who went out to thrash Dakota, have returned home. They seem to feel like the Princeton team—satisfied.

WHEN BEEF WAS HIGHEST.

EDITH PIERRE.—In reply to the query of the Meadow Lawn correspondent, in your last week's issue, as to when beef was the highest, I would answer that, according to all authorities at my command, it was when the cow jumped over the moon. The mists of antiquity effectually conceal the exact year in which this great rise in beef occurred, but it is generally conceded that the cow and Mother Goose were contemporaneous, so that it must have been some time in the sixteenth century.

THE DREYFUS AFFAIR

Facts on Which All Its Details Must Necessarily Be Based.

Noble Work Done for the Imprisoned Captain by His Devoted Wife, Col. Picquart and Novelist Zola.

[Special Correspondence.] Much has been said of late about the Dreyfus affair which is not only interesting to Frenchmen but the world at large. No other subject of the day is perhaps quite as fascinating, either. It illustrates clearly the peculiar conditions existing in the French republic and demonstrates that up to a few weeks ago the army and not the civil laws governed the people of France.

The facts to which all the details in this celebrated case must be based have been summarized very cleverly from the original documents, for the New York World under seven heads, as follows:

1. Capt. Albert Dreyfus, of the French army, was in 1894, by a secret document—a handwritten memorandum of French military secrets of no importance or value, alleged by one of the subordinates of Col. Paty du Clam to have been found in the wastebasket of the German ambassador.

2. This memorandum was the army's experts contend, in a handwriting identical in all essential points with the handwriting of Dreyfus. The opposition experts contend that it was in the handwriting of Maj. Esterhazy, a French military spy.

3. To influence the court-martial two secret documents were laid before them, but not shown to Dreyfus or his counsel. These were two letters written by the military attaché of the Italian embassy at Paris and referring to French secrets sold by a French spy.

4. The army now admits that one of these letters referred to another person and not to Dreyfus, and both the Italian attaché and the German attaché, to whom the words, have pledged themselves convincingly that neither letter referred to Dreyfus, and that they had had no dealings whatever with him.

5. In 1896, two years after Dreyfus' condemnation and when the agitation for a retrial began in earnest, Col. Henry who had just become the head of the intelligence bureau, forged letters purporting to be a third in the Italian attaché's series. In this forged letter Dreyfus' name occurred in full. This forged letter was put forward as the conclusive proof that Dreyfus was guilty. Confounded recently with charge of forgery, Col. Henry killed himself, and it is accepted that suicide is confession.

6. When Paty du Clam was promoted in 1894 for catching and convicting Dreyfus, Col. Picquart became the head of the intelligence bureau. He was dismissed for collecting proofs that showed or tended to show that the bordereau was in the handwriting of the French spy Esterhazy and that Esterhazy had sold French secrets to the Germans and the Italians both before and after Dreyfus was arrested and imprisoned.

7. The explanation put forward by the army and the government for Esterhazy's published letters denouncing France and for his selling secrets is

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Chippewa Indians on the Leech Lake reservation are still selling in a manner which forbodes trouble. The strained relations commenced when, over a week ago, the Bear Island Indians resented one of their chiefs who had been arrested by United States Deputy Marshal Morrison. The Bear Island pillagers are very clamorous, and the chief, when handcuffed, had only the words "Chippewa language, 'Where are all my boys?' and in a few moments he was released. The same evening a number of Indians went over to Walker, procurator whiskey and tried to run the town. They were held in check, however, by the Walker police. Last week the Indians held an informal council and resolved to ignore Uncle Sam and the government of the "Great Father," and they further resolved that they would burn down all the houses on the reservation this winter to cut dead and down timber, when such camps are run by half-breeds or Indians who do not belong to the Leech Lake reservation. It is feared there will be trouble, as the Indians are growing more insolent every day.

Paul H. Baker.

Charles Stone, of Minneapolis, is a man who pays his bets. Mr. Stone has been a staunch republican for four years, and this summer he was a firm adherent of Van Sant. He had been on the gubernatorial nomination, and his sporting blood being aroused, he entered into an agreement with a supporter of William Henry Eastus that if the said Eastus carried Hennepin county, he would cut off his first finger. The other party to the deal promised if Van Sant carried Hennepin to sacrifice his digit in the same heroic manner.

