CAUGHT RED-HANDED

Are Mail Order Houses—Illegal Food Dealers in Minnesota—Consumers Take Notice.

One very gratifying result of the campaign for pure foodstuffs which has been waged in Minnesota, says Commissioner Slater in his last bulletin, is the interest which has been aroused among consumers and the retail grocers of the state. Much as food products which come under the supervision of the pure food laws are evincing unusual interest in the question, and grocers are besieging the department for information which will aid them in keeping their stocks clean.

The interest has undoubtedly been aroused through the plan of publicity which has been carried out, and the newspapers of the state are entitled to all the credit. They have published the bulletins issued by the department free of charge and the work has been greatly augmented by them.

Retail grocers and others interested in pure food law enforcement, are continually deerring the encroachments of the mail order houses, and the question is a serious one. The best medium through which to combat the tactics of these big catalogue houses is the home newspaper, and time will demonstrate this to be the fact.

This department is powerless to stop these outside mail order houses from shipping in illegal goods, but we are going to the aid of the local newspaper to show up the true character of goods shipped into the state. We are going to analyze samples of groceries shipped by mail order houses and give the results publicity through our regular bulletins. We appreciate the assistance which the local papers are already lending to this department, and believe their reward is sure to come through the appreciation of those interested and in establishing a still higher standard for our food products.

Strawberry jam, Garland Brand, Seroco Mfg. Co., Chicago. Sample is colored with coal tar dye. This jam was sold as pure and could not be sold under any circumstances by a local dealer.

Since the publication of our last bulletin the most striking violations of our food laws, besides the two cases above mentioned are:

Cherry Cider, Red Cross Vinegar Co., St. Louis. Sample is an artificial preparation and is colored with coal tar dye and preserved with salicylic acid.

Wild Cherry Cider, Borgestedt Bros., St. Paul. Sample is preserved with salicylic acid.

COURT CONVENES

Adjourned Term Brief—Maki Gets Reformatory Sentence at Stillwater.—O'Malley and Anewash Acquitted

An adjourned term of the district court convened at the court house Tuesday morning, with Hon. F. M. Crosby the presiding judge.

The catalogue of cases which were to be tried at this term were reduced from four to three on account of the change in plea made by one John Anderson, charged with housebreaking. Dan Dwyer accounts it will be remembered that Anderson broke into several houses in this place July 11th, during the afternoon performance of the Norway & Home circuits. After some trailing he was captured at Stillwater, and was returned to this place for hearing and upon failure to give $1,000 bail was lodged in the Washington county jail. At the September term of the grand jury he pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the second degree. Monday afternoon this plea was changed to that of guilty to petit larceny. Judge Crosby fined the youth large $25 and costs, which amounted to $165.98, making a total of $190.98. The sum was paid and the case was dismissed. Judge Nethaway was Anderson's attorney, and it is supposed his folks are well to do.

The first case to come up for trial by jury Tuesday morning was that of the state vs. John Anewash, an Indian belonging to the White Earth reservation. He said he was a "good Indian," and furthermore could not stand for the charge of manslaughter which was imposed upon him by the grand jury. The "brave" was defended by L. H. McKusick, who convinced the jury in such an able manner that a verdict of not guilty was returned after a short deliberation in the jury room.

Anewash was accused of having hit a brother Indian a crack over the head with a whiffletree, death ensuing after a few hours of unconsciousness. The crime which was alleged to have been committed dates back to last 4th of July. On that day a band of red men were having a "war dance" and generally enjoying themselves at Grandma's place. They succeeded in getting a quantity of red-eye from some infernal lawbreaker and sinner, and after getting on the outside of this they were in a coalition for an indignant asylum. The outcome of the spree was that a "real good" Indian had been ushered into the happy hunting grounds. Dave Skumis was the victim and Anewash was his alleged slayer. Deputy Sheriff Hensler arrested the copper-colored Chippewa, who up to the time of his trial languished at Stillwater, but he is today a free man, "keeping house" with his squaw and two little papooses.

After a short recess in Court John Maki, a Finlander, was brought up to the bar of justice to answer to the charge of having carried away a child under the age of sixteen years. S. G. I. Roberts was appointed his attorney. An interdictor was used in this case, and Maki was unable to understand or converse in English. He was given a fair and impartial trial, the jury found him guilty, and the judge sentenced him to Stillwater on the reformatory plan.

More interest was manifested in the O'Malley case than any other of this term. All of Wednesday forenoon was occupied in drawing a jury, which was accepted in the following order: Aubon Pavardt, Gust Anderson, Peter Herley, P. R. O'gram, Frank Svanda, M. M. Barnes, Fred Pries, H. B. Forbes, Jonas Olson, Geo. Jolly, C. C. Ives, and Arthur Brandes. About twelve others were discharged on peremptory challenges.

After all the evidence had been swung from the different witnesses by the state's attorney, M. B. Hurley and the defendant's attorney, L. H. McKusick, and the judge had given his charge, there could not have been an unprejudiced person in the court room who did not feel very down deep in his mind that the defendant was being persecuted and maliciously prosecuted. Mr. McKusick's plea for Mr. O'Malley was a masterful effort, was sound and rang true to the point. The jury was flooded out into the jury room immediately after the judge's charge to them, and remained there not over five minutes before they had reached a verdict, which we understand, came on the second ballot. (It has contented in some instances, who manner that one vote was cast against the defendant on the first ballot.)

Mr. O'Malley and her two little girls sat in the court room during the entire proceedings, and considerable sympathy was felt both for

HOTEL RECEPTION.

Large Number Present at the Formal Opening of the Hotel Agnes—Event of Season.

