BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

The County Fair Will be a Hammer—Present Indications Promising—Interest Shown From Many Points Throughout the County.

From present indications the Pine county fair will be a very successful one.

Applications for space in the floral hall and for ground use have been received and are daily coming in, and in order to accommodate all, Supt. Rath has secured a mammoth tent from the state fair management to be used on the grounds.

What is even more gratifying than anything else, is the rapidity with which remaining stock is being taken up, and prominent and substantial farmers and business men see that to be a stock holder in the Society's holdings is a good investment.

The premium lists have been sent out. They contain a larger and more varied list than ever and no one having desirable articles for exhibition should be backward in going after premiums.

The race program is a good one and races are scheduled to occur on each day of the fair. All races must be three or more to enter and same number to start. The entrance fee is ten per cent of the purse. Attractions altogether too numerous to mention will be at the fair to meet the gaze of spectators.

In connection with this and for the benefit of those who have exhibited heretofore Secretary Griesley wishes us to state that all people holding premiums for 1904 can present orders to the treasurer, F. A. Hodge, and receive payment.

TUXEDO CLUB TOPICS.

Happenings of the Popular Summer Resort Served in an Interesting Manner.

Wm. B. Klein, of St. Paul, spent several days at the Club and left Tuesday morning for Sillwater where he will judge the poultry at the Washington county fair.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Albrecht, of St. Paul, are occupying a cottage at the Tuxedo.

J. B. Jones, manager and editor of the "Horseman and Stockman" of Minneapolis, is one of the latest accessions to the membership of the Club. Mr. Jones is not only authority on many matters pertaining to thoroughbred racing and farm stock but a fancier and breeder of aquatic and other fowls of which he has a fine collection.

Mr. John Faulkner closed a two month engagement at the Club on Wednesday in order to look after some personal matters, but will still be subject to call if desired by fishermen coming out to enjoy the excellent late fishing.

John Faulkner needs no eulogy. He is known to all the "Isaac Waltons" of the state, who pin their faith to his unerring skill, judgment and sagacity. He has proved an active and vigorous element in the Club and a potent factor in its success. He may be regarded as a permanent feature of the Club.

There was an exchange of courtesies between the Pioneer force and the Club this week.

First the yacht "Lois" bearing a jolly party of Tuxedontes on a moonlight cruise visited the campfire of the "Bachelor Rustle" (which, when prosecuted correctly, sounds like broncher's) and signaled for a landing. The party was regaled with hot coffee and steaming "Swaggin" which was greatly appreciated.

The next evening Messrs. Olson and Edwards returned the call, were given a sail and various other things that stand for good cheer and generous hospitality.

On Tuesday Messrs. Will Gottry and Otto Glasow of Medford, Wis., spent an evening at the Club and were royally entertained by the Manager who dished up some good stories from his Edition du Lux.

The secretary has in preparation an illustrated brochure, which will be issued soon. It will contain a map expressly prepared, covering about ten miles square, and showing the water courses and roads from Chegwataana dam to Cornell, a list of the present members of the Club, a history of its progress from its inception to the close of its first season, and much specific and accurate information. Also plans of the new building, dock and general improvements, and what the Club proposes to do for the comfort and pleasure of its members.

Odd Surgical Case.

Tuesday afternoon Dr. Stephan of Hinckley performed an operation upon Wm. Moland and the operation was an unique one, it was necessary and odd as it was successful.

Mr. Moland is a resident of the newly incorporated village of Finlayson and has been receiving treatment at Sandstone for the past two years. Consumption was the disease that had been diagnosed in his case but like all patients of a like nature he would not and could not give up.

Dr. Stephan was consulted, an examination followed and the operation resulted. The doctor cut a three-inch strip from the fifth rib in order to get at the diseased portion and took a tumor from the right lung. Mr. Moland is apparently getting along nicely and will be as sound as ever after the effects of the operation will have left him.

It was an exceedingly unusual operation and Dr. Stephan informed us that only after the most minute examination was he able to determine what something other than the dread tuberculosis was ailing the sufferer.

Although the operation was performed at the right time and under favorable conditions, the oddity of the case makes the doctor's wise and decisive action very commendable.

Hotel Leases Arrive.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuole and three assistants arrived last Saturday and have been busily engaged in preparing the new hotel for occupancy. They will formally take possession of the hotel rights tomorrow (Saturday) and everything will then be ready for patrons.

