He was encored and responded with a vocal selection accompanying himself on the guitar.

GRADUATED

The Class of 1910 of Webster High School Commencement Exercises in Stekl's Hall Saturday Evening.

Saturday evening the fifteen seniors of our high school held their graduating exercises in Stekl's hall.

The hall was tastily decorated with the class colors and presented a very fine appearance.

At an early hour the audience began to gather and when it was time to commence the program every seat was occupied and a goodly number were compelled to stand up.

At about 8:15 the graduates marched in and took their places on the stage.

The program was opened with a prayer by Rev. O. W. Fisher; and then followed the graduates that took part: The Salutatory Address, Noble Clark; Class History, Helen Jumer; Class Chorus; Class Prophecy, Genevieve Lambert; Class Will, Elmer Peterson and Webster Hodge; Essay, Mamie Anderson. Each one of the above did exceedingly well, but space forbids us to give each special mention.

A. R. W. Olson sang a solo and Mr. McAdam the superintendent made a few remarks, as did ex-superintendent Peter Olson, of Cloquet, who was present. The diplomas were given to the class by President of the School Board, D. Greeley, after which the benediction was pronounced.

At the close of the program the chairs were removed and dancing was indulged in by the members of the high school until midnight when a luncheon was served.

To Voters.

To the voters of the 32 Legislative District, Pine, Kanabec and Chisago Counties.

My name having been frequently mentioned by the local and state press in connection with Legislative honors from this district, I feel that a few words from myself are in order.

My time is too valuable for me to spend in political contests, nor am I inclined to make any financial investment for political ends, but if my experience and acquaintance are deemed of value to the people of the district and state, I shall willingly serve them as a member of the House.

I believe in legislative re-apportionment. In a constitutional amendment for an increased road tax.

In the re-election of Senator Clapp in the interest of party harmony.

In the legislation to authorize county option, to fight tuberculosis, to encourage drainage immigration and settled, and to secure the rights of labor.

In any needful legislation for the protection of our forests and the conservation of our State resources.

In the extension of agriculture education.

In the referendum on fundamental laws.

In some form of relief from the financial burdens of our present primary law.

In such regulation of corporations as shall best serve the public interest and make mere man something more than a mishap.

And in the equalization of schools taxes and school opportunities throughout the commonwealth to the end that every child though reared on a farm, may be fitted for responsible citizenship.

If these sentiments meet with approval, and my candidacy is not in conflict with that of anyone who could render better service, it would be a pleasure to me to take the humblest part in the upbuilding of our State. Otherwise, I have cattle on my farm that always welcome me home, and the social sacrifice would not be great.

UPPER MINNESOTA BOOSTERS TO STICK TO REAPPORTIONMENT UNTIL THEY WIN.

NEXT MEETING IN BRAINER

System of Township Schools and New Land Law. Also Resolved Upon One-Mill Tax for Good Roads.

Strong resolutions were adopted by the Northern Minnesota Development association at the afternoon session Friday.

A demand for reapportionment at the next session of the legislature.

A one-mill state tax for good roads and employment of good roads experts.

A correction of alleged evils in the administration of state lands.

An appropriation of $100,000 for the board of immigration.

Establishment of a system of township rural schools and modification of the present school system so as to provide for their co-ordination with other institutions of learning.

Crookston, Minnesota. — The Northern Minnesota Development association has said its last word.

The resolutions score the state land policy and make an appeal for reapportionment.

The demand for reapportionment comes first in the resolutions, as the people of this section believe that their future development and fair treatment rests, above all else, on this.

But the state land policy is criticized more mildly than it would have been had it not been feared that political color would be given to the expression of the association.

As it is, the paragraph expressing a demand for a change in the state land policy is in substance as outlined by Robert J. Wells, candidate for state auditor in an interview recently given to the public.

Conservative Counsel Prevails. There were men on the committee here to State Auditor Iverson.

There was a disposition to make the position stronger but more conservative counsel prevailed and the chapter was modified.

Auditor Iverson had arrived on the ground and it is possible that the activities of himself and of his friends had something to do with toning down the resolutions relative to the land policy.

The suggestion that mineral rights be reserved to the buyer of lands was made, but turned down, even though accompanied by the suggestion of the accompanying bill to make the provision stronger but more conservative counsel prevailed and the chapter was modified.

