GENSUS ENUMERATORS WILL APPLY

To Secretary of State P. E. Hanson Who Has Charge of the Work.

The census of the different towns, villages, cities and states of Uncle Sam's domain will be taken this year and the enumerators will begin their work June 1st. They are given one month in which to complete their work. The Census Bureau has been given good quarters in the new capitol and the work of mapping out the state has already been started. Those desiring to take the census should apply by letter to the secretary of state. The law covering the pay and qualifications is as follows:

In cities having a population of 5,000 and over, the enumerators shall receive $2 for each 100 inhabitants so enumerated.

In cities, villages and townships containing not less than 500 inhabitants nor more than 5,000 inhabitants, the enumerator shall receive $2.25 for each 100 inhabitants so enumerated.

In all other enumeration districts, except as hereinafter provided, the enumerators shall receive an allowance not exceeding two and one half cents for each living person so enumerated; provided, however, that where, by reason of difficulty of enumeration caused by sparseness of settlement of the district so enumerated, when said compensations of 2 1/2 cents for each person shall not, in the judgment of the superintendent of census, be sufficient to properly compensate said enumerators, the said superintendent of census may allow such enumerator in any such district not less than $2 per day, nor more than $3 per day of ten hours actual field work each.

No claim for mileage or traveling expense shall be allowed or paid to any enumerator.

The boundaries of all enumeration districts shall be along township and ward lines and no enumeration district shall contain more than two townships or wards, except in unorganized towns, in which unorganized towns, the Superintendent of Census shall fix such boundaries as he may deem best and proper.

In the appointment of enumerators, preference shall be given to properly qualified persons who are honorably discharged soldiers or sailors residing in their respective districts, and an applicant's political faith shall be no test of his fitness. Enumerators shall be appointed upon application only, made up on blanks prepared by the Census Bureau, and the superintendent of Census shall in appointing such enumerators be guided largely, by the applicant's fitness and qualifications for the performance of his duty, and that such applicant's petition shall bear the endorsement and recommendation of at least three or more citizens known to be of reputable business standing and of good character.

Saw Mill Victim.

Friday evening at about six o'clock Eddie Hempel, the 18-year old son of H. A. Hempel of Cornell, met with a very distressing accident at the Fraser saw mill, which is located on the Jarvis bay road leading toward Brookpark. The young man was busily engaged in sawing slabs when in some manner his left hand came in contact with the business end of the large saw, and the middle and index fingers were injured so that it was found necessary to amputate the members. His father and another gentleman accompanied the unfortunate youth to Pine City with all possible haste, and the operation was performed by Dr. Lyons in his modern operating room in the Hurley block. Mr. Hempel's injury is mending as fast as can be expected and he can thank that the accident did not prove more severe.

A BUILDING BOOM IS ON.

Pine City Will Have Substantial New Business Blocks and Residences This Summer.

The building season has been started in dead earnest in Pine City and before the season is over we will be able to boast of a number of new structures.

Among the principal buildings, that is those already in construction will be the Hurley, Smith and First State Bank of Pine County, blocks. The masonry work was started for the Hurley hotel addition this week and the structural work will be started as soon as possible. The addition will be two stories high to conform with the height of the old part and the building when completed will be 92 feet long, containing twenty-five sleeping apartments together with all the features of a first class hotel.

The Smith building, between Piper's furniture store and Pennington's mercantile store, is already under way of construction, the masonry work having been completed last week. This building will be 75x50 feet, one story high and will be used as a store house by Mr. Smith and also be occupied by the Jas. Hurley and son harness shop.

A cellar has been dug and a strong foundation laid under the bank building and everything is in readiness for the brick-layers to commence building the addition to the rear of the place.

Among other numerous structures that are sprouting up about town are two houses in the southwest corner of town. They are being built and will be used as tenement houses by Levi Arndt, contractor. Another dwelling house that will be ready for occupancy this summer will be owned by Mrs. Eldred on her property on the bank of Snake river and facing Main street. J. J. Madden has advertised for bids for a new brick veneer residence.

The Kowalek corner block has been remodeled into a brand new, up-to-date hospital and is already to be occupied by Dr. Lyons, who has leased the building.