The reception and banquet given under the auspices of the Pine City Commercial Club at the Hotel Agnes on Saturday evening, was the event of the season.

At about ten o'clock the guests began to assemble and when the banquet was announced as being ready to be served, the party to the number of about a hundred were seated in the commodious dining room of the hotel, and were served by seven colored gentlemen waiters, imported from St. Paul for the occasion. When all had been seated a banquet of ten courses that would have done credit to any gathering, and that has never been equalled between St. Paul and Duluth, was served, and during the banquet music was furnished by Prof. William A. Robinson's colored orchestra from St. Paul, which was greatly appreciated by those present, who showed their appreciation by frequent encores, all of which were responded to by the orchestra. Prof. Winsor of the violin, and showed the company by storm as he is a violinist of no mean order, and has gathered an orchestra together that is said to be the best in this city.

After the banquet was over, J. Y. Breckenridge, as toastmaster, arose, and in his own quaint style, introduced the following persons, who answered to the subjects given them in an able manner. Space will not permit us to go into detail in regard to the toasts, but suffice it to say that they were listened to with rapt attention by those present.

E. A. Hodge was the first to speak, his subject being "Our Country," which he treated in his most able manner, and at the conclusion of his remarks the company all arose and led by the orchestra, sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

John F. Stone of Rush City, was then introduced and spoke on "The Hotel and the People." His remarks were very good, in a most able manner, and at the conclusion of his remarks the company all arose and led by the orchestra, sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

M. B. Hurley, our efficient county attorney, had for his subject, "The Bar, or Blessed be the Peace-makers." Mr. Hurley handled his subject in a very able manner, and defined the part of the bar in such a way that a child could have understood, and proved conclusively that the lawyers were indeed peace-makers.

W. P. Gottry, in a piece of original poetry, which was well received and heartily applauded, answered the subject assigned to him—"The Press."

O. M. Johnson, of Rush City, was called to answer to "Our Neighbors," which he did in a very pleasing way. He said that he thought more of such gatherings should be held and thus cement the neighborhood feeling and the part of the bar, one another more closely together.

H. M. Tuell, then answered to "Our Guests." Mr. Tuell looked up to the ceiling in this case, and for the many kind acts that he had shown both his and his wife during his short stay with us, and also to the fact that he had been so much interested they had taken in the Hotel Agnes since it had started up, and especially for this pleasant occasion, and said that he and his wife would call in their power to make the Hotel Agnes a home for the traveling public, and the best hotel in the northwestern part of the state.

Miss Bessie Lambert sang a solo which was well received, Miss Agnes Hurley accompanying her on the piano.

Fas. Ridler, a commercial traveler of St. Paul, had for his subject "The Commercial Traveler." He said that the commercial traveler was not like other people, who had homes where they lived, but that the hotel was the commercial man's home and that he was pleased to have called on Pine City, and that he had such a nice home for the drummers.

Miss Agnes Hurley responded to the toast "Hotel Agnes" in a very pleasing manner, and paid a high tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Tuell and their chief, who had prepared the banquet of which we had just partaken.

Prof. Robinson next delighted the guests with a violin solo which was applauded so long and loud, that the five minutes before they had reached the limit would outside.

Joe Reynolds, an attorney from Duluth, had as his subject "The City of Duluth." He said that Duluth was destined to be a second New York in less than a score of years.

L. H. McKusick, the County Attorney of Pine County, was next introduced and held the guests' interest for about three-quarters of an hour

THANKSGIVING

TURKEY FREE

Our window is a turkey roost now. The Turkeys are there—a fine fat gobbler and a sleek, plump hen; eggs too. In fact we have everything to make the best Thanksgiving dinner you ever ate. But we won't have them after the 28th. If you are a good guesser we will give them to you. Just come to our store, make a purchase of 25c and for each 25c you guess as to their weight. If your guess is nearest to their correct weight when we weigh them on the 28th, they are yours. You can eat them.

Verdict Favors Defendant.

The case of Carl Johnson vs. Chas. Lindner, which came up in Judge Pofor's court last week, was decided in favor of the latter, the judgment being handed down Tuesday. L. H. McKusick was attorney for the victorious party, and Chas. Lindner, of Rush City, was the plaintiff's counsel. The contesting parties are residents of Greeley.

Jay Neter a Benedict.

The friends of Jay Neter were pleasantly surprised Tuesday when he arrived home from North Dakota, to learn that he had taken unto himself a wife, Miss Myrtle Scofield, the maiden name of the young lady and she is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Scofield, who resided from Meadow Law to Dakota a year ago last spring. The wedding occurred Sunday, October 29, 1905 at Hunter, N. Dak. Jay is the second eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Neter of this place. He has a good disposition and enjoys the esteem of a large circle of friends. The couple would make their home in Pine City. The PIONEER wishes them abundant joy and prosperity.

Destructive Halloween Pranks.

