WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, January 12th, 1903.
Anti-trust legislation, the consideration of a Cuban treaty, a beet-sugar convention and a diplomatic reception at the White House have served to make the past week in Washington replete with interest. History has been made rapidly. Senator Hoar having introduced his now famous anti-trust measure has made a remarkable speech in its support. Attorney General Knox has forwarded to the Judiciary committee of Congress his views as to the character of legislation essential to the proper control of the trusts and has supplemented them with two bills, which were introduced on Friday by Representative Jenkins. Congressional sentiment in regard to trust legislation has, at the instigation of the President, undergone a remarkable change and even some of the more conservative senators now admit the possibility of some revision of the statutes bearing on this subject.

There remains little doubt but that the House will enact two of three measures in accordance with Mr. Knox's views on the trust question. One will be favorably reported by the Judiciary committee today. It provides for the facilitation of court procedure in cases brought against trusts by the Attorney General. Two others now in the hands of the committee on Judiciary, and drafted by Mr. Knox, provide respectively for an amendment to the Sherman law which shall make the grantor of rebates on transportation charges culpable and imposes for such violation of the law a fine of $5,000. It further provides that the recipient of such rebates shall forfeit the privileges of having its products carried in interstate commerce and forbids common carriers from carrying the products of any corporation which sells its goods at cut prices with a view to destroying competition; the second provides for the establishment of a commission which shall be bi-partisan and which shall have full power to enforce the Sherman law as it is now proposed to amend it. The fact that neither of the Knox laws contains any provision for that publicity so strongly advocated by the President is the occasion of much surprise.

The Senate has practically defined its position as follows: If the House can frame and pass one or more simple measures, merely amending the present statutes, which will call for little or no debate and which can command the practically unanimous support of the republican members of the Senate, the latter will attempt to enact them. Otherwise, the Senate will not have sufficient time to accomplish legislation for trust control. The Statehood bill is still dragging along. Almost ever since Congress reconvened Senator Nelson has been making a speech which he announced on Thursday would take several days more and then the chamber, worn out with its labors, adjourned until today.

The coal situation has come in for considerable attention from the Senate during what is called "the morning hour," the interval between noon and 2 p. m. Several bills have been introduced removing the duty on anthracite coal and Senator Lodge offered a measure suspending the duty for the next ninety days. All have been referred to the Finance committee, however, and it is unlikely they will again see the light of day. A sharp and eloquent debate between Senators Vest and Aldrich was precipitated by a resolution offered by the former instructing the Finance committee to prepare a bill removing the duty on anthracite. Senator Aldrich reminded Mr. Vest that the democrats imposed a 40 per cent duty on anthracite coal in the Wilson-Foreman bill, to which Mr. Vest replied that they were forced to by traitors in their own ranks.

Later Senator Vest referred to an interview in which the late Nelson Dingley is quoted as having said that the Dingley rates had been made purposely too high so as to permit the negotiation of reciprocity treaties without injury to American industries. This called forth a glowing tribute to Mr. Dingley from Senator Hale.

It is impossible to foresee the end of the Statehood controversy or to foretell the result. Both sides claim to be confident but Senator Beveridge and his committee appear to be afraid to precipitate a vote. Senator Quay assures your correspondent that he is ready for a vote at any time and that he has enough affirmative votes pledged to insure the admission of the three proposed states. To some members of the Senate the prolonged discussion is a relief as it serves to forestall unwelcome legislation.

One day last week the handsome public library which Mr. Andrew Carnegie presented to the City of Washington was formerly opened. Mr. Carnegie was here and made an address, after a few remarks by the President, in the course of which he paid a very delicate compliment to Secretary of State, Hay. Referring to Mr. Carnegie's generosity the President said, "These gifts are most happy in two ways—they indicate that the giver has neither a hard heart nor a soft head." A few moments later Mr. Carnegie said, referring to the President, that "the head of the greatest republic on earth had risen to most enviable eminence in the republic of letters" before he had received the higher distinction. Then, leaning towards Mr. Hay, Mr. Carnegie said, "But here is one who was a prince in the republic of letters before the nation claimed him."