School Notes.

Jessie Stephan and Eunice Fisher entered the 8th grade this week. Miss McKusick's room has a memorial day program in preparation. Plan to be present and see how they do it.

The Arbor Day proceedings were a shouting success and we have better than four dozen trees on the campus to show for it.

The supper given by the high school was a very successful affair though it occasioned considerable loss. The heaviest losers however seemed to be satisfied. They doubtless expected to recover their appetites before breakfast.

On Friday evening, May 12th, at Rath's hall, the Junior class will have a play entitled "A Box of Monkeys." Come, get your money's worth, laugh and grow fat. The proceeds will be used in part to defray commencement expenses and the rest will be used for the benefit of the high school.

Miss McFusick's pupils have a flourishing window garden started. Some pappas appear in Miss Barnum's room, and from Miss Day's windows peep a couple of geranium blossoms. May these promises of things to come be multiplied many fold. We have always believed the school room ought to be the brightest and pleasantest room that can be made of it, and anything that pupils and teachers may do to beautify it is worthy of the highest commendation.

The Enchanted Wood.

"The Enchanted Wood" an entertainment, by the school children and under the auspices of the M. E. church ladies, was well attended last Friday evening. The drills by the children were well executed and brought forth hearty applause from time to time. The enchanted queen, represented by Miss Hattie Pennington, made a good impression and rendered several vocal selections in a highly pleasing manner. Many of the principal characters performed in a commendable manner, but Willie Labodny as "Simple Simon" was the star actor in view of his easy action, stage presence and natural impersonation. I. H. Claggett, violinist and Nunean Nielsen, organist, favored the audience with several beautiful duets between curtain falls. Just before the close of the entertainment a "coon" male quartet consisting of Earl Hunt, Frank Gottry, Willie Labodny and Raymond Gottry, sang two popular southern melodies, which made a decided hit. They were instructed by A. W. Piper. The entertainment was the last of the Midland course which the ladies of the M. E. church scheduled for, and they are to be congratulated for their sincere work and success during the past season.

New School Building.

M. Poechman has exhibited the plans and details for a new school building in district No. 4 at Rock Creek. The plans are "home made" drawn and executed in blue prints by Mr. Poechman and they are a credit to his skill and proficiency in that line of work. No better work could be produced by any professional architect, and so far as harmony in conception between conception and execution it is perfect for the reason that Mr. Poechman is a builder himself and is able to combine theory and practise, which is a very important feature in erecting new buildings. The structure will be 34x50 two stories in height and of imposing appearance and when completed, it will be a credit to Rock Creek and Pine county. Mr. Poechman has also complete details and specifications and bids will be invited at once for the work. Rock Creek needs a new building and the school board is to be commended in their selection of Mr. Poechman to place and superintend the work.

POMPEIAN Massage Cream

Cleanses where Soap and Water Fail

Washing with soap and water makes the face look clean, but it cleans the surface only. It does not clean out the impurities in the skin that make it muddy and sallow.

Pompeian Massage Cream goes through the surface. It sinks into every pore—reaches and loosens all foreign dirt and impurities that lodge in the pores.

It is the only facial cream free from grease and that keeps the face free from it. Does not—cannot—promote the growth of hair on the face.

Price 50c and $1.00 per jar.

BLOOD IS SHED IN CHICAGO RIOT.

ONE MAN IS DEAD AND SCORES ARE WOUNDED BY THE STRIKERS.

The Death List Might Have Been Larger but for the Police. The Fighting is Fierce and Savage. More Policemen Wanted.

Chicago, May 3.—The death of one man and the injury of scores of others was the immediate result of yesterday's fighting between the striking teamsters and their sympathizers on the one side, and the police and non-union men on the other.

Men were clubbed and stoned almost to death within squares of police headquarters, and five miles away men were shot down in the street. At a hundred places between these two extremes of violence there were assaults and fights in the streets.

Blood was shed on State street in the heart of the fashionable shopping district and a furious riot took place almost within the doors of leading hotels of Chicago. Men were dragged from their wagons, beaten and stamped upon.

The mobs that followed the wagons on which they rode but for the splendid service rendered by the police the list of dead last night would number many times the actual number.