Every page of the Pioneer is interesting—Read It.

NEW ROAD GOOD.

Graded Road Leading to Cornell Completed—Gives Complete Satisfaction—Further Work to be done.

Travelers over the road leading from Pine City west to Cornell and Mora testify that the strip recently completed between the Jarvis Bay road and Cornell, in Pokegama township, is a very satisfactory piece of road work. The farmers interested in that certain territory affected and business men of Pine City have thus completed a task that should be beneficial to all concerned.

Subscriptions for the continuance of work on the road in question were taken from Pine City business men by a prominent Cornell enthusiast about a year ago and this financial assistance was not meagrely left by any means. The farmers in turn have worked well together and the question of "good roads" was a comparatively easy one to overcome.

An Austin Western grader was used on the road and its easy manipulation, strong and well adapted frame and powerful scope laid the dirt just where its operators wisely thought best.

A strip of the same road from J. E. Norstrom's place to Pokegama creek will also be graded, and work on the same will be started at once.

Is Fishway Entirely To Blame?

Emil Munch came up from St. Paul today to attend to some personal matters. He was surprised to learn that any dissatisfaction had been found in regard to the fishway at Chegwataana about which we published an article last week, and we were equally surprised to learn that a new fishway had been installed about a month ago.

We were informed that the old fishway was bad, very bad in fact, and the information led us to allow the publication of the article.

Something certainly is altogether wrong, somewhere, somehow; but whether it is an account of an improper fishway, disease, seining, stubbornness or wisdom on the part of the fish, fishing above the dam has been almost a dead sport this year in comparison to other seasons.

We are in hopes that the present fishway works properly and that it will prove satisfactory. What is wanted is fish and lots of 'em. But they must be taken in a sportsmanlike manner—and not seined. The latter word may mean a great deal and investigations along the line shores of Pokegama might reveal a cause for the scarcity of the finny tribe in those waters. Seining for fish is strictly against the law as is also dynamiting for the gammy aquatics and it is alleged that both are carried on to a certain extent. Stop it—out of respect for true and fair sportsmanship.

Wedded at West Duluth.

The following from the Duluth Herald will interest the friends of John F. Hawley, one of the popular and promising young men of Sandstone and a brother of Sheriff R. J. Hawley.

The wedding of Miss Rose Sullivan and John F. Hawley of Sandstone took place last Saturday evening at St. James Catholic church at West Duluth. Before the ceremony a musical program was given. Miss Clara Kenny and M. J. Filatrault sang and Miss Marie Tina, presided at the organ. The bride was attended by Mrs. Edward Noonan as matron of honor and the best man was W. J. Sullivan. The service was read by Rev. Father Aleick. Mr. and Mrs. Hawley left on the Thursday for an eastern trip and will return to Sandstone where they will be at home.

Changed Hands.

J. W. Spunauer has again taken possession of the city meat market, having bought out Zastrow Bros. Mr. Noubauer will be pleased to see all his old customers, and assured them the same liberal treatment as formerly.

The operations were conducted by Mr. Atwood last season for the first time but he did not get in a full winter's work for the reason that it was late in the season before he decided to do the logging under company supervision in place of by contract.—Sillwater Gazette.

Last year the English Bible society had the Bible translated into 13 more languages, making the total number of languages in which it may now be read 320.

The Italian government has taken formal control of the railway lines which have been operating under private corporations and which were last spring decided to return to government ownership.

The work of collecting the remains of the men of the British forces who fell in the Boer war has now been completed, in spite of the great difficulties necessitated by the enormous area to be searched. The number of graves opened was 2,480, and about 3,000 bodies were reinterred in the cemeteries at Pretoria, Johannesburg, Lydenburg and other places.

Few persons outside the Carnegie household have any right to Mr. Carnegie's solicitude for the material comforts of her husband. In past years the lady of Skibo looked after all sorts of minor business details. Recently his faithful spouse has relieved him of much worry in that direction. With her own hands she cooks his morning dish of porridge, and she does this by 7 o'clock every day, for Mr. Carnegie is always out about 7:30.

Dead Indians have been allotted more than 50,000 acres of the best land in the Utah reservation, according to R. G. Clark, Indian ranger and chief of the Indian police. This has been done, he declares, so that corporations or private persons should not influence the lands which are thus kept from actual settlers. Mr. Clark declares that there are not more than 1,200 Indians all told, and that the roll of reservations has been almost doubled.