As we stated in last week's issue of the PIONEER, "boys will be boys," we did not refer to a crowd of rowdies who on Halloween night, resorted to maliciously destroy property on Halloween night. Such innocent pranks as tying the clapper of a bell, or putting an article in some easily located "hiding place," or in trick-tacking, casting the shadows of a demon-like jack-o-lantern, or any other harmless articles in no way amount to enough for the youth of Pine City it seems. Although the night was cold and disagreeable, Tuesday evening next little bunches of lads fired up upon anything or everything in the line of movable property, took it upon themselves to conduct the affairs of this city to their own liking. It cannot be denied that they did not succeed to a certain extent. A couple of extra policemen were hired to patrol the streets and alleys, ways, etc., but these guardians of law and good order could not be "every place" with the result that damage to the extent of close upon a hundred dollars was perpetrated. About $15 worth of trines belonging to Capt. Seavey were cleverly (if) dispatched and destroyed, a fine glass sign on Lambert's saloon corner was wrecked, two brand new signs were torn from the windows of the Garage Store and splintered, Madden's window signs were cast into the gutter, the statuary facade pole in front of Bordeaux's Garage sign was damaged to the extent of $25.00 and numerous other petty criminal proceedings were carried on. The lads seemed to particularly dislike the signs about town, and we suppose, had the beautiful Hotel Agnes sign been within reach it too would have met with the same fate as the less pretentious ones did. Nearly all of our citizens are bitterly disgusted with such wanton displays of ignorance and lawlessness, and the signs about town, if these same youths were compelled to labor at some occupation far easier than what their work was, would be a great relief to the eyes. It is highly believed that a law being enacted against them. But narrowness is played and "dick soup" for them and they are going to something until some particularly brilliant lawyer will be made an example for others not to imitate. Aiding us we cannot have these Halloween sport we might create a little depopulation by putting on a larger force of constabulary each year.

Reports received by the department of commerce and labor, through its bureau of statistics, indicate that the total grain receipts at the ports of Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore during August showed a gain of nearly four million bushels, if compared with similar arrivals in 1914. On the other hand, the inbound cereal movement at New Orleans, as well as at San Francisco and Tacoma, reflected heavy losses by the comparisons.

Both "explandars" and "boulverars" are military terms by origin. The original "boulverar" was a bulwark or fortification part of a rampart and an "explandar" was originally the flat or slope of the counter-scarp of a fortified place. A writer 200 years ago noted that the word "boulverar" was "now chiefly taken for the void space between the glacis of a citadel and the first houses of a town." Hence its extension to other "void spaces" suitable for promissory.

DAWN OF NEW ERA COMES TO RUSSIA

THE CZAR GRANTS A CONSTITUTION AND AUTOCRACY IS AT AN END

Count Witte Is Made Prime Minister—Liberty of Speech, Conscience, Union and Association Is Given—The Imperial Manifesto.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—Monday night the autocracy of the Romanoffs and the old order of things ceased to exist in Russia. Emperor Nicholas has surrendered, and Count Witte comes into power as minister-president with the imperial mandate which will enable him to convert the farcical national assembly into a real legislative body elected by greatly extended suffrage and to confer upon the people the rights of liberties, including free speech. These welcome tidings reach St. Petersburg shortly before six o'clock Monday evening. Count Witte had arranged to meet the emperor at Peterhof going over the draft of the manifesto, to which he insisted that certain minor modifications be made, and before taking the train for St. Petersburg he telegraphed to a friend that the emperor had affixed his signature and that the imperial mandate comprising the conditions upon which he had agreed to accept office was in his pocket. These include freedom of the press, the right of assembly and the immunity of the person, including the right of habeas corpus.

Officially Announced. The official announcement issued Monday evening says: "An imperial manifesto was issued, appointing Count Witte prime minister with special authority to coordinate and unify the powers of the different branches of the army, civic liberties and to the national assembly is given legislative power, while the suffrage is enlarged."

The following is the text of the imperial manifesto: "We, Nicholas the Second by the grace of God emperor and autocrat of all the Russias, grand duke of Finland, etc. declare to all our faithful subjects that the troubles and agitation in our empire, and the numerous other plagues which have afflicted our people, fill our heart with excessive pain and sorrow. The happiness of the Russian sovereign is indissolubly bound up with the happiness of our people. The sorrow of our people is the sorrow of the sovereign. From the present distress may arise great national disruption, and the success of measures for pacification in our empire, the integrity and unity of our empire."

"The supreme duty imposed upon us by our sovereign office requires us to take the necessary steps to use all the force and reason at our command to hasten in securing the unity and coordination of the power of the central government, and to the success of measures for pacification in our empire, the integrity and unity of our empire."

"We, therefore, direct our government to carry out our inflexible will in the following manner: "First—To extend to the population the inalienable foundations of civic liberties based on the real individuality of person, freedom of conscience, speech, union and association."

"Second—Without suspending the already ordered elections to the state duma, to invite the participation in the duma, so far as the limited time before the convocation of the duma will permit, those members of the population now completely deprived of electoral rights, leaving the ultimate development of the principle of the electoral right in general to be newly established legislative order of things."

"Third—To establish as an unchangeable rule that no law shall be enforceable without the approval of the state duma and that it shall be possible for the elected of the people to exercise real participation in the supervision of the legality of the acts of the authorities appointed by us."

We appeal to all faithful sons of Russia to remember their duty towards the fatherland, to aid in terminating these unprecedented troubles and to apply their forces, in cooperation with us, to the restoration of calm and peace upon our natal soil."

"Given at Peterhof, October 30, in the seventh year of our reign."

"NICHOLAS" Revolutionists Not Satisfied. The news spread like wildfire throughout the city. The revolutionists, and active agitators generally, declare loudly that the government promises would no longer suffice and that the strike must be continued. In fact, an hour after the news became known the revolutionists' associations to form the first bomb in St. Petersburg used since the strike began. The incident occurred near the polytechnic school, but there was no actual damage. Practically all citizens, except the soldiers and the extreme radical, however, read the document with delight and amazement, declaring that it could not fail to rally the moderate to the support of Count Witte.

May Call On Strike. St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—A meeting of the strike committee was held Monday night. The members of the committee of the emperor's manifesto was known. The question of calling the strike off was discussed, but a decision postponed until the afternoon. It was decided to call the strike off, but the committee will be held in St. Petersburg, and that those had been reported. It is predicted that the committee will put a good face on their defeat and issue a proclamation calling off the strike until January. The railroad strike was as effective as ever, but the authorities claimed that the backbone of the industrial strike had broken before the announcement of the manifesto.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—The strike has ended on the Moscow & St. Petersburg, the Moscow & Kazan and the Moscow & Archangel railroads.