When the returns of the Hennepin county primaries came in, and the Eastus majority rolled up unceasingly, Mr. Stone did not hesitate. He had given his word, and his word should be kept. With a firm step he walked into the back yard, and seizing the family hatchet, which had oftentimes been stained with the gore of hapless chickens, he laid the first finger of his left hand upon the chopping block, and with one fell blow the deed of desecration was done. The first joint of the devoted finger lay severed from its parent member, an offering to the ghost of the Van Sant boon.

Assessment Values.

The state board of equalization has raised the assessment on yearling cattle $1 to $7, on 2-year-olds, $1 per head, making the valuation from $10 to $10 per head, and on cows $3 per head, making the valuation $12 to $14 per head. The valuation of oxen was also increased $2 per head, making it from $17 to $19 per head. In St. Cloud the assessment on cattle was raised 30 per cent. In Duluth it increased an increase to 10 per cent, and Saak County 10 per cent. These three towns had local boards of equalization. The general assessment of Stearns county was raised 60 per cent.

Noted.

While the wife of Senator C. K. Davis was going over the Northern Pacific coast the Pacific coast roller climbed on the truss rods as the train was leaving Glyndon, and attempted to crawl through the window in the stateroom she was occupying. Mrs. Davis warned him away and the fellow made some threatening remarks. On an open stretch in the seat Mrs. Davis had a revolver. She thrust that in the would-be robber's face and he dropped from the rapidly moving train to the ground.

Found Gold.

Two Boston mineralogists sent to the Rainy Lake gold district by the Banking firm of Francis Bier & Co. returned after an examination of the placer deposits in that country. They report placer diggings of very profit. The character found there, discovered by digging south from $4 to $50 a ton. The existence of placers in the Rainy Lake section has always been a debatable question.

First Spanish War Pension.

The first Spanish war pension was granted Mrs. Robert Sinclair of St. Paul. Her son died at Camp Hansey. Mrs. Sinclair will receive $12 per month and $2 per month for each of two minor children until they become 16 years of age.

Minnesota Deeds.

In the last fiscal year the state has patented to purchasers 99,778 acres of land in 999 parcels. The year before it was 32,192 acres in 304 parcels. A little over half was school land, with smaller amounts from the university and permanent improvement lands, and lands transferred from the latter account to the school or university fund.

A Wallenberg was burned to death in St. Paul in a fire that destroyed the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Oscar Gibblen.

A movement is on foot to test the legality of the law by which the governor is authorized to appoint county commissioners for Cass county for two years. It is claimed that in good faith when Cass county was organized the commissioners should have been appointed for only two years, and under the approaching election.

Henry W. Bartlett, of St. Paul, has filed a petition in bankruptcy.

Burglars took 2300 worth of goods from the hardware store of Wm. Harrison at Burnsville.

The war department announces that Col. Hayes, of the 13th Minnesota regiment, has been promoted to be a full brigadier general.

The state board of equalization has placed the value of each dog in the state at $7.

Who in St. Paul police state that they are still trying to find the murderer of Arthur Middleton, the tea merchant, who was killed in his store the night of Dec. 6, and that suspicion rests upon two burglars who robbed the man for his money.

According to Promise. "I'd like to have this shoe mended," said the customer, hurriedly removing it from his foot and looking at his watch. "Yes, sir," replied the shoemaker. "Has it ready for you about four o'clock this afternoon?" "Shoes repaired while you wait," and I expect to wait for it.

"All right, sir. If you want to wait here, rather than at home, I've no objection. You'll find a late novel over there on that table."—Chicago Tribune.

The Whirlwind of Time. "I heard quite a compliment for you," said the young woman. "A friend of mine who heard you speak in Washington said you had a wonderful presence."

"Well," answered Senator Sorghum, rather gloomily, "things go by his and starts in this life. They're predicting a noteworthy absence for me in a year or so."—Washington Star.

His Way of Doing It. "And he walked over the waters," said the Sunday school teacher. "Now, none of you boys can walk over the waters."

"I can, miss," said one Oliver, holding up his hand. "None," said the teacher. "Yes, I can, miss," said Oliver, earnestly. "So can you if you go by the bridge."—Sketch.

A Good Appetite Secured. Blinks (at the ferry)—Hello, Jinks, where you been? Jinks—Been spending a couple of weeks in the country. Got board on a farm for eight dollars a week. Blinks—You don't say so. How do you feel? Jinks—Hungry as a bear.—N. Y. Weekly.