MOROCCAN MINISTER HOME.

F. W. Carpenter, Former Sec. to Pres. Taft, Visits Mother.

Sauk Center. — Fred Warner Carpenter, former secretary to President Taft, arrived here in Sauk Center immediately went to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Sprague.

Carpenter was met at the depot by Mrs. Eva Carpenter, his mother, who is the sister of Mrs. C. M. Sprague, and is visiting here for the summer. C. M. Sprague was away at Crookston at the development convention, and so Carpenter was taken to the home of F. W. Sprague, manager of the First National Bank.

Carpenter evaded the newspaper men at St. Paul and Minneapolis, as he is sure anxious to discuss politics and to get into publicity at present. He was somewhat tired and in great need of rest.

"I am not sick, but simply in need of a little rest before taking up any work at Morocco," said Carpenter. He was reticent and did not wish to speak for publicity. He will remain here about two weeks and visit with Mrs. Carpenter, his mother, and take in the fishing season. His desire is to get all the quiet rest possible and have a long visit with his mother.

Mrs. Carpenter, while delighted with her son's promotion, was visibly affected at the thought of him going to a foreign land.

DULUTH HAS $100,000 FIRE. Two Firemen Are Overcome by Smoke When Building Burns.

Duluth. — A $100,000 fire completely gutted the Old Bradley building, occupied by the Rathskeller cafe, the Knok 5 and 10-cent store and several stores.

The fire started in the kitchen of the cafe from a defective gas range. It was the third blaze in the past nine weeks originating there. The others were less disastrous.

Two firemen, William McLaughlin and John Cribbler, were overcome by smoke and had to be carried from the burning building.

Practically the entire fire fighting apparatus in the city was employed in the battle with the blaze, which defied all efforts for three hours. It was with the utmost difficulty that the flames were kept from spreading to the new Bradley building adjoining the Bradley block. It caught fire several times.

TIMOTHY MURPHY IS GUILTY. Man Who Abandoned With $1,250 Is Convicted.

St. Paul. — Captain Timothy Murphy, recently of the Volunteers of America, who claimed that he was kidnaped and robbed of $1,250 belonging to the organization on March 17 last, was found guilty by a jury, of grand larceny in the first degree.

The offense carries with it a punishment of one to ten years in the penitentiary. The money Murphy is alleged to have stolen was collected during Tag day, the fund being raised to build a girls' rescue home.

Murphy disappeared and several days later returned, claiming that he had been confined in a cave by robbers who took the money.

Murphy Given Seven Years. St. Paul. — Seven years at hard labor in the state prison at Stillwater was the sentence pronounced by Judge Hallam in District Court on Timothy Murphy, former captain in the Volunteers of America, as a punishment for having embezzled $1,250 March 21 last. The sum represented the major part of the fund collected by Volunteer workers on Tag day, March 17 last.

STOCK YARDS IN RUINS. Rochester, Minnesota. — Fire, at 12:45 p. m., destroyed the stockyard buildings and yards of the Chicago Great Western railway.

Smyth in the smuggling case on the charge of concealing two pearl necklaces, a brooch and gold watch, and was sent to Hoboken in custody of an inspector to be arraigned before United States Commissioner Russ.

It will not be a business convention, but a social gathering for amicable entertainment. Outings and excursions have been planned, including a party by steamboat to Two Harbors and return.

SETTLE RATE FIGHT

RESULT GRATIFIES EXECUTIVE

President, Therefore, Promises to Discontinue Injunction Proceedings—Commerce Body Will Adjust All Schedules.

Washington, D. C. — A complete agreement between the government and the recently enjoined railways of the Western trunk lines association was reached at a White House conference which lasted for more than four hours.

The railroads represented agreed to withdraw all rate increases intended to be effective on or after June 1, and agreed to no more increases until the bill in congress will have the interstate commerce commission power to investigate and suspend increases that are not justified, because a law and order to effect.

President Taft thereupon stated that the administration's purpose in bringing the injunction suit had been accomplished, and the suit would be discontinued. The discontinuance will not be entered, however, until after the new railroad law is signed.

The belief was expressed that all of the other railroads of the country which have filed increased rates or have had such a plan under consideration will abide by the agreement reached with the railroads named as defendants in the recent suit.