Recent experiments with wide and narrow tires showed that on a clay road, thoroughly wet, a wagon fitted with two-inch tires produced ruin to the depth of several inches, while a wagon having tires four inches wide, and with the front axle shorter than the rear, so that the wheels did not load, produced a hard smooth surface on the road, and required but half as much pull as the narrow-tired wagon. From four to eight times as much force is required to start a load as to keep it in motion.

One of Mr. Rockefeller's paying philanthropists of which little is heard is the Great Jag line which he runs to somewhere east of Siber, carrying out wealthy young men to various and roystering provinces whose families prescribe abstinence for their own comfort and a good long process of sobriety up for the returning slimmer. He evidently has this fleet of great sailing vessels carries the blessings of Stand and to the Orient. Almost every week some big ship will glide just in the cabin and case oil in the hold clear from New York for Calcutta, Melbourne, or Auckland.

The old wood in the Lippincott mansion, Philadelphia, has been secured by musical instrument makers, who claim that they have found a treasure, in that the wood is not only seasoned, but is of a kind that is almost impossible to get nowadays. One of the foremost violin makers of this country made the discovery that the joists in the yellow mansion were of a quality of spruce wood, which is of a kind of rare quality for the rim and back of violins. He got a monopoly on the old wood, and while the wreckers were tearing down the structure he employed detectives to watch his prize.

A correspondent of a Philadelphia paper writes that the flies of that journal show that since January 1, 1905, there have been in the city 4,374 cases of typhoid fever with 654 deaths, the mortality being about 10 per cent of the cases. Up to the same date there had been 1,205 cases of yellow fever in New Orleans, with 214 deaths, mortality of about 17 1/2 per cent. Thus the yellow fever relatively is somewhat more fatal than typhoid while it lasts, but it ceases with the coming of frost. Last year there were 6,887 cases of typhoid fever in Philadelphia and 744 deaths.

People and houses are packed more closely together in New York City than in any other city in the world. Because it is an island and already well filled, little space remains on Manhattan for lateral growth; therefore the development in height, which continues rapidly and constantly, follows the line of least resistance, which is the vertical line. The new tenements, houses and apartment-houses are much taller than those built a decade ago. No more homes of the old "brown stone-front" type are erected; they do not make the most of the ground space which they occupy.

It is an interestingly demonstrated in the various states. In fact, they are the only ones that are really feared in captivity in practically any state. They will live without shelter, and can subsist on a hardy diet of bark and twigs during the winter weather, when the domestic animal would not survive. They are gentle and their parts are three. All this raises a question of considerable economic importance. The Pilgrims whom they landed on Plymouth Rock could sit at home in New England down to this day.

TOGO'S FLAGSHIP AND CREW LOST

FIRST-CLASS JAP BATTLESHIP CATCHES FIRE AND IS DESTROYED BY EXPLOSION.

Was Leader in Battle of the Sea and Present at All the Principal Engagements During the War—599 Lives Lost.

Tokio, Sept. 13.—The navy department announces that the battleship Mikasa, has been destroyed by fire, and the explosion of her magazine, causing the loss of 599 lives, including members of other ships who went to the rescue.

The fire started from an unknown cause at midnight, Sunday night, Sept. 10. Before the officers could be rescued the fire reached the aft magazine, which exploded, blowing a hole in the port side of the vessel below the water line, and causing the ship to sink.

An investigation was held to determine the cause of the fire. The Mikasa was the flagship of the Japanese navy, flying the flag of Vice Admiral Togo, the commander-in-chief. She was present at all the principal engagements during the war, and was on several occasions reported severely damaged. In the battle of the sea of Japan, she led the fleet in action, and her name is mentioned in connection with some of the most heroic episodes of the war.

In this battle the Mikasa was the heaviest loser of all the Japanese ships, having sixty-three killed and wounded. She approached nearer to the Russians than any other battleship.

The Mikasa was also the flagship of Admiral Togo after the great naval battle fought off Port Arthur on Aug. 10, 1904, on which occasion the Japanese flagship also suffered the most damage. During the fighting line. On that occasion the Mikasa had four officers and twenty-nine men killed, 31 officers and twenty-nine men severely wounded, and four officers and twenty-nine men fatally wounded.