IN THE STILL SMALL HOUS. Enraged Parent—What! Not marry my daughter? Why, sir, you have sat with your arm about her hour after hour. The Young Man—Yes, that was to keep her from singing.—The Gentlewoman.

Paying the Fiddler. Mrs. Newlywed—It was just six months ago to-day, love, that you asked me to be your wife—but horses—why do you grow pale and tremble? Mr. Newlywed (gaspng feebly)—Why, that dod-blasted six months' note I gave for the engagement ring will be due one day after to-morrow, then! I'd forgotten all about it!—Puck.

His Importance. "I suppose," said Mr. Meekton's wife, "that you attach great deal of importance to yourself?" "No," he answered with conciliating gentleness. "I don't go on attaching a great deal of importance to myself just now. There's no need to. I did that when I married you, Henrietta."—Washington Star.

Taking Careful Chances. Paddy—Kiverful, they say, I married again. This is his fourth wife. Duddy—Kiverful, I'd better be careful. He'll get caught some day. Paddy—Get caught? Duddy—Yes! he'll marry a woman who will live.—Boston Transcript.

NOT UP WITH THE TIMES. "I hear yers to give a party, Mrs. Hodgman?" "Yes, Mrs. Mullanig, I am, and I've been everywhere tryin' to get some of that 'pink tea' ye reads so much about, and I'm afraid, unfortunatly, I can't get nothin' but the old-fashioned green."—N. Y. Truth.

He Got Her. "Humph! growled the multi-millionaire, "so you want my girl's hand, do you? Have you lots of enterprise?" "Well," retorted the hardy swain, "I'll enter the only daughter of just about the richest and meanest man in these parts."—N. Y. World.

A Girl of Today. Father—But, my dear, I thought you had promised to marry that young gentleman. Daughter—Oh, no, papa. I only said that he could be engaged to me if he wanted to.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Must Be a President. "Do you know when old dottoxy first came here he was too poor to buy a ticket and had to walk to the depot?" "Yes, and now he's too rich to ride on a ticket and has to ride on a pass."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Not an Impres-sionable Man. She (in business for herself)—"Do you think you can learn to love me?" He (a deputy sheriff)—"Oh, some day I may have a statement made for you."—Philadelphia Record.

Habits of Snakes. City Boarder (with monstrous propensity)—Are there any snakes around here? Jersey Farmer—Only around the fruit trees, hum!—N. Y. Weekly.

The Power of Power. "You're putting me back by making passes, don't you?" "Well, I have known railroad officers to hypnotize legislators by making passes."—Town Topics.

THE REASON WHY.

Enraged Parent—What! Not marry my daughter? Why, sir, you have sat with your arm about her hour after hour. The Young Man—Yes, that was to keep her from singing.—The Gentlewoman.

Paying the Fiddler. Mrs. Newlywed—It was just six months ago to-day, love, that you asked me to be your wife—but horses—why do you grow pale and tremble? Mr. Newlywed (gaspng feebly)—Why, that dod-blasted six months' note I gave for the engagement ring will be due one day after to-morrow, then! I'd forgotten all about it!—Puck.

His Importance. "I suppose," said Mr. Meekton's wife, "that you attach great deal of importance to yourself?" "No," he answered with conciliating gentleness. "I don't go on attaching a great deal of importance to myself just now. There's no need to. I did that when I married you, Henrietta."—Washington Star.

Taking Careful Chances. Paddy—Kiverful, they say, I married again. This is his fourth wife. Duddy—Kiverful, I'd better be careful. He'll get caught some day. Paddy—Get caught? Duddy—Yes! he'll marry a woman who will live.—Boston Transcript.

NOT UP WITH THE TIMES. "I hear yers to give a party, Mrs. Hodgman?" "Yes, Mrs. Mullanig, I am, and I've been everywhere tryin' to get some of that 'pink tea' ye reads so much about, and I'm afraid, unfortunatly, I can't get nothin' but the old-fashioned green."—N. Y. Truth.

He Got Her. "Humph! growled the multi-millionaire, "so you want my girl's hand, do you? Have you lots of enterprise?" "Well," retorted the hardy swain, "I'll enter the only daughter of just about the richest and meanest man in these parts."—N. Y. World.