In several instances the men drew their revolvers and emptied them into the crowds that pressed around their wagons pelting them with stones, and throwing bricks and other missiles. The drivers especially were quick with their weapons.

Large numbers of non-union drivers called heavy clubs and they swung them with terrific effect.

Many men who were in the mobs that attacked the wagons were driven back from the clubs of the police, and of the wagon guards, but they were carried away by their friends and there is no chance of learning their names or of even identifying the number.

The Team Owners' association, which employs non-union teamsters, flatly refused yesterday afternoon to make deliveries to any of the firms now in the line of the strike, who ordered to do so by the Employers' association.

Four men were shot late yesterday afternoon at the intersection of California avenue. This trouble was the result of an attempt of United States Express company to deliver goods on the street, and without police protection.

During the day the employers had informed Mayor Dunne and Chief O'Brien that they intended to move 885 wagons of the strike, and different express companies and manned by non-union men.

THE KOCH TRIAL.

The State Introduces Some New Testimony that was Entirely Unexpected by Defense.

Mankato, April 29.—The hammer was prominent in the Koch trial yesterday. The state has planned to prove positively that the instrument of death belonged to the Kochs. In this case several new witnesses are in court.

Mr. Abbott, of counsel for Koch, stood in front of the witnesses and held in front of Redholm Dalms, a witness, two carpenter's hammers, one having the right claw broken, the other the left claw—and asked young Dalms to tell the jury which was the Koch hammer.

When Mr. Abbott held the hammer in front of him, Dalms, without hesitation, positively declared that the one which was found in Dr. Gebhardt's office, and which has been in evidence throughout the trial, was the one he had used many times in the six body. I had a great deal of pain in the region of my liver and the doctor said that organ was enlarged. My kidneys ached at so times that I could hardly stand."

"Didn't you give up and go to bed?" he was asked.

"No, I wouldn't. My head and my back ached dreadfully, but I obstinately dragged myself about, kept growing worse and finally ran down to almost nothing."

"First I tried a doctor, but he did me no good. Then I took all kinds of advertised preparations but nothing proved helpful until I began to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. As soon as I got them I knew that I had at last hit the right remedy for my case. The very first box did more for me than any other medicine I had ever taken. They gave me relief right away and in three months they positively cured me. I think I was severely and permanently injured. My health is as good as health in my life. I can say as much as present."

Mr. William A. Newman is a well-known Camden county farmer, living at Sagrada, Minn. His case was as follows: "I was test for my remedy, but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills met every requirement. Other remedies merely drive the poison of the grip into the blood, but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills drive it out of the system. They are sold by every druggist."

"Did you ever have a conversation with the defendant about Dr. Gebhardt?"

"Yes, sir, I did. It was some time in October in the Koch trial, when only he and I were present."

"What was said in that conversation?"

"He said that Gebhardt was a"

Mankato, Minn., May 2.—Testimony added yesterday in the trial of Dr. Gebhardt to prove that Dr. Gebhardt was the murderer, was tantamount to a fear, inspired by the receipt of a poison package, that some one sought his life.

Miss Lydia Schepelchuk, who was Dr. Gebhardt's office girl, told the story of the receipt of the package through the mail and of the manner in which she opened the package and ordered it at that time. The day was devoted by the state to an effort to prove that a previous attempt had been made on the life of Dr. Gebhardt, and that Dr. Koch was responsible for it.

Dr. Reinke went on the stand just before noon and told of seeing Dr. Gebhardt ten or fifteen minutes before 8 o'clock on the night of the murder. At that time Dr. Reinke said, Dr. Gebhardt was at work at his lathe polishing a plate. All of the lights were burning, and he saw the doctor except the room. The witness also described the circumstances surrounding the poison package as he knew them, and of the investigation following the homicide.

Dr. H. J. Vogel, who is a college chum of the defendant and had known him many years, was called by the state to testify in the case. Dr. Vogel testified that Dr. Koch borrowed from him on the day following the homicide. He described the scene on the defendant's hands when he saw Dr. Strickler examined them on Nov. 4 also the three knives which he knew Dr. Koch owned.