Tokio, Sept. 13.—Admiral Togo was not on board the Mikasa when the disaster struck. She was at the time in the bay of Tsushima. Latest Casualty Report. London, Sept. 13.—The Tokyo correspondent of the Times says that the casualties resulting from the loss of the battleship Mikasa are five killed, 251 missing and 343 wounded.

HOLY WAR.

Tartars Begin Work of Extermination in Earnest—Children Thrown to the Dogs.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 12.—A holy war has been proclaimed in the Caucasus district of Zangazur and Ibraili, and the Armenians without distinction of sex or age.

The country is swarming with bands of Tartars under the leadership of their chiefs. Many thousands of Tartar horsemen have crossed the Rere-Bassian frontier and joined the insurgents in destroying Armenian villages. At the village of Mikend, three hundred Armenians were slaughtered. Dispatches say mutilated children were thrown to the dogs and that the few survivors were forced to embrace Islam in order to save their lives.

Britain Intervenes. London, Sept. 12.—There is reason to believe that the British government is actively endeavoring to prevent a rupture in the negotiations between the Swedish and Norwegian commissioners at Kristad. These efforts for the present take the form of friendly counsel to the presiding officer to exercise the utmost moderation at this critical time, but the advice is coupled with a firm intimation that Britain could not regard with equanimity "a forcible settlement of the Northern question."

This means that Britain feels that it could not remain a passive observer of war on the Scandinavian peninsula, which would wreck the power and prosperity of both belligerents, leaving them at the mercy of their mighty and ambitious neighbors to the east and south.

Seeks an Interview.

Oyster Bay, Sept. 13.—Isaac Schamus, a Russian Jew, 30 years old, was arrested here on Friday afternoon after examination before a justice of the peace was sent to Minola, L. I., to be examined as to his sanity. The arrest was made by a secret service agent, one of the personal guards of President Roosevelt.

Schamus, who resides in New York city, arrived here at 12:30 p. m. from New York, and soon afterwards had an interview with Mr. Harms, assistant secretary of the president. It desired to see the president and talk with him about the price of coal.

Irrigation. Washington, Sept. 6.—It is believed by engineers of the reclamation service that so far as engineering features and the people are concerned, the Williston, Nelson and Buford-Trenton projects rank next to the Dakota will be ready for construction next spring. During the latter part of the year a party of engineers arrived in North Dakota for the purpose of making a reconnaissance of the state for the irrigation project. Several promising places were found.

THE GRATITUDE OF NATIONS.

Probable Reception to M. De Witte and Baron Komura When They Arrive in St. De Witte and Tokio Respectively.

TONS OF POWDER ARE EXPLODED

Big Plant of the Rand Company at Fairbance, Pa., Ruined.

Ten Buildings Are Torn to Atoms—Nineteen Persons Known to Be Dead—Six Others Are Missing—Scores Injured.

Fairbance, Pa., Sept. 11.—All ten buildings of the Rand powder plant were torn to atoms, and probably 25 men were killed, scores were injured, many seriously, thousands of lives were imperiled, and dozens of houses were overturned by a series of terrific explosions along Saturday morning, which shook the country 20 miles around. Nineteen bodies have been recovered, 12 of which have been identified. Six persons are still missing. The dismembered parts of the dead in many instances were buried, identification of many was made by clothing alone. Many who were near the works at the time were badly hurt, and scores of persons in the village within a radius of half a mile were fearfully wounded.

Flesh Struck Everywhere. Small pieces of bodies were picked up all over the place. Almost a half mile out, and was with difficulty an office overseer, wet with blood, was picked up. One little boy carried to his mother a single part of a man's hand. All day at short intervals searchers would bring in bits of bodies or clothing. Some of these finds were carried in diphanos or buckets to the street.

Seven Explosions. There were seven explosions in all. Every one of the ten buildings was totally demolished. Not a vestige of them remains. The first explosion was at 10:15 a. m. and lasted four or five minutes. The packing house, pressing room and dynamite storage building were blown up, followed by two cars of dynamite standing in a nearby railroad siding, which were set off by a concussion from the powder mill explosions. Two other cars remained intact, and were with difficulty they were moved to a place of safety. Fearing that they would blow up, the work of rescue was abandoned temporarily.

For a mile around Fairbance buildings along the plant were blown up and at Uniontown, Pa., seven miles from the explosion, hundreds of windows have been broken. Damage was done at Conneville, Mount Pleasant and Scoble, and in hundreds of homes the dishes fell from the cupboards and pictures were thrown from the walls.