A Girl of Today. Father—But, my dear, I thought you had promised to marry that young gentleman. Daughter—Oh, no, papa. I only said that he could be engaged to me if he wanted to.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Must Be a President. "Do you know when old dottoxy first came here he was too poor to buy a ticket and had to walk to the depot?" "Yes, and now he's too rich to ride on a ticket and has to ride on a pass."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Not an Impres-sionable Man. She (in business for herself)—"Do you think you can learn to love me?" He (a deputy sheriff)—"Oh, some day I may have a statement made for you."—Philadelphia Record.

Habits of Snakes. City Boarder (with monstrous propensity)—Are there any snakes around here? Jersey Farmer—Only around the fruit trees, hum!—N. Y. Weekly.

COL. ALBERT DREYFUS.

court-martial, convicted of treason. He was condemned on a single document—a handwritten memorandum of French military secrets of no importance or value, alleged by one of the subordinates of Col. Paty du Clam to have been found in the wastebasket of the German ambassador.

2. This memorandum was the army's experts contend, in a handwriting identical in all essential points with the handwriting of Dreyfus. The opposition experts contend that it was in the handwriting of Maj. Esterhazy, a French military spy.

3. To influence the court-martial two secret documents were laid before them, but not shown to Dreyfus or his counsel. These were two letters written by the military attaché of the Italian embassy at Paris and referring to French secrets sold by a French spy.

4. The army now admits that one of these letters referred to another person and not to Dreyfus, and both the Italian attaché and the German attaché, to whom the words, have pledged themselves convincingly that neither letter referred to Dreyfus, and that they had had no dealings whatever with him.

5. In 1896, two years after Dreyfus' condemnation and when the agitation for a retrial began in earnest, Col. Henry who had just become the head of the intelligence bureau, forged letters purporting to be a third in the Italian attaché's series. In this forged letter Dreyfus' name occurred in full. This forged letter was put forward as the conclusive proof that Dreyfus was guilty. Confounded recently with charge of forgery, Col. Henry killed himself, and it is accepted that suicide is confession.

6. When Paty du Clam was promoted in 1894 for catching and convicting Dreyfus, Col. Picquart became the head of the intelligence bureau. He was dismissed for collecting proofs that showed or tended to show that the bordereau was in the handwriting of the French spy Esterhazy and that Esterhazy had sold French secrets to the Germans and the Italians both before and after Dreyfus was arrested and imprisoned.

7. The explanation put forward by the army and the government for Esterhazy's published letters denouncing France and for his selling secrets is soon after his arrival at his place of exile he wrote to Mme. Dreyfus, "I rely upon you to solve this horrible mystery." Then this faithful wife, who had offered to share her husband's awful fate and was prevented doing so by the French government, set to work to free the captain, or at least to secure for him a new trial. She went to Berlin and flung herself at the feet of the emperor. One word from him, she pleaded, would release her husband. "Say," she prayed, "that the German embassy received no information from Capt. Dreyfus." The emperor said the word she asked for, but it was of no avail. Next she visited the emperor of Russia, who took more interest in the case and did what he could to help the pleading wife. Next the pope was drawn into the affair, and also the queen regent of Spain. All of these eminent persons used their influence to secure a reopening of the case, but with no success. Still the work which Mme. Dreyfus did was bearing good fruit. The newspapers continued to fight about Dreyfus. Zola and Max Norian took up the cause of the big people in Paris. Count Esterhazy was tried on a charge similar to that on which Dreyfus was convicted, and although he was found guilty, making the valuation from $10 to $10 per head, and on cows $3 per head, making the valuation $12 to $14 per head. The valuation of oxen was also increased $2 per head, making it from $17 to $19 per head. In St. Cloud the assessment on cattle was raised 30 per cent. In Duluth it increased an increase to 10 per cent, and Saak County 10 per cent. These three towns had local boards of equalization. The general assessment of Stearns county was raised 60 per cent.

Noted.

While the wife of Senator C. K. Davis was going over the Northern Pacific coast the Pacific coast roller climbed on the truss rods as the train was leaving Glyndon, and attempted to crawl through the window in the stateroom she was occupying. Mrs. Davis warned him away and the fellow made some threatening remarks. On an open stretch in the seat Mrs. Davis had a revolver. She thrust that in the would-be robber's face and he dropped from the rapidly moving train to the ground.

Found Gold.

Two Boston mineralogists sent to the Rainy Lake gold district by the Banking firm of Francis Bier & Co. returned after an examination of the placer deposits in that country. They report placer diggings of very profit. The character found there, discovered by digging south from $4 to $50 a ton. The existence of placers in the Rainy Lake section has always been a debatable question.