ENDS SOUTHERN TRIP.

President Roosevelt Warmly Welcomed at New Orleans—Big Crowd Prevents Speech.

New Orleans, Oct. 27.—At the end of nine strenuous hours of varied entertainment in New Orleans, which brought his excellent pleasure trip through the south to a close, President Roosevelt at 6:30 o'clock Thursday night boarded the light house train for Magnolia and began the first leg of his return journey to the national capital.

The president's New Orleans visit was a signal testimonial of popular interest and of general recognition of the service which he had rendered the city in her period of stress.

The densely crowded streets, the elaborate decorations, the enthusiastic plaudits that greeted him along the whole course of the parade, the enthusiasm with which his address to the multitude at Lafayette square was received, and the remarkable demonstration in his honor at the luncheon, were outward manifestations of the spirit in which the people welcomed him.

Probably for the first time in his public career the president was compelled to abandon a public address before he got well started on it. It was contended that the military and civic parade should pass in review before the president at the city hall, but the crowd which gathered at this point was so tremendous that neither the police nor the troops were able to move it and the president, foreseeing a possible catastrophe in the event of a further attempt to the attempt to speak and left the platform.

U. S. Flagship West Virginia, Oct. 28 (via New Orleans La., Oct. 27). The light house train, Secretary Loeb and Dr. Risley to the cruiser West Virginia. The rail and port bow of the Magnolia were damaged and two or three men made in the hull before the water line. No one was hurt. The Magnolia immediately on being struck was beached, her bow being high and dry.

The vessel was damaged to the damage to the vessel it was evident that there was no danger and the president and his party went to bed. Maj. Craig, the commander of the light house train, was aboard the Magnolia. His ship, the steamer ship of the Magnolia, had preceded the Magnolia and was some distance from the president's train. The president put off for the nearest telephone about a mile and a half away and the order given to head the light house train to the light house train.

A CHINESE OUTRAGE.

Natives Assault Admiral Train Following Accidental Shooting of a Woman.

London, Oct. 31.—A dispatch from Shanghai says that the American Asiatic squadron, and his son, Lieut. Train, have been victims of a savage attack by Chinese natives. The American officers were phoned shooting when the admiral accidentally shot a Chinese woman, slightly injuring her. A number of villagers surrounded the officers, took away their guns, knocked the admiral down in the mud and held Lieut. Train as a hostage. Forty American marines landed to restore the party were attacked by the mob of Chinese who tried to pitchrock the officers. The marines were obliged to fire to disperse the mob. Chinese officials refused to restore the officers' guns, and support the villagers.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The state department has called on the United States consul at Nanking, China, asking particulars about the case of Admiral Train from Shanghai, got into serious trouble in Nanking after accidentally wounding a Chinese woman. In view of the present strained relations between the United States and China, and particularly on account of the fact that Nanking is the center of the boycott movement of American goods the incident is regarded as serious. However, neither the state minister in this city nor the state department have been officially notified.

King Lays Corner Stone.

Quincy, Oct. 29.—King Victor Emmanuel laid the corner stone of the new harbor works Sunday. As his majesty, aided by an electrical device, lowered the stone, which weighed 11 tons, into the sea there was a scene of great enthusiasm. Over 50,000 spectators were present and in the harbor were 12 warships, including the United States cruiser Minneapolis and the French and British squadrons, as well as over 3,000 other craft. It is estimated that the new works will cost $15,000,000.

Busty Company Eggs.

Paris, Ill., Oct. 31.—Grand Secretary W. Carter, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen was on Monday paid $50,478.83, principal and interest, by the National City company. The money for loss sustained by him when the Pacific national bank closed its doors a few days ago because of the delinquency of New York City, Dougherty, of Paris local funds.

POSSE KEPT AT BAY BY SLAYER OF TWO

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY ENACTED IN A BANK IN TOWN OF CHENOA, ILL.

Mayor Nickel and a Wealthy Landowner Killed—Murdere Barricaded in Vault, Wounded Two Others, and Defies Capture for Hours.

Chenoa, Ill., Oct. 30.—In a remarkable affray, the motive for which is still a mystery, William Le Duc, a farmer, firing a mile and a half from his village, instantly killed his brother-in-law, Mayor Charles Nickel, in the Chenoa state bank Saturday afternoon. He also killed Hugh D. Jones, a wealthy landowner, who was transacting business in the bank, barricaded himself in the vault, from which in various fatalities he fired at the posse, wounding two more men and kept a mob at bay. He finally surrendered at 8:30 o'clock to two sheriffs and their deputies, after maintaining a desperate siege for six hours.

Makes Walk His Fort.

Le Duc turned on Jones directly after shooting down the mayor, and when the posse gathered at the door and the landowner fled into the bank vault from the crazed murderer, he followed, shooting him twice. Through the siege which followed the corpse of his second victim lay beside him in his stronghold. By a chain inside of the vault Le Duc prevented the attack of the posse, and two heavy ledgers between the door and himself made it impossible for them to shut him up and stop his shooting. He had pocketed full of ammunition, and his reputation as a crack shot caused the sheriffs and citizens to give him range a wide berth. Sixty shots were fired by the prisoner from the long-barreled rifle and 300 rifle and pistol cartridges were expended by Sheriff Edwards.

Finally Surrendered.