ELEVATED RAILWAY TRAIN IN NEW YORK CITY JUMPS THE TRACK.

Car Loaded with Passengers Falls to the Street—Twelve Persons Killed—Many Injured—Tramway Under Arrest.

New York, Sept. 12.—Twelve persons were killed and more than 20 injured when the second car of a Ninth avenue elevated train jumped the track and fell from the structure to the street at the junction of the Sixth and Ninth avenue. The accident, the worst in the history of the elevated railroad in New York, came when a south-bound train on the North avenue line was switched off to the Sixth avenue line at the Fifty-third street junction. The motorman, expecting a clear track on the line of the Sixth avenue, but disregarding the warning signal that the switch was open, rushed his train along at a high rate of speed. The first car swung around to right angle curves, holding the train on the Sixth avenue street and Ninth avenue. Monday. # NEWS OF MINNESOTA.

Oral-Bulishment.
Magistrate—You are charged with rushing up to this young lady, and kissing her against her will, and I sentence you to—
Prisoner—The charge is true, yr' honor; but she had been eating rye.
Magistrate—Then I sentence you to kiss her again.—N. Y. Weekly.

Ready to Eat Once.
Tramp—Please, mum, I've got a sick wife and 17 small children—
Housekeeper—I've heard that story for years.
Tramp—Then, mum, you probably have it by heart, and there's no need of the spoolin' my digestion by tryin' to tell it between mouthfuls.—N. Y. Weekly.

Change in Grades.
St. Paul.—Numerous changes were made by the state board of grain appeals at its annual joint meeting in Minneapolis last week.
The first discriminates against the scored or manipulated wheat, and is one which will be great benefit. The new rule reads: "Wheat scored or otherwise manipulated will not be considered in grading same."
Another important change is that relating to the pouring of grain into sacks. From seventy to eighty bushels, the flax, barley and rye shall be tested after it is cleaned. The test kettle shall be placed where it cannot be jarred or shaken. From seventy to eighty bushels two inches from top of kettle, pour into middle of same at moderate speed until running over, striking off in a diagonal manner with the edge of beam held horizontal.
Another important rule has been made concerning rye, providing that heavier rye shall be tested after it has been cleaned, instead of before cleaning. This will give the farmer a better showing to weight.
Selected spring wheat is done away with and made No. 4, making now six grades in all.
No. 1 rye is advanced from 55 to 56 pounds, and No. 2 from 53 to 54, still leaving it one pound below the Wisconsin standard, an advantage for the Minnesota department. No change was made in the standard for flax, although requests were filed, as the present standard was deemed satisfactory.
To stop the practice of mixing dirt with barley by eastern agents after it left Minnesota inspection, the rule regarding feed barley is changed. Strong requests came in along this line from Duluth. The new rule reads: "Feed Barley—No. 1 feed barley must test not less than forty pounds to the measured bushel, and be reasonably clean. No. 2 feed barley shall include all barley which is for any cause unfit for the grade of No. 1."

Wash of Cities.
St. Paul.—Minnesota has sixty-four incorporated cities as compared with forty-one in 1895, and but eight towns. This shows a loss in population since the last state census ten years ago, according to figures announced by the state census bureau.
The cities showing a loss are Blue Earth, Chaska, Hastings, Jordan, Le Sueur, Northfield, Waterville and Winona.
St. Paul has increased its population during the last ten years the most rapidly of all the large cities. The percentage of St. Paul's increase in population is 56.5, while Duluth is a little over 9 per cent.
Some of the smaller cities have made a remarkable growth. Erskine has grown from 784 in 1895 to 5,311 in 1905. Virginia also has made good progress, and Pipestone in the south has increased from 1,928 in 1895 to 3,822 this year.
The seventy-one incorporated villages show a total population of 100,789, as against 87,000 in 1890, a gain of 38,090, or about 44 per cent. Chatfield, Genocoe, Kasson, Lanesboro, Spring Valley and Winnebago City are the only villages showing a decrease in population.
There are 135 municipalities in the state having a population of more than 1,000, as compared with 103 ten years ago.

Good Showing.
Applicants for teachers' certificates made a better showing this year than the most recent of them, and in previous years, according to the compilation of state examination papers made by J. W. Olson, superintendent of public instruction. The percentage of those who passed was 52.36, as compared with 48 per cent last year. The number of examination papers written were 31,939.
Grammar proved to be the greatest stumbling block this year, 50.4 per cent failed in that subject. Usually it is mathematics that the applicants show deficiency in. The results in penmanship were the best in the total aggregate of applicants. Only 49 failed, compared with 4,477 who passed.

