PEOPLE OF OUR OWN TIME.

The king of Sweden and Norway is noted as an admirable linguist. The king of Saxony is one of the most approachable of European sovereigns.

With the recent death of Edgar Brehm, the youngest son of the famous naturalist, the family has become extinct. Brehm was 62 years old. The late Philip D. Armour once said: "I am no talker. I made my fortune by learning to keep my mouth shut. When the teeth are shut the tongue is at home."

LIEUT. MABEL C. HUNT.

A Bright Salvation Army Lassie, Who Knows How to Keep Her Corps in Good Health.

Ogden, Utah, Jan. 23, 1901 (Special)—The Pacific Coast Division of the Salvation Army, whose noble work in the interests of the human race is known so much for in this western country, has its headquarters in this city. One of the brightest and most enthusiastic workers in Lieut. Miss Mabel C. Hunt. Everyone knows how these devoted people parade the streets day or night, exposing themselves to all kinds of weather, that no opportunity may be lost of rescuing some poor unfortunate from sin and suffering. In some cases, their recklessness in thus exposing themselves has commented upon as almost suicidal. Their answer to such criticisms invariably is their untiring faith in the Divine injunction to "do right and fear not." Lieut. Hunt explains one of the means she employs to keep her "Soldiers" in good health, as follows:

"I have found Dodd's Kidney Pills of great value in cases of Kidney and Liver Trouble, and Diseases contracted from severe colds. Several of our ladies and lasses have been repeatedly exposed to cold wet weather and rain, and have spoken for hours out of doors, often with wet feet and chilled to the marrow. As a consequence of this exposure, Pulmonary Trouble, Rheumatism and Kidney Disorders often ensue. In such cases, I always advise Dodd's Kidney Pills, for I have noticed better results, quicker relief, and more lasting benefit from the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills in such cases, than from all other medicines I know of combined. They cleanse the blood, regulate the system, and destroy disease." A medicine which can do what Lieut. Hunt says so positively Dodd's Kidney Pills do is surely worth the attention of all who suffer with any form of Kidney Trouble, Rheumatism, or Blood Disorders.

ROAD & FARM IMPROVEMENT.

ONE-HORSE SCRAPER.

A Servicable Implement, Although It Can Be Made at Home at a Trifling Expense.

The one-horse scraper illustrated is easily made, at little cost. Take an old iron frame, double-shovel plow to the blacksmith, and have him cut and bend the side piece of the frame which held the rear shovel, so as to bring both shanks even. On the shanks bolt a piece of one-quarter or three-eighths-inch sheet iron about is inches wide and three feet long, bending the iron to fit the shank. If given the same pitch the shovels had, it makes an excellent grader for finishing up roads, opening and filling ditches, etc. If the iron is not quite equally shaped, use a hardwood board of suitable size, beveled at the bottom edge, and bolt on a steel plate, made from the blade of an old crescent saw.

THE ROAD QUESTION.

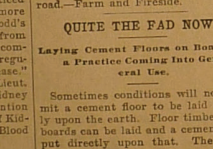

When Properly and Fairly Presented Farmers Take a Lively Interest in Its Discussion.

The most entertaining and effective advocate of good roads I ever heard was a quiet little fellow who discussed the matter of the question. He first began by denouncing extravagant expenditures and riding rough-shod over the farmers, and the farmers were that the town was benefited equally with the country by hard roads, and therefore the expense should be equally shared. He then argued the matter thoroughly, and had become an advocate of hard roads through noting their effect on property. He had seen large lying contiguous to a hard road rise in value five to ten dollars an acre soon after the completion of the road. He then showed the actual cost a mile of the road, and how that cost was paid without distressing anyone. He showed that the cost of maintaining a hard road is only a mere fraction of the cost of maintaining our present style of dirt roads. The large amount thus annually saved goes toward paying the cost of building the good road, so that road taxes would be but little higher while the bonds are being paid than at present. Then he showed how drop to next to nothing. He further showed how most of the farmers could pay quite a portion of the tax by hauling the material, helping to lay the road. He presented the entire matter so plainly that a child could understand it, and he won many farmers to the good road side. He stated that they would have no particular kick to offer if they were assured positively the every cent of money raised for the purpose would be honestly expended in building the road.—Farm and Fireside.

QUITE THE FAD NOW.

Laying Cement Floors on Boards is a Practical Coming Into General Use.