Expected to Acquiesce. There will be another conference at the White House in which President Brown of the New York Central railway, President McCrea of the Pennsylvania and other officials representing railroads in the Eastern and Central territory will participate. That they will acquiesce in President Taft's proposition and hold up the proposed increases until after the new law becomes effective is practically taken for granted.

Every one connected with the conference seemed gratified over the outcome. All that President Taft has desired is that the interstate commerce commission should have the authority to investigate increases in rates to determine whether or not they are justified by prevailing conditions and are just to the shippers. This power is to be conferred under the new law.

The railroads, on the other hand, it is pointed out, are to be relieved of unnecessary litigation, are assured of "square deal" when their case is presented to the interstate commerce commission and are free to resume the contracts for improvements with the government.

The new railroad bill contains a clause which gives about 60 days after being signed by the president. Must Act Immediately. It will be necessary to make the provision for the supervision of rates by the interstate commerce commission immediately effective and for this reason, as President Taft indicated, it will be necessary to send the bill to congress.

Louisville, Ky. — The inquest into the case of a woman who has been postponed to Wednesday, June 2, Duncan, stating that evidence is not yet well enough in hand to take up the case. The suspect arrested at Bowling Green, Ky., who was brought to Louisville proved not to be Wendling. Notwithstanding the early hour, a large number of persons assembled at the depot to see the prisoner, and the police were called upon to disperse the crowd.

Amateur Jolted From Plane. New York, N. Y. — Gifford B. Harmon, amateur, was jolted from the seat of his aeroplane and hurled to the ground as he was about to alight after a flight at Mineola, L. I. PINE CITY, MINN., June 10, 1910.

The Dignity of the Law!

There never was a time in the history of the country when there was a greater demand for a high ideal in legal ethics than the present. The spectacle of the attorney for Harry K. Thaw in his recent trial who brought an action in the courts of New York to recover the sum of one hundred thousand dollars from the unfortunate degenerate who has disgraced his family and outraged public decency by dragging his venomous career into public view, for money spent by this member of an honorable profession in bribing members of the New York tenderloin, is a disgrace to the courts of justice and the legal profession which both have been more than anxious to resent. The courts promptly dismissed the action and in doing so administered a rebuke such as has seldom been heard from the bench. The judge advised that criminal proceedings be instituted at once and the legal profession, through the bar association of New York commenced proceedings for the disbarment of the offender. There is but little question in the minds of those who have watched the proceedings that the bar association will disbar the attorney nor is there any question that the criminal proceedings will result in his conviction and punishment. A consummation to be devoutly wished.

There is no one institution in our form of government for which the public should have more respect than our courts of justice and it is and should be a source of much gratification to our people that throughout the history of our country our courts have stood as the guardians of the rights and privileges of the people free from the contaminating influences of outside pressure. The rich and the poor, the strong and the weak have and should stand on equal footing before the courts. No other rule can make life and property safe. Any effort to corrupt the courts or to resort to unfair means to win suits before our courts is a blow aimed at the very existence of a free government and an attack upon the liberties of the people.

If there is any one class of men who should be interested in preserving the integrity of our courts and safeguarding its machinery it is the lawyer. No man should be admitted to the bar who is not broad enough and large enough to prefer the defeat of the cause in which he may be engaged to the prostitution of the system of jurisprudence under which our courts are organized and operated. The lawyer who will connive at perjury or resort to questionable methods to win a case, may gain the reputation of being a "case winner" or may be counted a "sharp lawyer" but he is a traitor to the country, a disgrace to his profession and a criminal in the eye of the law. A large majority of the lawyers of our land are high-minded, honorable and patriotic gentlemen who are above the trickery of the shyster and it is to their credit that they as a body discontinue such methods as were disclosed in this New York case. The public demand a high standard of professional ethics on the part of the members of the legal profession. A large majority of the lawyers try to live up to the highest ideals of professional conduct, and the courts encourage the honest practitioner in the practice of his profession in accordance with these standards. The public frequently force the standard lower than it should be by their anxiety to win cases without merit and by their desire to employ the trickster who by methods shady and underhanded win cases that an honest lawyer would prefer to lose. The fault today is not with the lawyer but with that large class of people whose dishonesty makes the crooked attorney their chief assistant. It is up to the legal profession and the public to uphold the dignity of the law and the honor of the legal profession.