Mankato, Minn., May 3.—Important additional testimony which they gave at the first trial of Dr. Koch for the Gebhardt murder were made Tuesday by E. O. Hage, a banker of Hanska, and J. M. Thompson, Minneapolis & St. Louis station agent in that town.

The nub of Mr. Hage's testimony was that on Oct. 28, 1898, he saw Dr. Koch at the railway station in Hanska and at the same place a few minutes later he saw a package with a bunch of letters, which he said was similar in appearance to the poison package received by Dr. Gebhardt and exhibited in court.

Station Agent Thompson, on examination by General Chas. said that he remembered that a package was handed to him shortly after dinner some time after the murder. He said he did not remember the day and place exactly.

"To whom was it addressed?" General Chas. asked.

"I remember it was marked Dr. L. A. Gebhardt, New Ulm, Minn."

He described the box and said that his brother had thrown it into the mail car.

Mr. A. Carolus Kalbitz, president of the U. S. Grant university at Athens, Tex., has resigned. Her teaching life covers a period of 43 years.

THE END OF THE GRIP REACHED AFTER EIGHT YEARS OF COMPLICATED TROUBLE.

Defence, Hasting Scores in Head, Stomach, Blood and Heart and Debility Overcome at Last.

Mr. Newman certainly had a very tough time with the grip, and it is no wonder that he thinks that the remedy that cured him was so good. His case shows how profoundly grip poisons the system and how obstinately it resists all ordinary efforts to eradicate it.

"My case can be worse than Mr. Newman's for he had had heart and stomach troubles combined with great weakness. He recently said:

"The attack of grip which I had eight years ago left me in a very bad fix. I became nearly dead and my head ached continually and was filled with hissing and roaring sounds. My heart fluttered and had regular running-away spells. My stomach was so sore that I could hardly bear a touch on that part of my body. I had a great deal of pain in the region of my liver and the doctor said that organ was enlarged. My kidneys ached at so times that I could hardly stand."

"Didn't you give up and go to bed?" he was asked.

ROMANCES WHICH HAVE TAKEN WORLD BY EARS

Rose Harriet Pastor, a Jewish Maiden of the Ghetto, and Anna Bennett, a Pretty Telephone Girl, Win Wealthy Husbands.

FASCINATING DETAILS OF THE TWO LOVE STORIES

John Graham Phelps Stokes, Millionaire Clubman, Settlement Worker and Municipal Reformer, and E. R. Whitney, Wealthy Montreal Lumberman, Find Strange Affinities—Queer Pranks Which Cupid Has Played.

New York City.—What queer pranks Master Cupid plays at times! He draws his bow and lets his arrows fly, and lo, and behold, all the world passes to love and to hate.

Cupid knows that love has a universal language, and that it is potent to overcome every natural barrier. He knows that love passes not to reason why, but that it drives to do, and over do. It is he, in its assaults on the arch-enemies of the human heart. He knows that there are no races or class distinctions, nor social conditions or barriers which love cannot with apparent recklessness sweep aside. And because Sir Cupid knows all this full well, he darts to draw his bow and send his dart clearing the heart of a young man whose wealth is counted in millions, whose social position is of the highest, a Yale graduate and a club man, and the heart of a poor Hebrew maiden, a Russian Jewess whose life has been spent amidst the world's humblest, and who has rolled clouds year in and year out that the mother and five other children might have bread and shelter.

Cupid has strangely linked the proud name of John Graham Phelps Stokes and the unknown, yet euphonious name, of Rose Harriet Pastor.

How romantic is that! What fascinating "love" is it! It is just as if the character of some charming novel had stepped down into real life and were enacting a roll of which the boldest romance in his most extravagant flights might have conceived. A double bill. Two romances in real life which are stranger than fiction.

Humble Origin of Rose Pastor.
Twenty-six years ago Rose Harriet Pastor was born in Augustovo, Suwalk, Russia, a child of the peasantry Tolstol and Gorky have told the world about. Of this period of her life Miss Pastor says: "I was only three years old when I left Russia, but I think I can remember a little about it, just a very little, faint shadow of remembrance. Then there was London, where we lived in Whitechapel, and were very poor, indeed."

