AN EASY AFFAIR
 Pine City Wins From The Cambridge Boys
Wins By 9 Scores
 Pine City High School Goes Over to Cambridge Saturday and Wins Easily

Last Saturday morning the Pine City High School team left here at 8 a. m. and drove over to Cambridge to play the high school team of that place. The boys arrived at Cambridge after a hot, dry and dusty ride of about thirty miles, at noon, and consequently were not in the best of condition for the long, hard and steady grind that lay before them. After a real good dinner and a rub down they donned their suits and armor, and proceeded to proceed to the scene of action. The smell of powder was in their ears and truly the nine presented a very formidable force. Perhaps this little bluff had something to do with the eleven to two score.

The feature of the game was the pitching of Cunningham and the all-round hitting of the team.

The local boys have played every team in the High School League and have only lost one game. This defeat was scored over to them by Mora, at Mora, a week ago last Saturday by the score of six to two. Pine City has played two games with Mora this season, winning one and losing one. The next game to be played will be pulled off during the Track Meet, which will be held at Hinckley on Saturday, May 19. At this time Pine City will play Mora again.

Some of the events of this meet are sure to be won by some of the local boys, so there are some very good athletes among the bunch. Keep your eye on Pine City a week from tomorrow.

HOW READY FOR BUSINESS

The boats belonging to the Pine City Boat Club have recently been overhauled and put in first-class repair, and the new management is now ready to make trips to all points on either Green or Polk systems lakes.

Last year this concern was owned and operated by F. C. Ingelston, who is now absent. This spring the boats were purchased by F. E. McKeel, of this place. The lively corporation four north launches, which may be rented by the hour, day or week. Mr. McKeel thoroughly understands the business and is well equipped.

BOOSTS CHURCH
 The Best Preachers In The State Here Monday
Very Good Speaking

A Dinner Was Served at the Parsonage By the Ladies of the Church. A Real Good Time

Monday was a big day in the M. E. church here. There were a great many preachers here from different parts of the state and among them were to be found many of the best. Those present were: C. H. McCrea, Lake Harriet church; S. M. Dick, D. D., Wesley church; W. H. Jordan, D. D., First church; G. G. Valentine, Park Avenue church; Henry Logan, Walker church; H. G. Leonard, D. D., Simpson church; W. E. J. Gratz, Joyce Memorial church and M. Burns, the district superintendent, all of Minneapolis. Jonathon Ralph, North Branch; John Blackhurst, Rush City; W. G. Fritz, Sandstone; Rev. Roper, Rutledge and Arthur Beckendorf, Wyoming.

DIES IN CANADA
 Ole Erickson Killed In Saw Mill By Bursting Saw
Buried At Rock Creek
 He Was Struck in the Stomach by a Flying Bolt From One of the Saws. Buried Wed.

When the train arrived in the morning the preachers from down the line got off and proceeded to the church, where Dr. Dick read a paper on "Present Day Evangelism." The doctor held his audience from start to finish and everybody was pleased to hear such a good speaker.

Dinner was served at the parsonage by the ladies of the church to all the preachers. After dinner was over they were taken for a launch ride on Snake river and Cross lake, which they enjoyed very much. At 2:30 Dr. Jordan read a paper on "What Average Laymen Can Do," which was very interesting. G. G. Valentine expounded the Scripture in a plain and helpful manner, after which followed a discussion, all the ministers taking part. Supper was then served at the parsonage.

In the evening the church was filled to overflowing and Rev. Gratz, of the Joyce Memorial church, Minneapolis, delivered one of the best sermons ever heard in the local church. Dr. Gilles was to have spoken in the evening, and those who stayed away when they learned that he had failed to come, certainly missed a treat, for we doubt if the doctor could have delivered a better sermon than the one that was given. The song service that was given before the preaching was led by Rev. Beckendorf, of Wyoming, who also sang a solo. Mr. Beckendorf is good and the solo was enjoyed by all.

This was certainly one of the greatest programs of the kind that Pine City has ever had, and we hope they will come again.

The particulars of the accident as we have been able to get it is as follows: Mr. Erickson was running one of the saws in the mill when in some manner, a bolt flew and struck him in the stomach, and he only lived eight hours after.