News Notes.
Hamline—Minnesota's best state fair opened with an attendance of 63,659, the greatest on record.
St. Paul—Over 6,000 marched in the Labor day parade.
St. Paul—The one-day-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Goodrich, was accidentally smothered last week. Coroner W. Miller made an investigation and decided that there was due to accident.
Minneapolis—John Ternas was instantly killed as a result of the collapse of a 50-foot scaffold.
Minneapolis—That the house trailers and flax rollers are still flourishing in the city can be seen from the number of complaints that reach police headquarters regarding petty thefts and attempted burglaries.
Royalton—The accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of Stephen Pastelack may be the cause of Ralph Skinner losing his arm. These two men were hunting prairie chickens near the village when the accident occurred.
Minneapolis—From estimates gathered at many of the employment offices in the city it is figured that 434 men were shipped in one day to work elsewhere.

Between.
"Why doesn't Jerrald get married?"
"Why, he's too dumb to support a wife and he isn't shiftless enough to be supported by one."—Life.

Original Scenery and Defects.
"Only six people in the company," remarked Vincent Crummeles. "Ah, then it must be a Shakespearean performance."
"Shakespeare be hanged!" objected the friend. "What with six people!"
"Exactly, dear boy!" returned the blither. "One man plays many parts."

Foolish.

His One Concern.
"What will be the verdict of posterity about us?" asked the parson earnestly.

Hazarding a Guess.
Dumley—Say, do you know anything about golf?
Topsy—Not much. Why?
Dumley—What's a "bunker," do you know?
Topsy—I suppose it's one of those things that simply live on the links.—Philadelphia Press.

Teacher.
Teacher—Johnny, you can give me a definition of "hypocrite."
Johnny—It's when a father says he loves his teacher.—Cleveland Leader.

I was born near Dorset, and went to the district school. I didn't care much for it, and used to stay away when I could. Father and mother care? Not they.
"I married Westcott, but we didn't get along, so we just quit."
"I didn't care, because he tried to make me stay in the house nights when he was away and I didn't want to. I like to enjoy life. Well, when he told me to go away from him, I went. I stayed at home a little while, and all then met a fellow named Albert Ross, who was clerking at the Putnam house in Bennington.
"We kept company, Al and I, and he worked at the hotel and over at the soft links at Manchester-in-the-Mountains. But finally he got tired of living around here, and thought we'd get out.
"The first night it was dark, and I got tired, so Al and I went into a barn to sleep till morning. We didn't know there was anyone in there, but they had hardly got inside when we heard our names called, and looking up in the haymow, saw my cousin, Merrill Reed, and a friend named Dan Brookway.
"When Al and I saw the fellows we wanted to know what they were doing there, and Reed told me that he and Brookway had given up their jobs and were going to be burglars. They had just robbed a store at Dorset and two or three houses, and they showed us a diamond ring, a watch, some silver rings and a whole lot of stuff they had stolen and were hiding in the barn.
"When I told them Al and I were going away they asked me why we didn't join them. They said it would be a good thing for a gang to have a woman along, as she could do jobs that they would be caught trying. They offered me an equal share of everything, and said they would make me the 'queen' of the gang.
"Al didn't like the idea, but I said: 'Come along. It can't be any worse than working.' So he agreed to join, too, and we slept till morning.
"Early in the morning we left the barn and started north. Reed was armed, I knew, for he had shown me two big pistols, one of which he gave me. I don't know about the others, except that Al had a knife that he said he could use in close quarters if we got caught at anything. We walked all day, laying plans as to what we should do, and that night slept in the woods, making our beds of pine boughs. We were hungry, so I raided a hen roost near by, and that, with some yeast that Reed stole, made our supper.
"The next day we went on to Pawlet, and that night we cleaned out a farmer's hen roost and his clothes. Al and I were in a barn, and next morning tramped on to Granville.
"Our plans were not quite ready for the big trip, so we decided to try the robbery of a bank in Manchester. We were not armed enough, and we didn't know the arrangements, so we decided to stay in Granville for a little while. So we stopped at the hotel over night. But the next day we thought we'd better go back, as it was rumored that we were being watched, and we didn't want to get caught and jailed for the simple little things we had already done. Besides, there was a jewelry store at South Dorset, kept by a man named Abrams. I thought it would be easy to get in there, and being so close to the diamonds, take what pistols and ammunition we might need for bigger work.
"It was a dark night, and we didn't expect to have any trouble over the Abrams trick. It was arranged that the boys should stand guard while I got into the store and cleaned it out. So I was to take the pistol that Reed had given me and protect myself if they didn't warn me in case of anyone coming, or if I should run across anybody in the store. About nine o'clock that night we got near North Dorset, where the jewelry store was and were just going down the road toward it when a team drove over a bridge that we would have to cross over a little stream.
"We tried to get out of their way, for none of us thought the team was after us. But the men in the wagon had lanterns, and I saw that we were discovered. We had been followed. I yelled to the boys to run for their lives.
"I recognized some of the men in the wagon as they began to jump out among them Constable A. C. Mason, Pawlet, and a farmer named Black. "Merrill Reed ran first, and Rose right after him, but I didn't see where Brookway went. I wasn't going to run, thinking that an officer would follow the men and I could sneak away quietly. Besides, I wanted to see how Al Ross would come out of the scrape, and if possible, help him. As soon as Constable Mason struck the ground he drew a revolver and commenced firing. Then I drew mine, intending to use it if they fired at me.
"But before I could get a chance to fire I felt arms about me, and Farmer Black had me pinioned. At the same time Reed, who was being followed by Constable Mason, turned and fired at him. I yelled for Al to help me, and he tried to come up the little hill, but he must have had run. As he did he must have got in line with Reed's revolver, for he suddenly threw up his hands and yelled: 'I'm killed!'
"Al's death made me wild. I fought and kicked to get free, and if I had I would have killed some one. But there was no one to kill, at that. For the constables' posse was a pack of cowards, and only one man besides Mason himself stood ground. That was Farmer Black, who caught me.