A chapter in her life which had its beginning in London in those early years had an interesting sequel in New York city recently, and reminds one of the fact that Pastor is not the real name of the young Jewess. Her father's name was Jacob Weislander, and about a year after their removal to London he was divorced from her mother, and all trace of the man was lost.

Finds Her Father.
Mrs. Weislander married a man named Pastor, and Rose took her step-father's name. He died several years ago, and the support of the family fell on Rose, the oldest child. When she moved to New York, about two years ago, and obtained employment on the Jewish Daily News, she set about to find her father. Her friends assisted her, and in about a month she discovered an old cobbler in a little shop on Scammel street. The name on the sign was "Yankee Weislander." Weislander was Rose Pastor's father.

Mrs. Pastor and her daughter sought the Scammel street place. The old shoe-

Cleveland, opened a law office and while waiting for clients wrote "The Fugitives," which was brought out last year.

Brighter Days.
And while John Graham Phelps Stokes was preparing for Yale, and leading the life of the rich, the Jewish girl with the eyes of the dreamer and the hair of Kossuth's "blessed Danosh," sat year after year at her bench, rolling the endless rows of cigars and dreaming, ever dreaming.

After 11 years her dreams found expression. She began to write bits of verse, and found a market for her work with the Jewish Daily News of this city.

A position was offered her on the paper, and she came to New York, relying on her own salary of $15 a week to support her mother and six younger children.

Five months after her arrival she was sent out on her first interview. To the aloof reserved girl it was a difficult task. She was sent to interview J. G. Phelps Stokes, of the University Settlement.

Only a month previous Mr. Stokes' sister Caroline had started the social worker by marrying young Robert Hunter, a settlement worker. Rumor had it that they were to establish a rival settlement at the University, and that Phelps Stokes would join them.

Beginning of Remarkable Romance.
Miss Pastor was sent to get a statement from Mr. Stokes, and here is the beginning of the remarkable romance. Her simple, modest statement of this incident and what it has meant to her, is as follows:

"It will be two years next July since I came to New York and soon after I came I went to work on the Jewish Daily News. The first interview to which I was assigned was one with Mr. Stokes. I did not want to do it. I pictured him as old and stiff. My editor frustrated me. When I was told that there was out of town, I was delighted. I will have to go again," said my editor.

"Again I received the same information that he was not in town, and was relieved. An interview was arranged, however, and as I went to keep the appointment I met Mr. Edward King, and induced him to accompany me.

"When I met Mr. Stokes I said: 'Oh, I did not know you were like that, and we fell to talking of many things that interested us both. In showing me around the building we stepped out onto a balcony, and as we stood looking down to the people, I noticed his expression, and thought how much he looked like Lincoln—the same kind of beautiful homeliness."

"As we have come to know each other and we have simply planned our lives together. That is all there is to it. I do not expect to change my way of living in any radical way. We will get an apartment on the lower East side if we can find one there with light enough. That is the only luxury we shall feel upon."

No Claim to Beauty.
What is there about this child of the Ghetto, this young Russian Jewess which should have taken the eye and captured the heart of the cultured, thoughtful social worker and reformer, J. G. Phelps Stokes? She is simple and cordial in her manner, and seems to expect the same qualities in those with whom she talks.

She is not beautiful, but there is that in her face which attracts and holds attention and interest, and a beauty without note. Her hair is of most striking thing as one first looks at her—abundant and full of waves and lights, she parts it, emphasizing her low, broad brow.

Her eyes are brown, and her face lights up in a wonderful manner as she talks. Quite as her ease, without embarrassment, apology or coyness, Miss Pastor talks of her past life, of her meeting with Mr. Stokes, of their subsequent acquaintance and the development of their attachment, and of the coming marriage on the anniversary of her birth, June 18.

The Man in the Case.
And Mr. Stokes views the circumstances in the strange alliance in the same matter-of-fact way. He seems to think nothing unusual in one of his birth and position and wealth finding a bride whose life and training had been so different from his own. Mr. Stokes is a young man who, since the completion of his college course, has been interested in settlement work and social reforms. He is a member of one of the oldest and proudest families of New York, and is said to have inherited $10,000,000 from his grandfather.