The body was brought to Rock Creek on Monday's noon train accompanied by another son who was also in Canada. The funeral was held from the M. E. church in Rock Creek Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the remains laid to rest in the cemetery at that place, Rev. Parkhurst, of Rush City, officiating.

The pall bearers were: Jas. Morrow, Wm. Doran, Julius Anderson, Felix Wilson, Nels Berglin and John Berglin.

Mr. Erickson was one of Rock Creek's most respected citizens, and was well and favorably known in this place, he having lived in Pine County for a great many years. He leaves a large number of relatives and numerous friends to mourn his loss.

The Pioneer, with the many friends of the family extends its sympathy.

DAVIS-HUGHES WEDDING

A very beautiful wedding took place at the home of J. P. Davis in the town of Rayston last Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The bridal party marched to a beautiful arch on the lawn, and Alice Davis and Rowson H. Hughes were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. H. Parish, of Pine City. Roy O. Hughes, of Duluth, was best man and Amy Blank was the bridesmaid. About thirty-five close friends and relatives witnessed the wedding. A delicious luncheon was served. The groom has rented the Davis farm and will live there with the bride's parents.

IS NOW AT EDEN
 A Letter From F. C. Ingelston From The Red Sea
Telling Of His Trip

Here is a Chance to Brush Up on Your Geography. Hunt it up and Follow Mr. Ingelston

At Eden, April 4, 1911.

Through the Suez Canal and Red Sea on board S. S. Bulow.

To the Pioneer:

We arrived in Port Said at 3:15 p. m. on April 11, after a nice run through the Mediterranean Sea. We had our anchor down at 3:30 p. m. Upon entering the harbor, or just before, we see away upon our left or port side the low, flat sands which form a part of the Holy Land, and as far as our glasses will reach we see only the never ceasing sand dazling in its whiteness. Upon our right or starboard is the long break-water protecting the shipping, and entrance to the Suez canal. About half way down this break-water, which is a massive stone structure two miles long, we pass the monument of Lesseps, the man who put this canal through, connecting the east and west sea waters. This wonderful piece of work has stood for years second to none, only to be overtopped now by the wonderful feat of the Panama canal construction. Here the engineers had the ever shifting sand to contend with, and as one stops and considers the heart-rending adversity which beset Lesseps, we can only agree with the French that he was above the ordinary man.

Upon arriving at our moorings numberless small boats swarm about us soliciting our patronage, taking our passengers to the shore, which is only a matter of a hundred feet. The main street of Port Said lies along the water front, a city of about 2,000 population. The sea front is given up to bathing, and hundreds of bath houses are to be seen. Yours truly went ashore to obtain post cards and spend an hour, and the sights were well worth seeing. As we only stopped for about four hours, long enough to take cold and water, I was back on board at 6 p. m., and by 8 o'clock we were under way. Here all ships must put on their bow a powerful searchlight before proceeding into the canal. We entered the canal at 9 p. m. and under the bright moon light saw a fine sight. I stayed on deck until 11 p. m. and thoroughly enjoyed every moment of the time. A laughable instance occurred at 10:30. A Chinese junk lay hove to at the bank, and as one does not hear much of the English language spoken in this part of the world, imagine our surprise upon our whistling and out calling at the junk, to hear a voice yell in good old American brogue "Has anybody around that ship seen Kelly?" Well, a feather could have knocked us down. We turned in at 11:30 at peace with all mankind.

Up again at 6 a. m. April 13th, and Oh! what a sight. As far as one can see on either side stretches the great sandy desert, while all along the bank of the canal is a fringe of evergreen trees planted by man. The railroad runs along the right bank of the canal from Port Said to Suez, and then away to Cairo.

Hands of men were at work along the canal, while every four miles is a signal station to control the movements of the ships, a block system one might say. The old time ship of the desert, the camel, is much in evidence, they are used in every sand and stone. We saw two elephants carrying a large

WHY SHE GOT THE NOTE

Beautiful Roses Appreciated, but There Was a "Fly in the Ointment"

A young man whose gallantry is in excess of his means sought to remedy this defect and to provide the means of the money required for the purchase of flowers for his lady love by arranging with a gardener to let him have a bouquet from time to time, in return for his cut-of clothes. So it happened that one day he received a bunch of beautiful roses, which he at once dispatched to her house. In sure satisfaction of a friendly welcome, he called on the young woman that evening. He got a frosty reception.