The rest ran for dear life as soon as a shot was fired.
"Reed and Brookway got away during the excitement. Al was killed, though he gave the constable a good tussle right in front of me before he fell back dead. Then they carried his body to a little schoolhouse near by, and took me to Farmer Black's for the night.
"They caught Brookway next day in the next town, but they haven't got Reed, and if I had any chance to get away they wouldn't have got me, either. Al has been buried in the paper's graveyard at Pawlet. What they'd do with me I don't know. What do I care, anyway?"
"Such is the story of Lovina Lanfear. Not highly romantic, as she tells it, but from the very manner of its relation, a remarkable illustration of what a girl can become who is given her own way and allowed to run fast and free, in a so civilized a community as a New England state.
"She will not be tried as a principal for the murder of Ross, for which Reed will be arraigned. The robbery charges against the gang will probably be prosecuted, though Lovina may be used only as a witness against the others."

NUNS STARTED FASHION.
Struck by Novel Effect Fashionable Dames Adopted the Custom of Powdering Hair.
The custom of powdering the hair dates back as far as the sixteenth century and was first introduced by the nuns in French convents. Those who had occasion to leave the cloisters for any reason were wont to powder their hair so as to make it appear gray and give them a venerable look. The fashionable dames were so struck with the effect of white powder on dark hair that they soon appropriated the device as one of the arts of the worldly toilet. Out of this grew the use of hair cream. The Roman women often used fine powder and later, in 1860, Express Dimples set the fashion of using gold powder.
Rome under the empire and Greece during the time of Pericles were seized with a mania for golden hair. The helms and tops of the day devised several methods whereby black locks might be changed to golden yellow, but bleaching did not always succeed. Consequently quite a trade was established with the fair-haired tribes beyond the Alps, who sold their wares to Latin merchants, to be worn on the heads of the Romans.
Many a dame dampened her raven tresses in the stroupest of muriatic acid and sat in the sun to bleach her hair as white as cotton. Others used soap and afterward anointed their heads with oil made from goat fat, ashes of the beech tree and certain vegetable essences.
The itinerant barber, who passed down and out when people ceased to use powder in their hair, was quite a success in the trade. He went from house to house, armed with a soap bowl to fit the chin, powder boxes, pomatum and puffs, was always a well-dressed and a gratuitous scandal bearer.
When wigs were in vogue the Roman dames had in their wardrobe as many wigs as coats. He went from house to house, armed with a soap bowl to fit the chin, powder boxes, pomatum and puffs, was always a well-dressed and a gratuitous scandal bearer.