Sometimes conditions will not permit a cement floor to be laid directly upon the earth. Floor timbers and boards can be laid and a cement floor put directly upon them. The plan shown in the illustration will be found excellent. Lay the floor timbers and on these put boards, leaving a space of an inch between each. Lay a batten beneath these cracks will keep the soft cement from running down through them. When hardened, the cement will hold much better for base filled cracks.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Crop and Market Reports.

The farmer should know the prices in market of everything he buys and sells. It is just as important that he keep himself well informed as it is for the merchant to do so. The latter endeavors to buy to advantage in order to make a profit, and the farmer is benefited equally as well when he knows the condition of the markets. The crop reports are also useful, as they give the area in certain crops and from time to time inform the farmer of the prospective yields.

Opium Beds in Alaska.

Authentic news comes from Juneau that opium in large quantities has been discovered on Chigachigot Island, 60 miles west of that city. Geologists and mineralogists have scoured the coast for several years in the opinion, believing that there were extensive beds of opium on the northern coast, but until now their efforts have been in vain. There is a great demand for opium of the fertilizing kind in California for vineyards and fruit ranches.

VALUE OF TURNPIKES.

Improved Condition of Country Roads Has Helped the Cotton Planters of the South.

The building of turnpikes, which has been active only of late years over the entire southern portion of the United States, and which has brought about much improved roads for public conveyance in all sections, and notably in the territory immediately contiguous to Memphis, has resulted in the planters and country merchants sending in a much larger percentage of their cotton on their wagons instead of turning it over to the railroads for transportation. There is nothing that is so beneficial to the planters of the south as the good roads for the easy marketing of their produce, and the farmers within a radius of 30 to 40 miles of Memphis have learned that these roads represent a great deal of saving to them on their cotton crop in that they make it possible for them to send their cotton into the city without too much strain on their teams and without too much wear and tear on their wagons. At the same time it is a reasonable proposition that since the roads have been improved as they have the planters and the merchants to market their cotton at this point can have much larger loads than they could before the turnpikes were extended and multiplied as they are in this district.

In the early history of the cotton trade of this district was marketed from the railroads facilities at that time amounting to almost nothing. The wagons offered the only solution of the question of getting their cotton to this city, and, although there were no turnpikes, the cotton was brought here and large loads of groceries and provisions and other necessities of plantation life were carried back.

With the growth of the extensive network of railroads entering Memphis quite a change took place. This meant the solution of the problem of marketing cotton, and the wagons were largely relegated to the rear. The prices of cotton were high and the amount paid in freight for transportation infinitesimally small compared with the value received for the staple when sold. The farmers jumped at the conclusion that the railroads were too slow, and that the method was too expensive. They resented too much the wear and tear of the running gear of their wagons and only a small portion came in this way.

The reduction in the price of cotton within the last few years and the fact that transportation rates were not reduced in proportion to the value of the staple made those owning cotton in this district, within a certain radius of the city, cast around for a new solution of the problem, and which they were faced with. And the building of the turnpike proved the solution for which they were looking. These roads made possible for larger loads to be hauled, for less wear and tear on the wagons, for less strain on the teams, and for quicker time. These roads made it possible for the railroads beat.

Turnpikes have been gradually increasing in the neighborhood of Memphis for the last 15 years, and with these the people living along these roads have gradually increased the amount of cotton coming to this city. The turnpikes lately extended to Colverville, Tenn., has caused the merchants and owners of cotton in that town and between here and there to bring almost their entire holdings to this market on wagons, before that time the bulk of the crop found its way to market on the railroads passing through Memphis. The same is true of Holly Springs and the Hernando district, and other instances could also be given, but these will suffice.

The turnpikes have made it possible for the holders of cotton to fight the railroads on their rates by acting entirely independent of them in bringing their cotton in on their wagons. The latter is much the slower way, but there is generally some advantage necessary to bring about reforms of any kind, and the farmers and planters along the turnpike roads do not mind making the fight whenever they find it necessary.

The turnpikes and the railroads have both come to stay, and since the latter are being gradually extended are continually tapping new territory, the percentage of cotton brought in over the turnpikes, as the former is steadily increasing. The higher prices of cotton promised the farmers this year may make them willing to pay the freight, but with the present high prices, judging from the experience of the last two years, there will be a marked increase in the amount of cotton finding its way to this market on wagons.—Memphis Scimitar.