Years ago he voluntarily relinquished his social position with all its attractions, and the brilliant business prospects which his wealth and training opened up for him, and dedicated his money and his life to work among the poor, and in the ghetto, and now he has reared an imperishable monument to himself and incidentally won for himself a bride, who in spirit and purpose is at one with him.

Miss Pastor's View of the Ideal Man. It is interesting to know what his bride-to-be thinks of the man she is to marry. She draws the picture as follows:

"Mr. Stokes is a deep, strong thinker. His youthful face takes by virtue of its frank, earnest and kind expression.

"One glance at his face and you feel that Mr. Stokes loves humanity for its own sake, and as he speaks and with the sincerity that is the keynote of his character, you feel how the whole heart and soul of the man is filled with well-springed ideas. You feel that his phoretic speaking, he has seen his bleak young years with the blessing, 'vires caritatis a half million of men, and I love, six feet of the most thorough democracy. A thoroughbred gentleman, a scholar and a son of a millionaire, he is a man of the common people, even as Lincoln was. He is a plain man and makes one feel perfectly at ease with him. Nor does he possess that one great fault that men of his kind generally possess, the pride of humility. He does not flaunt his democracy in one's face, but when his democracy is mentioned to him, he appears as glad as a child who is told by an appreciative parent, you have been a good boy to-day."

The Romance of Another Type.
Such are the man and woman, and such is the network of romance which has woven itself into their lives and bound them together. As we turn to the Whitney-Bennett romance we find a very different type of love story. It savors more of the purely sentimental, affinity, and find the ordinary expressions of sentimental love crowded out by the deeper currents and purposes of life. The Christian and the Jewish maiden have last sight of all class, race and social conditions, and each has recognized in the other the complement of self, that something that inspiration, that sympathy, which will enable them both more earnestly and completely to realize their ideals in serving humanity.

But in the case of Mr. Whitney, of Montreal, the millionaire lumberman, and Miss Bennett, the pretty telephone came when the elderly millionaire ventured to ask Miss Bennett if he might take her to the theater after her day's work.

"If you meet my father and mother and they are willing," she said, very frankly.

"Nothing better," responded Mr. Whitney heartily, and that evening found him a caller over in Greenpoint at No. 213 Nassau avenue.

It was no mansion that he found. Instead, Miss Bennett's home proved to be a very modest little three-story wooden flat-house.

The Bennetts—father, mother and three sisters—lived on the top floor at that. Mr. Whitney found further that Miss Bennett's two sisters, Alice and Jennie, like herself, were telephone operators, and that T. V. Bennett, the father of the three sweet-faced girls, was foreman in the Fleischmann yeast factory at Greenpoint.

The First Theater Party.
There was a very pleasant call, and at ten p. m. Mr. Whitney went back to his hotel in Manhattan. Next evening a handsome cab dashed up in front of the modest flat-house, and out of it stepped Mr. Whitney. Now, calls are

MINNESOTA NEWS.

A New System.
A new system of accounting in the several state funds, which it is believed will reduce to the minimum mistakes and discrepancies in the disbursement of state funds, has just been put into effect in accordance with a law passed by the recent legislature.

Under the new system, the head of each department is required to prepare an abstract in triplicate, showing each item of expense, the person to whom it is payable, the amount and the fund. One copy of the abstract is sent to the state auditor, one to the state treasurer, and the third is kept by the head of the department.

The state auditor, under the new system, will issue his warrant covering the entire abstract, and the treasurer issues his check for each separate item. This is practically the same system as is provided in the law relieving the state board of control of the care of the state university and normal schools.

Burned to Death.
Mattie, the 3-year-old son of Robert Grana, eight miles south of St. Cloud, was fatally burned as the result of his clothes catching fire from a burning bonfire.

The father saw his son perish while at a distance. The boys flesh was cooked and terribly seared.

Eight-year-old daughter of Mrs. R. Richter of Hall Prairie, living about ten miles from Little Falls, was cremated by flames which destroyed the log house in which she was sleeping. The family occupied a log house, which has an attic sleeping room that was occupied by the child. Mr. Richter climbed a ladder to the attic window, but found the bed empty, the child having run down stairs in an attempt to escape.