The long leave of absence granted to Dr. von Hollenben, the German Ambassador to the United States, which it is announced is due to the latter's ill health is known in Washington to be due to thorough dissatisfaction by his government with the manner in which the Ambassador has administered his official duties. His reports to his country on every subject has been replete with inaccuracies and in all questions of judgment Dr. von Hollenben has invariably chosen the wrong course or made the wrong conclusion. His absence will prove a source of relief to the administration which was in constant fear that his blundering would result in some serious misunderstanding between this Government and the United States.

Last Friday evening at Rath's hall occurred one of the most enjoyable social events of the season, at which time the newly elected officers of the A. O. U. W., and D. of H. were installed. Vocal solos were rendered by Miss Bessie Lambert and Arthur Olsen, which were very well received, both having to respond to encores. The work by the drill team of the D. of H. was very good and the ladies are deserving of great credit. After the installation, the floor was cleared of chairs, etc., and a dance was participated in by those who wished. A beautiful supper was served at midnight.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pine City Mercantile Co. was held last Saturday, Jan. 10, when the usual routine of business was transacted and the election of officers took place. As you will notice below the only change in the officers is in the secretary and treasurer's office, Mr. Nichols having taken the position formerly held by Mr. Brown, who just recently severed his connection with the company. A large business has been done the past year and the report was very satisfactory to all, and we hope that prosperity will be as great or greater in the future than it has been in the past.

(Capt. E. L. Seavey came down from his lumber camp near Independence the fore part of the week. He reports logging very expensive this winter owing to the fact that the snow came before the swamps were frozen, and in order to make roads a crew of men had to pound down the snow so that it would freeze, for as soon as the crust is broken the snow freezes and makes a good road.

Earnest Esty, of Stillwater, foreman for Jas. McGrath, who is logging on upper Snake, spent Tuesday between trains in this place while enroute from Wyoming to Willow River, from which place they haul their supplies, and where he had been to buy a load of horses to be used in the woods. He reports that Mr. McGrath lost three valuable horses in shipping from Wyoming a couple of weeks ago, being trampled to death in the car while trying to lay down, and Mr. Esty says the car looked like a slaughter house when it got to Willow River.

The mail train which should have arrived at 10:55 a. m. did not arrive here on Wednesday until 6:35 p. m. owing to the condition of the track between Hugo and White Bear Lake. A special left Hugo in the morning about seven o'clock and broke in two, one of the journals breaking and tearing up the track for seven miles. The railroad company had all the section men from Wyoming to St. Paul besides a large crew from the wrecking train at work, but even with all this help the train was seven hours late.

Rufus A. Hoyt spoke in the M. Several months ago a contest was begun by the pupils of the 7th and 8th grade arithmetic classes for prizes to be awarded January 9th. Alice Daley received the highest mark in the 8th grade and was presented with a neatly bound volume of Longfellow's "Voices of the Night." Robt. Swendenburg was the one who was envied on that day by his classmates as he had a standing of 87 per cent and received an illustrated copy of Longfellow's "Courtship of Miles Standish." The arithmetic classes are quite weak and it was supposed by the teacher of the same, that this would be an easier method to pursue than retaining pupils after hours.

J. E. Norstrom made a trip to our neighboring village, Cornell, yesterday.

Geo. Dahl came home Wednesday from Quamoy where he is employed at the saw mill. A break down at the mill afforded him the trip home.

Misses Annie and Tillie Elaner arrived Saturday from St. Paul and are enjoying a short vacation at home. They were very agreeably surprised on the evening of their arrival by having a host of their friends drive up and lustily announce that they had come to spend the evening.

On Tuesday we observed on our principal highway an (to us) unusual spectacle. A very aged couple, presumably very close to 75 years of age, were traveling on foot from the direction of Pine City to some point west of here.

The Worst Fern.

Multitudes are singing praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over.

Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: "For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia, which grew into the worst form. Finally it was induced to use Kodol, and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia." Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat.

Stepped Against a Hot Store.

A child of Mrs. Geo. T. Benson, when getting his usual Saturday night bath, stepped back against a hot stove which burned him severely. The child was in great agony and his mother could do nothing to pacify him. Remembering that she had a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the house, she thought she would try it. In less than half an hour after applying it the child was quiet and asleep, and in less than two weeks was well. Mrs. Benson is a well known resident of Kellar, Va. Pain Balm is an anesthetic liniment and especially valuable for burns, cuts, bruises and sprains. For sale by J. Y. Breckenridge.