One fact is certain. The passage of the Payne tariff bill hasn't filled the country with tramps and the ethics with soup-houses. The State employment bureau of the state of Kansas has sent out an appeal for 20,000 harvest hands to help the farmers of that state gather their crops. Kansas will commence harvesting about the 20th of this month and there is a shortage of help.

WE ARE all loyal to Col. Roosevelt. We all believe him to be a great man and many of us believe him to be a wise man, but it certainly looks to a person at this distance that he slipped over just a little when he criticized England's policy in Egypt while accepting the hospitality of the English people. It looks altogether too much like a casual visitor criticizing family affairs.

THE Oklahoma U. S. Marshal who sent his two boys aged ten and six on horseback unattended and alone from Oklahoma to New York to greet Col. Roosevelt on his return from Europe, has demonstrated the fact that he is sadly lacking in common sense. Were it necessary to make a trip of this kind it might be justifiable for all this kind of appearance the dangers of the trip are forced upon the children by a foolhardy parent who seeks notoriety. Well, he is welcome to such as he will get.

IN CONSIDERING the tariff question it should not be lost sight of that the real question of value in the markets of the world cannot be measured in dollars and cents nor in pounds sterling. There is but one infallible test of value and that is the purchasing power of a day's labor. The commodity costs just as much as it requires in labor to pay for it and no more. If the conditions existing in this country make it possible for a day's labor to buy more of the luxuries and necessities of life than it will buy elsewhere, then this country is the cheapest country in the world to live in.

A CHICAGO palmist says that if young people contemplating marriage would compare their hands and by the rules of palmistry select their affinity there would be fewer divorce suits. In the future, she says, that when the love-smitten swain asks for the hand of his enamored her father will say, "You ask for my daughter's hand; let me see yours." This wouldn't be a bad idea? And if the fellows first and second finger on the left hand show the tobacco stains which mark the cigarette smoker, kick him out, but if his hand shows the good hard lines of honest toil, it is pretty safe to treat him kindly for he will make a valuable addition to the family.

THE people are beyond all question committed to a wise system of conservation and believe that the natural resources of the country should be so handled as to make them available for the people, but there is such a thing as having too much of a good thing. With the fact that 90,000 Americans went to the Canadian northwest last year staring us in the face, the further consciousness that this condition is due to the liberal administration of the public land department of the Dominion government. It looks as though a little more statesmanship in our departments would keep many of this thrifty army of homeseekers in the land where they belong. A few more Pinchots and the tide of homeseekers leaving our land would be doubled.

MINNESOTA'S State convention should see to it that the party places in nomination for the various offices only men of known ability. Men of honor and integrity whose past will not need explaining. Men of action who are ready and willing to take up the business of the state and attend to it in a business-like way. Men of courage, who will stand up for what they believe to be right no matter who may oppose. Men of loyalty, who will be governed in their official acts by the principals of the party rather than by a desire to feather their own nests. The voters of the state demand such a ticket. Such a ticket can be elected. Such a ticket would be a credit to the party and to the state. It is time that the men who are interested in the make up of the ticket understood that it is nothing but high-class men that the people of the state want in public office.

Don't sit around this fall and tell of what should have been done in the way of making a ticket or in grumbling about the failure of your party to embody in its platform the precise principals that should be there. Get out now and see that you are represented. The political ticket of the party represents the men who make it. If your man is not on the ticket and your principals are not embodied in the declaration you have no one to blame but yourself. You have no duty to complain of the work done by those who do it so long as you do nothing. In the prevailing form of party management there is nothing for the individual to complain of if he is willing to work. The man who does nothing during the time he should work and then sits around and grumbles afterwards is more troublesome than a boil on the nose and not half so much entitled to sympathy.

Electing Cousin Fred

By DONALD ALLEN

Copyright, 1920, by Associated Literary Press

Time, almost without number, beginning at the age of fourteen, Besse Winwood's mother had warned her that she was too galling. One of the things her mother meant by that was her readiness to confide in others, even on the slightest acquaintance.

On this occasion, however, even if she had resolved beforehand to be firm and silent and discreet and study the way of her shoes, instead of the faces of her fellow passengers, all the way out to Belleville, it would have been hard to keep her resolution.