Adulterations.
Wheat and corn starch are used in the adulteration of baker's and eating chocolate, according to the weekly report of the state dairy and food department. The illegal products are mixed with cocoa bean.

The department analyzed thirty-eight samples of cocoa and various grades of chocolate during the week, and found twenty-eight of them legal. Ten of the samples examined were illegal, nine were adulterated with wheat products, and one with corn starch. The illegal products were all manufactured by New York concerns, all the samples of articles sold by Minnesota manufacturers and wholesalers under their own firm names being up to standard.

Office But no Salary.
Although the bill creating a state fire marshal passed the legislature, some question whether provision has been made for the payment of the marshal's salary and expenses for the first year.

The law says that a tax is to be levied to meet such expenses of one-fourth of one per cent on all fire insurance premiums payable before the first of April in each year. Accordingly, there will be no income from the new tax till next April. It is an open question whether any other insurance tax money secured under the old laws, can be used to pay the new state fire marshal.

Freight Rates.
The state railroad and warehouse commission has begun to collect and arrange data to be used in making a readjustment of freight rates in the state, which was ordered by the recent legislature. It is probable that the preliminary work will take several weeks.

The commissioners have not fully decided just what plan to pursue, but the object of the readjustment, as ordered by the legislature is to prepare a uniform schedule of rates, in which the difference between a distance and another distance, given distance shall in no case exceed 3 per cent.

Festival.
The greatest Scandinavian festival ever took place in Minneapolis May 27, by Norwegians and Swedes alike, of the anniversary of the independence of Norway.

Gov. Johnson has accepted an invitation to be orator of the day, and for the first time in history a son of Sweden will deliver the chief oration upon this Norwegian holiday.

News Notes.
The new electric trolley line at Apple River Falls has been completed.

The state officials put into effect the new accounting system provided for by the recent legislature.

Burglars carried away between $400 and $500 worth of goods from the department store of R. L. Winesberg, Minneapolis.

Ed McDonald, a young man of Winona, lies in a critical condition as a result of a knife wound received in a mis-quip on the lake bridge.

The first boat to arrive in the Duluth-Superior harbor was the Swedish R. N. Saunders of the Gilbert Transportation company of Cleveland.

Two tramps worked a novel scheme on a Winona hotel, but were arrested by the board for several days without the payment of a cent.

Charles J. Haug, convicted of forgery in the second year, was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary by Judge Simpson of Minneapolis.

Indications are that shipments of iron ore this year will amount to 20,000,000 tons, says George E. Laybourn, state senator from Duluth.

The Wisconsin Central management announces that the lay-off from Owen, Wis., will be run through to Duluth within two years.

girl, is entirely different. Their romance is written all in love's most sentimental characters. A sweet voice floated over the wire, a pretty face seen through a pane of glass, a soft and susceptible heart, a courtship in flowers, and jewelry, carriage and automobile rides, theater parties and dainty dinners, a lovely old widow with a business friend at the Grand Union hotel. There was difficulty in getting his party of five. But it wasn't "Central" fault.

Instead of imitating the rather hasty tones of Mr. Whitney, as does the average Central operator giving him a "Busy" this operator on the other end of the line really tried to get the call for Mr. Whitney. So sweet was her voice and so charming in manner that the impatient business man at the other end was much impressed.

He got his party, an appointment was made and next day found Mr. Whitney at the hotel to transact his business. The interview over, again he sought the telephone. At the switchboard sat a charming young girl. Mr. Whitney gave her the number he wished, and when he heard her ask "1800 Cortland" over the wire, great light came over him.

Her Pretty Face.
At one end of the wire—the voice—it was the voice of the day before, when he had been so courteously treated over the wire. If the voice had pleased him, he would have handed her a card. He called delighted him. Mr. Whitney to call old, but he hasn't forgotten the gallantry of youth. In the twinkling of an eye he had recalled the incident of the day before, and the blushing girl cried up that it was her voice that he had heard over the wire.