The terrific wind storm of Monday evening was the worst that has visited these parts this year. The storm's fury, bordering onto a tornado, swept from the northwest with unabating breath for fully an hour and everything that withstood the desperate "draft" got a good "blow-log-over." Up at Pockegama lake, where the storm is said to have spent its greatest energy, the sea was something fearful and wild rices, weeds, etc. were cast high upon the windward shores. The cattagers and tent inhabitants were given a touch of high life and the Tuxedo Club shores was much the worse for wear. Gossip, says an exchange, is a humming bird with eagle wings and a voice like a fog horn. It can be heard from Dan to Beebeba and has caused more trouble than all bed bugs, ticks, fleas, mosquitoes, coyotes, grasshoppers, chinchbugs, ratfleas, sharks, sore toes, cyclones, earthquakes, blizzards, smallpox, yellow fever, gout and indigestion than this great United States has known or will know when the universe shuts up shop and begins the final volume. In other words it has got war and hell backed up in the corner yelling for water. It has broken up happy homes, separated lovers, caused murders, suicides and banished innocent persons to impertinent and ridiculous and often times to prosecution. Don't encourage it. It is one of the greatest vices in the world today.

Tuxedo Club Topics.

satisfaction if the food is well cooked and daintily served, but we seldom consider how this "consumption devoutly to be wished" was secured.

The Club has been splendidly served. Fred Akin, as Chef, has given great satisfaction—and made a reputation. He was assisted by Lillian Peters. The dining rooms (of which the Club has three) were cared for by Rose Peters and Edith Schulz, while Edna Anderson looked after the rooms.

The manifold and often exacting duties on the outside were performed by Frank Cole who won for himself the sobriquet of "the old reliable."

But behind all these was the watchful eye, the guiding hand, the discriminating sense, and the rare tact and judgment of Mrs. Cooley who was unsparing in her labors and unremitting in her vigilance.

Launch parties have been much in vogue during the moonlight evenings of the past week, and the pungent odor of the well known product of the Standard Oil Company was wafted on the breeze.

There is something particularly captivating in the association of water and moon light. A night sail is charming under any conditions and gives loose rein to the imagination.

You sit in silence and listen to the music of the water, the plunging of the fish and the voices of the night birds—

You watch the wierd outlines of the shores—and then note that the evening, for its last of day, is partially unrolled.

The sun behind a bob-tail dash is sinking in the water.

The Pleiades light the Heavens with the flash of their cigars.

The sky has put the night shirt on and buttoned it with stars.

The wind storm of Monday night, while not of long duration, was probably the most fierce ever seen on the lake.

Two inch oak planks were torn from the dock and carried a considerable distance. Rowboats were tossed about, and in one instance a boat was carried 100 feet like thistle down and held broadside against the dock.

The sail boat "Lois" dragged her 350-pound anchor about a mile but sustained no damage except a torn sail.

The launch "Daisy No. 2" arrived just before the storm and was run into the boat house which has its entrance at the north end, facing the storm. The tremendous surge broke in with such energy as to plain the craft sideways with sufficient force to smash a 2x6 brace to the elevated floor of the house, demolished the metal railing of the boat, and then sink it. On Tuesday a volunteer wrecking crew consisting of the guests and attaches of the Club raised the boat, cleaned her out, and put her in fair condition bearing the damage to the ornamental metal railing. In the evening Commodore McAllen arrived with Mr. Wickstrom, the electrician of the popular Tri-State Telephone Co., who installed a new battery, and "Daisy No. 2" was soon in commission again which proved that she was a "Daisy."

Frank S. Webster, the genial manager of the Willard Hotel, accompanied by his wife and four friends will arrive on the limited at Sunday for another week's stay at the Club.

Frank B. Fox, manager of the Plymouth, writes that he is going to have another week of Tuxedo before the cold weather comes.

Are You Young and Dashing?

We don't want to sell you these if you're old and grey and bent with the cares of the world. They are designed for the young fellows with dash and go—the sort that know style when they come against it and can wear something nobby and progressive without looking too much tailor-made.

The coats are ultra—made for the man who has style in himself and who wants to be up-to-date, and just a little in front of the rest.

Ask for the Smartac or the Newport and look for the label bearing the name of Crouse & Branderage, Utica, N. Y. That is the sign that the styles are Metropolitan and the tailoring O. K.—doubly so, indeed. There are none better made.