When she drove up to the depot from her home the cabman tried to collect an exorbitant fare, and a gentleman came forward and read him a lecture. Then, as she was buying her railroad ticket, she left her purse on the shelf of the ticket window and the same gentleman brought it to her. Again, she was about to take the train for Albany instead of Belleville when he set her right. Then they had chairs seats side by side, both bound for the same place, and the gentleman had presented his card, as a gentleman should, and the conductor had asked and he nodded at him and thus vouched for his character. When all these things had been taken into consideration Miss Besse felt it almost a duty to gush.

The good looking stranger had presented a card bearing the name of "Mr. Charles Burden." Miss Besse was a bit near-sighted, and after she had made "Buden" of "Burd" she stuck the card away in her reticule to be forgotten for days and weeks. She gave her own name in return, and that, gushingly added:

"I'm sure you can never guess who I'm going to Belleville, and so I'll tell you at once. It's on account of politics."

"So you are a suffragette?" smiled Mr. Burden.

"Oh, no, no, no! I'll tell you how it is. If you have heard of papa, you know that he is a politician."

"Yes, State Senator Winwood."

"I'm glad you've heard, for I think papa a great man. Well, I get my poligrine a hand, but wait 'till Aunt Jane and I get to work."

"Well, if he is unworthy, I hope you will defeat him. At any rate, my vote is pledged to you."

A week later Mr. Burden met Miss Winwood on the highway as she was electoroning in her auto and hailed her to say:

"I presume you are out after votes today?"

"Yes, I am seeing the farmers one by one," was the reply.

"Then you are getting lots of votes for cousin Fred?"

"Well, I think so; but can't tell. When I tell people what a scoundrel Mr. Burden is, the machine behind him intends to loom and don't treasury lots of them smile and don't say anything. That is, some of them don't believe it. If Fred would only hunt up the man's record and make some speeches and denounce him; but he won't do it."

"And have you met the villain yourself yet?"

"No, I think he has heard that I am on his trail and he is keeping clear. Aunt Jane heard last night that if he was elected he would try to raise her taxes 50 per cent. now, and she's got an awful headache today. Goodbye. I have won over three different men this afternoon. Please help me all you can."

The nominations had been made a full month in advance. The county papers were stirred up and the tickets carried excellent men. Carrying out the policy of Aunt Jane, Miss Besse sat down and wrote a communication to the Democrat, praising up Fred and giving his opponent fits, but it was not published. Fred was pitched into a dozen times a day for his lukewarmness, but he refused to lustle. He wouldn't even call the other chap a horse thief and a barn burner.

Three days before election, and while Miss Besse was making what her father called a whirlwind tour of that part of the country, she ran across Mr. Burden again. He was Mr. Burden to her still. She was looking so elated that he felt compelled to ask:

"Well, is the machine-made villain to be snowed under?"

"Hurled into obscurity for all time to come!" was her proud answer.

"You don't mean it?"

"But I do. We have what papa calls a cinch. His grave is already dug."

"And you are one of the diggers?"

"I've dug most of it. Fred hasn't stirred, and Aunt Jane won't kiss the farmers' young 'uns. Oh, when papa hears how I have electoroned, all about it, he'll be glad to see me."

There was to be one more meeting and then a long interval. It took place on the highway in the early evening. Miss Besse had been carrying voters to the polls in her auto all day, and was now on her way home rejoicing. She waved her hand as she met Mr. Burden. He was about to tell him the good news when a man came along in a buggy and called out:

"Hello, Burden! They have finished the count, and you are elected by over 500 majority."

"Burden-Burden!" gasped the girl so she stared at the man.

"Yes, Burden; but I kept my pledge and voted for Fred."

It took Mr. Charles Burden just three months to get an interview with Miss Besse Winwood, three months more to get her forgiveness, and six months in addition before he dared say:

"That little word has made me the happiest man in the whole world, and now to set the wedding day!"

Heart.