The windows of the bank were riddled in the efforts to force the murderer out of his prison refuge. Quarts of chloroform were poured through the cracks to stupefy him into submission. The fumes of burning sulphur were blown into the small room. With a battering ram the posse attempted to break through the door, but Le Duc refused to surrender until he became hungry and the sheriff had promised him a square meal. During the siege Le Duc had surrounded himself by burning up the bank's currency. He destroyed $500, and had a pile of $4,000 ready for the flames.

Charles Liting, Nickel and Hughes, Le Duc wounded R. J. Irwin and W. G. Ramsey, both of whom tried to shoot the slayer in his ambulance. Fearing the slayer would attempt to escape, the posse was taken to Bloomington at midnight by Sheriff Edwards.

WHILE IT IS SAID THAT Le Duc IS INSANE, and others call him a stupid fellow, no adequate explanation of his deed has been offered. The two families had dwelt in peace since their relations began, and visited back and forth. Le Duc and his wife, however, separated several weeks ago, and it is said that the husband has acted queerly. There is a story afloat that he held Nickel to blame for his family trouble, but the tale is denied on every side.

There are six candidates for mayor in New York, and four in Indianapolis.

SOME ONE BLUNDERED.

Error in Orders Causes Collision on the Rock Island Road in Iowa—Four Lives Lost.

Fairfield, Ia., Oct. 27.—Two fast passenger trains on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway collided, head-on, a point one mile south of Fairfield early Thursday. The wrecked train was No. 11, which left Chicago at 8:30 Wednesday night for the west, and No. 12, which departed from Kansas City at 6:20 Wednesday evening. Four persons were killed and between 15 and 20 injured, none fatally. The dead are: F. J. Miles, musician in Ia., engineer of No. 11; Glen Canfield, Murray, Ia., mail clerk; Detective Griffith, Lucas, Ia., a tramp, name unknown.

The cause of the accident is laid to the train dispatcher's office. When the engineer of No. 11 appeared at Fairfield he was handed the following order: "Run 10 minutes past 10 to Eldon." The freman of No. 12 declares that they had clearance orders from Eldon and that the blame for the wreck was in the issuance of them from the dispatcher's office.

HOT SPINGS BURNED.

Mr. Turner was unconscious when taken out of the water. His friends are considering an application for a Carnegie hotel for him.

Former Governor of Minnesota Most Sudden.

His Death was Unexpected and a Shock to His Friends. For Thirty-five Years He was Prominent in Affairs of the State.

St. Paul, Nov. 1.—Ex-gov. A. Eastman, Andrew R. McGill died suddenly yesterday morning at 4 o'clock at his residence, 2123 Scudder avenue, St. Anthony Park.

Death was painfully sudden, for the doctor had been on his usual employment all day Monday. Monday evening he complained of feeling ill, but laughed it off, saying that probably his stomach was out of order.

At 4 o'clock he went to the bathroom. After being absent some little interval of time his wife went to seek him and found him stretched upon the floor. She ran to arouse the neighbors and call a physician. Before medical aid could arrive the postmaster had passed away.

Death was due to heart disease, of which Mr. McGill had been a sufferer for many years. He was sixty-five years of age.

A. R. McGill had been a prominent figure in Minnesota history for forty years. He was born in Pennsylvania in 1840, and came to St. Peter, Minn., in 1860. He served in the Ninth Minnesota during part of the civil war, but was discharged on account of falling health. Returning to St. Peter, he was elected county superintendent of schools. In 1880 he became editor of the St. Peter Tribune, and was elected clerk of courts. He studied law under Judge Horace Austin, who was elected governor in 1870, and made young McGill his private secretary. In 1871 he was appointed insurance commissioner, and held that office for thirteen years, making a fine record of efficiency in the department. In 1886 he was nominated for governor and made the campaign on a high-line platform, defeating Dr. A. A. Ames by a small plurality. He was defeated for a second nomination by W. H. Merriam, in one of the most bitter fights the state ever saw.

Retiring from public life for a time, he organized the St. Paul & Minneapolis trust company, and the Northern Trust company of St. Paul. After the election of Theodore McKinley, he was appointed postmaster of St. Paul, succeeding Robert A. Smith, and in 1895 he was elected to the state senate from the thirty-seventh district, serving continuously ever since, both as senator and postmaster. In public life he was never aggressive, but always inspired confidence and showed independence of special interests. He was revered by his political associates, and no imputation of dishonest motives or conduct was ever successfully made.

Resigns.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 1.—The dawn of a constitutional era marks also the passing of Constantine Petrovich Pobiedonostoff, the aged chief procurator of the holy synod and the servant and advisor of three emperors, who all during his long life has been the strongest defender of the autocracy. He was unwilling to remain in office under a parliamentary government and last night presented his resignation.

An Aged Hero.

New Richmond, Wis., Nov. 1.—Paul Turner, a retired farmer who has passed his eightieth birthday, made a daring rescue of his two grand children by plunging into the ice-cold water of a lake, bringing them out alive. MANY VICTIMS OF RAILWAY WRECKS

SANTA FE TRAIN CRASHED BY LOGS RAIL IN OUTSKIRTS OF KANSAS CITY

Thirteen persons are killed and thirty others injured in the wreck Monday of the Afton, Mo. Santa Fe passenger train, No. 10, known as the California Express, which was running at the rate of 25 miles an hour, struck a log rail, ditching five cars, one mile east of the city. The train, which left Chicago at ten o'clock Sunday night and was here at 10:30 Monday morning, was carrying 100 passengers and 100 crew members. It was running at a higher speed than usual, being ten to 15 minutes behind its schedule.