Unprofitable Dairy Cows.

One of the hardest things to get farmers to do is to cull out from their herds the unprofitable cows. The farmer who carries on his business in a thoroughly scientific manner will be all the time culling out the animals that he believes to be unprofitable. Some of the heifers that are kept year after year in the hope that they may become profitable. Yet some of that development coming in their orders can be so easily seen that they can never be good milkers or producers of any amount. If they are used for breeders they are not likely to produce offspring that are unprofitable. The animals that are unprofitable must be culled out and disposed of.—Farmers Review.

BLOOD AND NERVE REMEDY.

Will Give You The Strength and Vigor of Perfect Manhood, Renew, Vitalizes and Invigorates Weak Men.

Old before his time! A broken-down, miserable wreck—weak, nervous, discouraged!

The world to him seems a place of mist, peopled with ghoully beings, whose fitting and to fro about their daily tasks serves but to irritate him. He sneers at healthily amusements, and finds no comfort or pleasure in life.

He thinks and he does not know it. He drags about, and therefore thinks he is well. He is despondent and peevish, and weak, and he does not know that there are merely signals—some from the stomach crying for aid—others from the nerves beseeching strength—others from the great life-current—the blood—meaning that it is so impeded and clogged with impurities that it cannot move.

And all others like him, will find immediate relief in Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy. This is just what it was intended for. It never fails to make weak men strong and vigorous, puts new life, vim, strength, power and energy into them.

Dr. Greene's Nervura is New Life, Hope and Strength for Weak Men.

Mr. James D. Strain, electrician for the Houston Electric Co., of Lyons, Mass., says: "When a man has been sick and weak for so long, he does not know where to turn for relief. I had been weak for some time, and one day I was told of a medicine called 'Nervura.' I got only a few hours sleep at night. No more. I was in a terrible condition, and I was much alarmed. I went to Dr. Greene's Nervura, and I found it was a wonderful good done by taking of the Nervura. I feel much better, and I am able to do my work. I will, therefore, recommend it to all who are in my condition." I have never seen a man so well, thanks to this splendid medicine. I have never seen a man so well, thanks to this splendid medicine. Womens Reading Club.
The Womens Reading Club held an open meeting at the residence of Mrs. Dr. R. L. Wiseman on Wednesday evening. At about eight o'clock the company commenced to gather and by nine o'clock the house was crowded.

The first thing on the program was coffee and macarons served by the Misses Holland and Hoagland. Miss Donnelly and Miss Sullivan two friends of Mrs. Wiseman's, of St. Paul, were in attendance. Miss Donnelly favored the guests with the following vocal selections:

"I Love You Dear and Only You," from Burgomaster. "Jewels of Asia," from Gerlach. "You, You, Dear," and "Because I Love You Dear," by Hawley, between the different numbers on the program. Miss Donnelly has a strong, sweet voice and her singing did much toward the entertainment of the evening. Major W. W. Cooley recited an original poem by Col. J. F. Stone entitled "Daniel," "The Cricket on the Hearth," and Conversazzinyou by request. All of the Major's selections were rendered in his pleasing style. Mrs. P. W. McAllen also recited "Brown Get Your Hair Cut," and a selection from Dickens "Christmas Carols," which was also well received as Mrs. McAllen's selections always are. After the recitations and singing, cards were passed around containing a Floral Love Story, with blanks to be filled out with the name of plants and flowers. Mrs. G. J. Albrecht came the nearest to making out of one flower wrong getting the name of one flower wrong. Luncheon was then served consisting of ice cream, cake and candies, after which all departed for their several homes voting the open meeting of the Womens Reading Club a grand social success.

DEAN, MINN., APRIL 15th, 1890.

MATT J. JOHNSON CO.,
West Superior, Wis.
Gentlemen: I am pleased to inform you that Matt J. Johnson's 6088 has done wonders for me. I was taken with a severe attack of rheumatism, this confined to the back for two months. I went to Crocker & Hawley's store on truck and Mr. Hawley gave me a bottle of 6088 and wanted me to try it. As I had been suffering from rheumatism for the last three years and I would be a severe test for the remedy. I had not taken half a bottle before I went to work and when I had finished the bottle I was entirely free from rheumatism. Thanking you and your agents, Messrs. Crocker & Hawley, for putting me in the way of a cure, I am Yours Very Truly,
J. H. NEILL