First Spanish War Pension.

The first Spanish war pension was granted Mrs. Robert Sinclair of St. Paul. Her son died at Camp Hansey. Mrs. Sinclair will receive $12 per month and $2 per month for each of two minor children until they become 16 years of age.

Minnesota Deeds.

In the last fiscal year the state has patented to purchasers 99,778 acres of land in 999 parcels. The year before it was 32,192 acres in 304 parcels. A little over half was school land, with smaller amounts from the university and permanent improvement lands, and lands transferred from the latter account to the school or university fund.

A Wallenberg was burned to death in St. Paul in a fire that destroyed the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Oscar Gibblen.

A movement is on foot to test the legality of the law by which the governor is authorized to appoint county commissioners for Cass county for two years. It is claimed that in good faith when Cass county was organized the commissioners should have been appointed for only two years, and under the approaching election.

that she did it in the regular course of business, the better to get hold of the secrets of other governments. The explanation of the resemblance of the handwriting of the bordereau to Esterhazy's handwriting is that Dreyfus, knowing Esterhazy's handwriting, imitated his handwriting in the letter he received himself.

Thos. F. Bayard, jurist and statesman, died at Earlston, Mass., yesterday afternoon, in the seventieth year of his age.

The political pot, which has been merely simmering in Pine county for the past few weeks, will begin to boil in earnest to-morrow.

The joint discussion between Hon. Chas. A. Towne and J. Adam, in the October number of Bede's Budget, is hot stuff, and makes mighty interesting reading.

Lynn Hanson has succeeded in raising the Spanish cruiser, Maria Teresa, and says he can also save the Christobal Colon, and is casting a wistful eye towards the Vizcaya and the Oquendo.

While the investigating committee has been investigating Secretary Alger, the Secretary has been investigating some of the military camps, and he says that the cause of much of the trouble complained of is blamable to the soldiers themselves.

The State Board of Health requires from this time on that the quarantine for diphtheria shall continue for four weeks from the time of the appearance of the disease on any patient, or, in lieu thereof, that quarantine be regulated by bacteriological examinations. With the bacteriological regulations, there must be two negative reports, from a responsible laboratory, upon smears taken from the throat of the patient by some responsible person. The time for the quarantine of scarlet fever shall be six weeks, and quarantine shall be relaxed then, only on condition that the process of desquamation is complete.

At the Republican state convention held at Saratoga, Teddy Roosevelt received the nomination for Governor of New York by a vote of 552 to 218 for Black. The platform adopted includes the administration of the law, and reviews the proceedings of the last two sessions of the Legislature. The platform unqualifiedly and vigorously endorses President McKinley's administration. One of the most important planks desires in favor of the retention of the Philippines islands, and against the return to Spain of any conquered lands. Another plank recommends the passage of a currency bill, which shall regulate the government paper money as the basis of a gold standard.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman says: Lumbermen should by this time learn to call no wood worthless. As population in this country increases and the forests decrease, timber that once was thought fit only for fire wood or the brush heap is found to be good filling for some niche in the lumber trade. It was not long ago that in the west, white pine was the only good building lumber and black walnut the valuable cabinet lumber. Oak that was not wanted either as interior finish or cabinet wood is now the most popular wood for that purpose. Norway pine, once despised, is now prized. Hemlock follows Norway. Cottonwood follows poplar and gumwood follows cottonwood. It will not be surprising if jackpine and tamarac would come to the mill later on. Certainly if these woods were within easy reach of English markets they would be manufactured into something more valuable than fire wood.

An exchange very truthfully says: Every one in a while a paper reaches the editor carrying about two columns of home ads and a column of editorial grandiloquently refusing advertising from merchants in a rival town. The publisher who refuses legitimate advertising at regular rates is a poor business man. The publisher who refuses to insert ads for a business firm in another town under the mistaken idea that he is doing injustice to his town should reverse the situation. Would a merchant in his own town pay him higher rates for advertising merely to reach the same people when he could get the same service in another paper for the same money? The publisher's space is his stock in trade. He has the right to sell it at regular rates to whomsoever will purchase it, and the local merchant who objects is too narrow-minded to patronize a newspaper anyhow.