The Victims.
The dead are: Roy Stanford, No. 109 Hayden avenue, Cleveland; Lee D. Montgomery, Linwood, Mo.; James DeWitt, Richmond, Mo., cashier of the Ray county savings bank; John Metzger, a Santa Fe engineer; Port Madison, Ia.; Michael Schneider, Chicago; J. F. Cope, businessman, Chicago; Carl Young, immigrant, No. 254 St. Mack's street, Brooklyn; Romasio Brown, immigrant from Naples; Romario Brown, immigrant from Naples; Luther Richardson (colored), water, Chicago; William Harrison (colored), porter, Chicago; Adrian Peabody, immigrant from Norway; Edwin Smith, J. B. Whittemore, Carrollton, Mo.

Six Killed in Iowa.
The train, No. 21, in a head-on collision at 1:30 Monday evening between two freight trains on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad at Casey, Ia., the following were killed: Fireman Eugene Bert Salsola, Valley Junction, Ia.; Fireman William Marshall, Valley Junction, Ia.; brakeman Frank Jones, Valley Junction, Ia.; Rev. P. W. Caldwell, Vasa, Mo.; and an unknown man. The collision was between freight train No. 65, west-bound, and section two of east-bound train No. 96. Train No. 96 had orders to wait at Meno, east of Casey, for train No. 65, a fast freight. The first section passed safely, displaying green flags, indicating that another section followed with all rights of first priority. Conductor of train No. 65, however, gave orders to pull out and his train crashed into section two of 96 at full speed, just as the latter was coming out of Casey, Ia. Both trains were badly wrecked and engines split up into heaps of scrap iron. The trainmen killed were all on engines. Rev. P. W. Caldwell was riding in caboose on train No. 65 on a stock special pass.

A MINE WRECK.
Six men on Trip of Inspection Killed by Explosion in Colliery in Pennsylvania.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 23.—Five mine officials of the Pittsburgh & Westmoreland Coal company gave up their lives at 11:30 o'clock Sunday morning, when they entered the Hasey Kirk mine, No. 10, of the company, at West Kill, Pa., 3 1/2 miles east of the city, to ascertain if a portion of the mine was still burning as the result of an explosion two weeks ago. The dead are: John Hornick, superintendent; Daniel Griffith, foreman; Joseph Hunter, John Lavey and Henry Clayborne, fire bosses. All were married, with families. They were men of considerable means. Arthur Rader also died of severe burns. All the men approached the portion of the mine which is burning. They became aware that the water had not extinguished the blaze. They decided to tear down the building erected to contain the fire to one entry of the mine. Just as the covering was removed there was a terrific explosion and the five men were blown different ways, all being instantly killed.

NEWS OF MINNESOTA.

Sustained.
St. Paul.—Judge Lewis in the district court sustained the demurrers to the suits brought by Samuel Bernan and Aaron Bernan against O. N. Rindal, C. N. Cosgrove and Franklin H. Griggs, to recover $5,000 damages, both suits being on a legal false arrest and imprisonment at the state fair grounds in 1903. The demurrers were based on the ground that the suits were a merger of parties and cases of action.

The Bernans, who are brothers, claim that they visited the state fair grounds during the fair of 1903 and were arrested by the defendant Rindal, one of the special officers employed on the fair grounds, and imprisoned in the fair grounds jail on a charge of being pickpockets.

Suits based on the same grounds were brought against the state agricultural society but the supreme court held that the society is a part of the state government and cannot be sued. The present suits were then brought against O. N. Rindal, the special officer who made the arrests. O. N. Cosgrove, president of the society whose duty, the complaints allege it was to employ the peace officers on the fair grounds, Franklin H. Griggs, attorney for the society.

Suicide.
Albion.—Dr. W. C. Arons, the bonneted convict of bigamy and grand larceny and sentenced to six years in the penitentiary in Stillwater, committed suicide in his cell, blowing his head completely off with a 44-caliber Colt revolver.

Sheriff C. G. Haugen had just gone down town, leaving the jail in charge of Deputy Sheriff John Erickson, who is now writing at his home in the sheriff's office, when he heard the door fly open and continuous knocking on the inner door of the jail room. When the door opened, the door the doctor gave him a violent push against the back wall and immediately rushed to the sheriff's desk, and opened it, grasping a 44-caliber Colt revolver, turned upon the deputy, shouting: "Get out of my way," rushed back into his cell, placed the revolver to his head and ceased his brains all over the floor.

Must Pay.
St. Paul.—Attorney General Young says there is no way in which Stevens can be made to register in California by the state for payment of seed-grain loans. The county commissioners have stated that they do not intend to pay the loans, having been advised by the county attorney that such action is not necessary. The attorney general says the only point that can be made is that the state is liable under the law under which the loans were made, and it is too late to make that defense, now that the loan has been made and the state has the bonds.

Proliferate.
St. Cloud.—Luxemburg, a township in Stearns county, is in no apparent danger of depopulation by race an epidemic, according to the reports in the hands of the state census bureau. There are in the township 810 people, and there are only 92 families the average number in each family is 7.3. There is no family with less than five members. One family has 12 members, two have fourteen, one, 13; three have 12; 6 have 11; sixteen have 10; 10 have nine members; twenty-four have 8 members; and twenty-three have 7. The census bureau officials say they have several other townships "nearly as good."

Tied Up.
Duluth.—An order restraining the Great Northern from taking the roads from moving cars of grain brought to Superior and inspected by the Wisconsin inspectors has been signed and is now in force. The order includes over 700 cars at present. Wisconsin claims that the inspection fees have not been paid and is holding the cars until the money is turned over. The roads are practically tied up as far as the grain movement is concerned.