"I can't endure much exercise," sighs some of our folk. "I have a weak heart. In fact I don't really exercise at all—I don't dare to." And the truth is that he does not do much of anything that enables him to taste the real pleasures of living. Too many men and women who believe that they would weak hearts live on and on, always dreading to act as other and happier people do, always trying to stave off the death that they believe to be inevitable if anything like exercise is undertaken by them. Now, how do you go about strengthening the weak muscles of the arm and leg? You exercise them, and from being weak, flabby and feeble, they become hard, firm and enduring. The heart itself may be defined as one great muscle; it is one mass of muscular tissue composed of a great number of constituent muscles, and every one of these is capable of being strengthened and hardened so as to resist all ordinary strains. Thus the organ may be made to do its work in the manner that nature intended it to—Sunday Magazine of the Los Angeles Herald.

Farm School Letter

Interesting Information on Minnesota Agriculture by Our Special Correspondent.

Don't Kill the Toad.

Prof. Washburn of the Minnesota Division of Agriculture at University Farm finds toads to be friends of the farmer. They feed entirely upon an incredible number of insects. The federal department of agriculture, investigating the toad, discovers the fact that in twenty-four hours the insect food consumed by one toad equals in quantity four times the capacity of its stomach, which is practically filled and emptied four times every twenty-four hours. One hundred fifty-nine stomachs examined by the department showed a content of 19 per cent of ants; 16 per cent of earthworms; 10 per cent of thousand legged worms; 9 per cent caterpillars; 3 per cent of ground beetles; 5 per cent of destructive weevils; 3 per cent of grasshoppers, together with crickets, spiders, sow bugs, potato bugs and a miscellaneous lot of other insects. Protect the toad. Teach the thoughtless boy friendliness to this harmless, harmless, useful animal.

The Pocket Gopher.

Blasphemy of carbon on a piece of burial or oakum, thrown quickly down a pocket gopher's burrow, preferably at night, is the method Prof. Washburn, Minnesota entomologist, says has killed many pocket gophers in his experiment work. He uses half a pint of sulphuric acid at a burrow. The chemical enters at hole as it is made up of cents a pint. Its gas is very poisonous, heavier than air, penetrates the burrow, and causes death by suffocation. The openings must be completely closed with dirt to prevent air going in. Do not use matches or a light when using sulphuric acid. It is dangerous explosive. Resort to sulphuric acid has sometimes been had. A little on a piece of potato, pushed far down the hole with a stick so that no scent of the hand is left in the earth, has killed many.

Fight Quack Grass Now.

Get to work now on the small patches of quack grass. Set them apart for special attention during the rest of the summer. Keep the underground stems from being dragged to other parts of the field. If the patches are too large to smother with tar paper dig up the grass, shake out the roots and underground stems carefully, and haul them from the field and burn. A five or six-tined fork will be found a valuable tool for this work. If dead the roots and stems may be plowed under to increase fertility. Look the patches over every week to catch any plants that may have been left or that may have developed. These patches may be planted to any cultivated crop. For management of large patches or fields of quack grass see Minnesota Press Bulletin No. 36.

Seed Corn Week, Sept. 19th-24th, 1910.

Are you really interested in having better seed corn for next season? Would you be willing to assist in boosting the reputation of our state along the line of production and particularly along the line of corn? Could you be counted on to co-operate with the extension division by saving your seed corn early this season and urging your neighbors to do the same?

We need to make this "seed corn week" a state-wide movement.

Reports received at the Minnesota Experiment Station at St. Anthony Park from Minnesota Farmers who save seed corn every week to catch any plants that may have been left or that may have developed. These patches may be planted to any cultivated crop. For management of large patches or fields of quack grass see Minnesota Press Bulletin No. 36.

The Old Method of Cultivating corn was to go over the field with a drag when the corn was just coming up. This method is no longer recommended by the Minnesota department of agriculture. Modern methods at University Farm, St. Anthony Park, are the use of the cultivator and deep stirring of the earth as soon as planting is over, and shallow cultivation when the roots have started.

Bull Thistles, Common in Pastures, cannot always be killed by mowing. Mowing tends to prevent maturity of seeds. Digging out the thistles just below the surface of the ground two or three times a year, will effectually eradicate them. Working the ground in rows of grass, grain and corn is a very sure way of eradicating weeds.

Strawberries.—The Minnesota Experiment Station has had best results by cultivating the strawberries set out in the spring, and by picking off all blossoms that appear during the first year. Fruiting the first season weakens the plants. The Station keeps the runners in the row where they will take root and form new plants.