A writer in the October number of the Ladies' Home Journal shows how easy it is to establish and maintain public libraries even in the small country towns. Co-operation of effort under capable, enthusiastic direction, it is pointed out, will bring the sought-for results. The article details with exact directness the best way to proceed, even suggesting entertainments by which money can be raised for the library fund. At a sum of money cost the writer makes it clear that every small town can enjoy the benefits of a good library.

A preacher in a near-by town is said to have announced that he would disseminate a family scandal from the pulpit, and as a result every seat in the church was filled long before time for church service, many standing in the aisles, and a look of satisfaction on the faces of the congregation. The shrewd master of the flock then proceeded to discuss on Adam and Eve—Exchanging

The Mora farmers are now coming thick and fast to the mill with wheat. On Monday there was over 300 bushels brought from Kanabec county. These men say that they can get better treatment here than at any other mill with which they could deal, and the roads being much better, they being able to make the round trip in two days, while it takes three or four days to go to any other mill.

People make no mistake by following the advice of the Northwest Yeast Co. to try the sample of yeast-foam left at their door. This yeast has been on the market for the past twenty years without a rival worthy of the name. There are many imitations of this celebrated yeast, but only one Yeast-Foam. Be sure you get the genuine. There is no other yeast as good as Yeast-Foam.

John Armstrong, who has been visiting his brother Arthur's family, and clearing and improving his farm three miles northwest of this place, on the Pokegama road, departed on the 19th inst. for St. Paul, where he secured a position as station agent on the Great Northern road. John is a first-class operator, and never has to be a great while without work. His many friends here will be pleased to know that he has a good position.

R. C. Stanley's pony, Bess, would have carried off first money in the races at Pine City last Wednesday, had she not bolted the track on the first heat when running three lengths in the lead, and ran three miles into the county. As it was, she only secured third place. This will probably lead to a race between Stanley's and the Pine City ponies for big money, however.—Sandstone Courier.

On Wednesday morning Geo. Payne received a postal card from his son Daniel, who had left from this place, and went with the third regiment to Georgia. Dan has been very sick with typhoid fever, this being the first card that he has been able to write for about four weeks.

He said that it would be six weeks before they would let him come home, as they were very strict, and would not let them leave until they were strong enough for the journey. Dan's many friends will be pleased to learn that he is improving.

POPULAR MUSIC CO., Indianapolis, Ind. Archie Allen, brother of Rube Allen, our flour mill owner, arrived here on Saturday, to spend a week visiting his brother and friends. Archie is a member of Company L, Twelfth Regiment Minnesota Volunteers. He went with the 12th to Chocomauga, where he was taken with malarial fever, which ran into typhoid. He would not go into hospital, but remained in his quarters until he got so bad that they sent to his home in Minneapolis, where he arrived four or five weeks ago, and since getting home he has improved every day. He will report at St. Paul Oct. 21st, and go with his company to New Ulm, where the regiment will go into camp. Archie's many friends in this place were glad to see him.

S. T. McDowell returned home on Saturday last from Fairfax, where he had been for the past couple of weeks, starting up a grist mill, recently completed by the firm for which Mr. Allen, Sr., is agent. In the Fairfax newspaper they give Mr. McDonald a good send-off as a miller, and were anxious to secure his services. But Mack is too badly stuck on Pine City to make a change, and says that there is no place like home. The mill he started up was of the latest pattern, and has a capacity of between seventy-five and one hundred barrels daily. The second day after the mill was started, Mack ran it at a hundred barrel clip, and the firm that purchased it was more than pleased with the work done.

On Tuesday morning at about a quarter of eight, as George Payne, guard at the village jail, was sweeping out, as his back was turned to the door of the jail, Patsy Linnehan gave him a shove and then ran by him, going around the corner of the jail and back of the school house. George told him to stop or he would shoot, but Patsy kept on running until he got to the southwest corner of the school house, where he slipped and fell, and by the time he was up George had him and marched him back to the jail, and placed him in one of the cells, where he will remain until after his trial. Sheriff Hawley was lenient with the boys, and allowed them to walk around the whole inside of the jail, he keeping a double guard on them at night, and George Payne as guard during the day. John Linnehan and James Cameron continued eating their breakfast as if nothing had happened. They might have both gone out and ran away, as the door was left open.

DON'T BE FOOLED!

The market is ruled by the Rocky Mountain Tea. To protect the public we call attention to the fact that our grade mark, printed on every package, is the genuine one. For sale by all druggists.