Royalties.
Duluth.—The revenue to the state from royalties on its iron ore properties this year gives promise of being a great record breaker. The state received $127,630.41 during the first three-quarters of the year, being up $74,300 tons of ore. The receipts for the third quarter alone amounted to $37,824.54 for 280,587 tons of ore. During the same quarter last year 181,063 tons were produced, and the state got $44,000.41.

News Notes.
St. Paul.—Frank Kirk, 34 years old, is jailed severely by drinking from a tea-kettle spout.

Chief River Falls.—Within twenty days Chief River Falls will have a 200-mile line in length and extending from here to Ansonia, N. D., will be placed in communication with Minnesota.

ROAST HORSE IN BERLIN.

Trade Has Been Given an Impetus by Increased Prices of All Other Meats.

The considerable increase in the prices of beef, mutton and pork throughout the empire gives occasion to the trade organ of the German butchers in draw some inferences as to the increasing use made of horseflesh as an article of diet, says a Berlin correspondence of the London Telegraph. Horseflesh is more used in the hotels and in the restaurants and richer in nutriment. It is only sentiment (says the trade journal) which leads so many persons to object to it. Horseflesh is both good and healthy and the orders which reach them.

In Berlin there are 200 slaughter houses for horses, and in the suburbs 50, employing about 1,000 men. The Berlin municipality intends shortly to employ a large central slaughter house. One of the best known products is horseflesh sausages. The industry has already been in existence for 50 years. A considerable quantity of these sausages, it might be mentioned, are exported as beef sausages. Probably 500,000 horses are slaughtered every year in Hamburg for food. Not long ago in Berlin the owner of a certain restaurant invited about 50 of his friends to a banquet, at which dishes of beef and horseflesh were served, and only six of those present were able to distinguish between the roast beef and the roast horse.

FARMER RAISES WILD GEESSE

Seventy Fat Fowl in Flock Carefully Fed by an Iowa Agriculturist.

On the Rainsberger farm in Clay township and just out of Steamboat Rock, Ia., being successfully reared and raised a flock of nearly 70 fat wild geese, such as hunters and sportsmen shoot in northern Iowa, and the sight of a flock of wild geese flying almost any creek, shot in search of game, says an Eldora (Ia.) correspondence of the Des Moines Register-Leader.

Some number of years ago the Rainsbergers captured a few of a flock of wild geese which were flying southward one fall. The wings of the birds were clipped, they were caged for a few days, soon began to enjoy captivity and began to lay eggs. These eggs were set and in a short time the Rainsbergers had had many young wild geese. The wings were kept clipped and the raising of wild geese became an occupation for the farmers.

The geese are all sleek and fat and are very tame. It can be readily seen that they are wild geese, and their color and bills are not the same as those of domestic geese. They are all picked up by their owners at will. They are very fine and valuable, and many a visitor in Clay township in the neighborhood of the Rainsberger home has been struck by the curious and unique sight of a flock of tamed wild geese.

NEED FOR COLORED GLASS

Largely Increased by the Use of Tinted Shades for Electric Lights.

"Since the fad of having electric light shades made of colored glass has spread, the manufacture of colored glass has taken a big jump," says Milwaukee Sentinel. "Many of these shades are expensive, and the price of tinted glass seems to be going up. Yet they are handsome, too, and make an excellent substitute for the expensive decorative window shades. In the advent of electricity as the popular light."

"Great quantities of colored glass are made at the Northern Glass Co. sold to the mills that try to get every conceivable shade and form from the shades. I was speaking of the most artistic decorative window shades you see in the churches. Colored glass is not blown like the ordinary window pane and Lottie, but it is fed into huge molds and then cut into six different sizes and the pieces are put together by a lead cement."

"That is the way the different colors are put into the same piece, and the putting of the small pieces together is what the artist is needed." The finest material used in the process is a cheap article because the person who put the bits together had no artistic instinct."

Briton Once Cannibal.
The Briton as a cannibal is the theme of circumstantial evidence furnished by an archaeological spade which has been dug up in New York's shore. Not only is testimony offered in favor of cannibalism among the ancient Britons a practice that has been proved to exist, but also for human sacrifices, perhaps also suttee, indulged in at the burial of some great personage. In some burials there were signs of a structure but it proved to have been used as a siphoner, the walls and roofs being drawn down over the body.

Practical Preparation.
"I'm surprised that you favor high-education in the visitor to the village blacksmith."

"Well, the collector is improving," explained the man of iron. "Time was when you had to learn nothing but the blacksmithing, but now, by the time you get through the athletic course, he'll be fit for a first-class blacksmith."

She—Whom did you congratulate first, the bride or the groom?
He—Neither; I congratulated the minister.

"Why the minister?"
"Oh, he got the money, you know."—Yonkers Statesman.

Could Stand It.
Proud Parent—If you call in the evening you will probably hear my daughter singing.

Friend—Gee! I shan't mind that. You ought to hear the fellow down our way practicing on the cornet. It is simply awful.—Tit-Bits.

She Had.
A fellow she thought a lot of
"I can't say," answered Senator Sorghum, "to tell the truth, I am not sure I'll get far enough into the calcium light to make it worth while to strike any attitude."—Washington Star.

It Would Be Folly to Be Wise.
The Moralist—Folksy thing they can't keep his head in better order. Seems to me absurdly blunt.

There's the Rub.
Jenks—What's the matter, old man?
Jones—Why, the fault is in my daughter can't sing.

Jenks—Lucky beggar! I wish mine were. Not only is testimony offered in favor of cannibalism among the ancient Britons a practice that has been proved to exist, but also for human sacrifices, perhaps also suttee, indulged in at the burial of some great personage. In some burials there were signs of a structure but it proved to have been used as a siphoner, the walls and roofs being drawn down over the body.