Now Mr. Whitney is a man of decision. He admitted the pretty telephone girl and he decided that it would be a saving of time if he could be nearer. He had her wanted to use the phone. It isn't necessary to record it here that perhaps there were other influences that caused his decision.

At any rate, on the very next day there appeared on the register of the Grand Union the name "E. R. Whitney, Montreal." He took an expensive suite and the Astor House knew him no more.

Devotion Itself.
Every day found Mr. Whitney at the "Central" office of the Grand Union hotel. Not only could satisfy his wants as could Miss Bennett. They chatted pleasantly enough while he was waiting for his calls and finally the day not over numerous in Nassau avenue, Greenpoint, and his neighbors wondered. They didn't have long to wonder, because out of the house came pretty Miss Bennett in her demurest dress, she handed into the cab by the palliant Mr. Whitney. There was a delightful theater party for two in Manhattan, a little late-stets supper afterwards, and then the cab took pretty telephone girl back to Greenpoint.

With this as a beginning, the rest was easy. There came an automobile sometimes, and as often other hand-
... Messenger boys delivered flowers and notes. Occasionally a jeweler's clerk brought something in a velvet box to No. 213 Nassau avenue, Greenpoint, where jeweler's clerks are seldom seen.

Of course, all this attention meant but one thing—a proposal. Last week it came, and on Saturday evening when Miss Bennett put on her hat and wraps and hurried to the office, she found the hotel management that she had done her last day's work.

"I am to be married," she said.

That very name called up Mr. Whitney went to the office of the Grand Union hotel and asked for his bill. He paid it, and calling a cab drove over to the Hotel Astor, Forty-four street and Broadway, where he took suite No. 305. There he is now, getting ready for his wedding.

Loves Old Friends.
In her prosperity Miss Bennett has not forgotten her less fortunate friends of her "hello" days. The bridesmaid's wedding party to Miss Ida Schwinn, another telephone operator who presides at the switchboard of the Park Avenue hotel. Mr. Whitney called Miss Bennett to his home to provide herself with a bridesmaid's gown. But of this or her elderly fiancé's wealth Miss Bennett will not speak.

Telephone Gossip.
There are certain things which at the other telephone girls in New York have parties with, which none of the interested parties will venture to say any "Central," and she will tell you the gossip. These are the Mr. Whitney has already settled $100,000 upon Mr. Bennett and the signing of the papers; that her wedding ring will be a $5,000 antique; that Miss Bennett has received $200 for her bridesmaid's dress; and a diamond cluster ring for a souvenir; and that Mr. Whitney himself is one of New York's new unknown millionaires.

Mr. Whitney doesn't look his years. He is powerfully built, has a high forehead and has apparently many years yet to live. He is as sprightly and active as a man half his years. He made his money in asphalt and lumber.

Frank Froelke is the manager of the Rush City Base Ball club and it goes without saying that the club will do things this year for Frank is on to all the curves in the sporting field and will make the Rush City club what it should be, the best local club in the state—Rush City Post. If we only could take the foregoing for granted, Pine City's team would have to feel satisfied with being "second best" as a local club. Johnson and the Capitol Commission deem it appropriate that the annual meeting of the Minnesota Territorial Pioneer Association to be held May 11th, the forty-seventh anniversary of the admission of Minnesota to the Union, should be held in the hall of the House of Representatives in the new state capitol, St. Paul. The meeting will open at 10 a. m. sharp. Hon. F. G. O'Brien of Minneapolis, G. H. Hazzard, St. Paul, and Senator E. W. Durant, Stillwater, have been appointed committee on a program appropriate for the occasion. The present membership of the Society is composed of 3000 persons who were in the state on or before May 11, 1858. 208 new members have joined this year, and 125 paid assessments. It is expected a large number will attend this meeting, and many new members will enroll. Those interested in the early history of the state, entitled to membership, or that can furnish any relic of pioneer days for the museum at the Log Cabin on the state fair grounds, should communicate early with the secretary, Geo. H. Hazzard, 664 Gillilan Block, St. Paul, Minn.

Globe: "Joe Tack, a well known engineer, running on the Missouri Pacific between Wichita and Kiowa, lately appeared in a big one, with a picture, and when he was in the office today, we asked him about it. There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists, 75 cts.