Kill the weeds in the corn and potatoes. Weeds take up moisture the crop need and prevent the circulation of air, thus encouraging the spread of plant diseases. They shade the ground and keep the soil from absorbing heat—an important factor in corn growth.

Cultivate Corn Often to save soil moisture is advised by the Minnesota Experiment Station.

Spraying of Dandelions.

For the past two years from sulphuric acid has been used the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station for the eradication of dandelions in lawns. Fairly good success has resulted from these experiments. Although spraying the dandelions does not by any means mean absolute destruction of this pest, it at least kills many of the flowering stalks and keeps hundreds of dandelions from coming to seed. It also kills many of the younger plants. If one were to spray a lawn carefully for an entire season the result would possibly warrant the time and expense connected with the spraying. Iron sulphate at the rate of 15 pounds to a gallon of water is the proper proportion to use on the lawn. The spray should be applied with a sprayer which gives a very fine, mist-like spray. Apply the solution about three days after the lawn is cut, on a day that is bright and warm. The grass will be somewhat blackened but little damage results. Some of the white clover owing to the broad leaf is somewhat injured. The lawn should be sprayed about once a month. Care should be taken when spraying to keep the solution off of the cement walks as it discolors them.

Out Worm Destruction.

The State Entomologist, Prof. F. L. Washburn, says "some relief may be had from the worms by the use of poisoned baits, and more applied as follows: Make a bran mass, sweetened with molasses or brown sugar, and add enough Paris green to make it a decided green color. A big tablespoonful of this placed at intervals among the plants, just at nightfall, will attract to it the worms, and kill a large number. These baits should not be put too close to the plants for fear rain will wash the Paris green against the plants and injure them. Out worms do not die immediately upon taking this poison, but it is sure death after a few hours. Traps, consisting of boards placed about the garden, may be used, under which the cut worms will be found in the morning. Some birds prey upon them, and various parasites and predaceous insects attack them. In the case of field crops, where it is possible, frequent cultivation will turn the worms up, enabling birds and other enemies to prey upon them.

Another Less Than a Dollar Dinner.

Four college girls of Miss Shepherd's senior class in domestic science gave the last of their money to the college year, recently, in the Domestic Science Building, at the Experiment Station, at St. Anthony Park. The menu for the evening was: Tomato soup, croquettes, second-stuffed, hot potato puff, lima beans, Parker House rolls, mint ice, third Waldorf salad, cream, coffee, fourth Ribburb pie, cream, orange, coffee, cream, sugar. The cost was 95¢ each, or a little over 15 cents for each person. In the college dining hall the meals cost each student at this season of the year 15 cents, but the actual cost of the food, eaten is about 8 cents.

Fodder Corn.—At the Minnesota Experiment Station it is thought that fodder corn may be planted this year up to the 10th or 15th of June. It will yield several more tons per acre than hay. Harrow the field smooth, sow the corn in drills three feet to three feet eight inches apart, and broadcast from one to two inches apart in the row. Fodder corn may be harrowed until it is two or three inches high, and the grass must not be cut or strud as suggesting a growing of field corn. Such harrowing is regarded at the Station as bad practice. Cultivate the fodder corn every week through the growing season.

The Minnesota Experiment Station does not recommend the killing of an animal for the purpose of human food when twenty-four hours after feeding. When an animal is on full feed it is impossible to thoroughly drain the veins. Food in the stomach rapidly decomposes after the animal is killed, and the gas generated often flavors the meat disagreeably. Water, however, may be given up to the time of slaughter. It keeps the temperature normal and helps to wash the effluvia matter out of the system. A nicely colored carcass results.

The Division of Botany and Plant Pathology has just prepared a new weed seed collection of twenty-four seeds, including seeds of quack grass, Canada goose, mustard, etc. The collection is now on sale. It is for farmers of this state, and 75¢ to non-residents. Send orders to Cashier, Minnesota Experiment Station, St. Paul, Minn.

The Experiment station at University Farm has never been able to discover a way of telling, before placing in an incubator or under a hen, whether an egg will hatch or if it will produce a rooster or pullet.

In setting hens, or in incubating artificially, the Minnesota Experiment station has found best results by selecting eggs of uniform size, with smooth shell and as perfectly formed as possible.

Aids Nature

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, wasted bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth, that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making materials, in condensed and concentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughs. The "Discovery" re-establishes the digestive and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.