Stung.
"Adam," he said, "was a lucky man."
"Yes," she replied, "he had no friends to come around and persuade him to go on their bands."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Persuasive Lover.
The Sister—I have become engaged to Fred.
The Brother—Whatever induced you to do that?

The Sister—Why, Fred, of course.—Tit-Bits.

Wishes with His Coat Off.
Patrons—And how say he probably takes his coat off when he goes to work?
Patrice—Why, certainly! He's a swimming instructor!—Yonkers Statesman.

Wanted It Handy.
Jackson—I hear that Bill is on the water wagon.
Cherry—Well, yes, but he has a bottle under the wheel.—Town Talk.

Maid—Why didn't you speak to your mamma when she came in to see you?
Dorothy—Oh, the lady! Why, hadn't she been introduced.—Chicago Daily News.

Time-Worn.
"I've saw their boasted heirlooms,
And I declare to you,
Said Mrs. Knux, 'they haven't
A single one that's new!'"
—Philadelphia Press.

The Professor.
The professor, who has a large lawn, was making his regular daily attempt to keep it clear of the autumn leaves contributed by his neighbors' trees.

"There's a good deal of raked-in in this business," he said, stopping a moment to rest, "but not a cent of graft."—Chicago Tribune.

Close Inspection.
"Billings' wife must be very near sighted."
"What makes you think so?"
"Didn't you see her looking at his coat?"

"That's good. She was looking for a stray hat that wasn't hers."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Easier Handled.
Jim—If there's one thing I dislike more than another it's a shallow man.
Sam—Yes, but there's one thing in his favor.

"I'd like to know what it is."
"He doesn't require so much watching as a deep one."—Tit-Bits.

Noticed Them.
"Four first trip to the seashore, was it not?"
"Yes, my first trip."
"Of course, you noticed the immense swells?"

"Sure! I got engaged to two of them."—Houston Post.

Water to the River.
The Moralist—The busy bee improves each shining hour.
The Plain Citizen—As though a shining hour wasn't good enough for any one, you never can make some folks leave well enough alone.—N. Y. Sun.

All at the Market Price.
"Haron, what did you give your boys for their presents of raked-in?"
"Solders."
"And your daughter?"
"I bought her one too; a Lieutenant."—Pittsburg Blatter.

Absolutely Effective.
Jack Youngblood—I'm only going out to the club, dear, so don't wait for me if I'm late.

The Little Wife (sweetly)—No, darling, I'll come and fetch you.—Tit-Bits.

A Safer Place.
"Doesn't it make you nervous to be in the road when an automobile comes along at breakneck speed?"
"Yes," answered the suburban dweller. "But I'd rather be in the road than in the machine."

Back to Earth.
He—Good-by forever! I leave you now, never to return.
She—Well, for goodness' sake, remember that it's cheaper in telegrams than to send a messenger.—Life.

The Suburban Souvenir Night.
Kulcher—The Smiths are giving away souvenirs.
Bucker—Yes, it's the fifth night, that I believe has been with them.—N. Y. Sun.

Brave Men.
She—Do you believe men are as brave now as they used to be?
He—Yes, but you never see some men write now.—Yonkers Statesman.

Wanted It Handy.
Jackson—I hear that Bill is on the water wagon.
Cherry—Well, yes, but he has a bottle under the wheel.—Town Talk.

News of the Week.

Either the 14-year old daughter of Andrew Dahlstrom, died Wednesday after an illness of only a week. Lung fever was the cause of her demise. She lived with her parents on the Government road a few miles southeast of Pine City. The funeral services will be held today and interment will take place in the Gov. Road cemetery.

Commencing next Sunday and continuing every Sunday thereafter, six o'clock dinners will be served at the Hotel Agnes, to which every resident of Pine City is especially invited. The menu for the fare to be served next Sunday morning can be found elsewhere in this issue. The new departure is a very desirable one for it will afford many tired housewives and old others, who would rather rest than be bothered with "getting up meals," the opportunity to rest from their accustomed duties.

The Ladies' Aid auction at O. H. Olson's Oct. 14th was quite a success, although the bad weather undoubtedly prevented many from coming. The money received for the goods sold, which amounted to nearly twenty-four dollars, was donated to Rev. R. J. Meland, with the exception of five dollars, which was to be paid for church rent in Pine City. Previously the Ladies' Aid had sent the pastor eight dollars, and for these kind gifts Rev. Meland wishes through the columns of the Pioneer to express his hearty thanks to the members of the Ladies' Aid, and others that assisted them in the good work.

G. H. White, of Fargo, N. Dak., spent Sunday in this place.

Don't fail to read the new add of the Big Store in this issue.

He Could Hardly Get Up.

P. H. Duffey, of Ashley, Illinois, writes: "This is to certify that I have taken two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure and it has helped me more than any other medicine. I tried many advertised remedies, but none of them gave me any relief. My druggist recommended Foley's Kidney Cure and it has cured me. Before commencing its use I was in such a shape that I could hardly get up when called down." L. E. Breckenridge.

W. A. Herron, of Finch, Arkansas, writes: "I wish to report that Foley's Kidney Cure has cured a terrible case of kidney and liver trouble that two doctors had given up." L. E. Breckenridge.

FROM SOUTH AFRICA.
 New Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
 Mr. Arthur Chapman, writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a sure salve for old and young I pen you the following: My wife of nine had a child that over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some in the baby's mouth the baby was sucking, I would no doubt cure the child. This quick relief cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by L. E. Breckenridge.

The Best Liniment.
 "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is considered the best Liniment on the market," write Post and Bliss, of Georgia, Va. No other liniment will heal a cut or bruise so promptly.