"Did you get my flowers today?" he was finally forced to ask. "Yes, and the note that went with them."

"Note? Why did I send a note?" "You did. A disgraceful note, scrawled with a blunt pencil, on dirty paper. Here it is. I don't understand it, and I don't think you are very humorous."

The note read as follows: "Here's your flowers, but you owe me a pair of pants for 'em"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Now What Did She Mean? At a recent wedding a baby had shrieked without intermission to the great annoyance of the guests, etc. The bride's party was leaving the church a slight delay occurred. One of the guests seized the opportunity to say to the first bridesmaid:

"What a nuisance babies are at a wedding!" "Yes, indeed," answered the bridesmaid, angrily. "When I send out invitations to my wedding, I always print in the corner, 'No babies expected.'"—Judge.

Next! There were a couple of dandy fish larks in the Colonial hotel. We didn't have time to get their names, addresses and photographs, but we lingered long enough to hear the conversation. The poignant part thereof was as follows:

"How much did your fish weigh?" "I didn't have no bay scales with me, you nut. But when I pulled him out it lowered the lake four inches."

"Some fish," commented the other, without the quiver of an eyelash. "Reminds me of some good sport I had duck hunting last fall. I fired at a flock of ducks and scattered up four quills of loose Cleveland Plain Dealer."

The Lesser Evil. Gresham college in 1719 was the scene of a famous serio-comic duel between two celebrated doctors, Doctor Mead and Doctor Woodward, each of whom were lecturers at the college. While walking down Bishopsgate street one morning they quarreled over some medical question and addressed one another in a very unbecoming manner. Woodward was wounded in several places, whereupon Mead indignantly said, "Take thy life." "Anything but your phisic," blazed back the chagrined Woodward as he swooned away.—London Chronicle.

Far From Bohemia. Blenks—How is the least unadorned bohemian getting on these days? "Thanks—Why, they say I am desperately in love with the girl down the laundry and it is married soon. Something suspicious about it, though. Blenks—I should say so. What is a true bohemian doing around a laundry anyway?"

FOOD IN SERMONS Feed the Dominie Right, the Sermons Are Brilliant. A conscientious, hard-working and successful clergyman writes: "I am pleased to bear testimony to the pleasure and increased measure of efficiency and health that have come to me from adopting Grape-Nuts food as one of my articles of diet."

"For several years I was much distressed during the early part of each day by indigestion. My breakfast seemed to turn sour and failed to digest. After dinner the headache and other symptoms following the breakfast would wear away, only to return, however, next morning."

"Having heard of Grape-Nuts food, I finally decided to give it a trial. I made my breakfast of Grape-Nuts with cream, toast and Postum. The result was surprising in improved health and total absence of the distress that had, for so long a time, followed the morning meal."

"My digestion became once more satisfactory, the headache ceased, and the old feeling of energy returned. Since that time I have always had Grape-Nuts food on my breakfast table."

"I was delighted to find also, that whereas before I began to use Grape-Nuts food I was quite nervous and my nerves usually worried in the work of preparing sermons and in study, a marked improvement in this respect resulted from the change in my diet."

"I am convinced that Grape-Nuts food produced this result and helped me to a sturdy condition of mental and physical strength."

"I have known of several persons who were formerly troubled as I was, and who have been helped as I have been, by the use of Grape-Nuts food, as my recommendation." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

Her Spinster Aunts

By M. DIBBELL

"It is either plant the peas twelve inches deep the first of April, or not at all," snarled Mrs. Graydon, with the air of one whose decision is not to be questioned.

Her sister Julia was fully prepared for the fray and answered instantly: "It is either plant them eight inches deep the last of April, or I shall leave this house forever."

The two spinsters paused at this point to glare fiercely at each other, while their niece, Adelaide, wildly racked her brain for the oil of some calming thought to cast upon the troubled waters. Suddenly an apparently very simple solution of the difficulty came to her.

"Why not plant half of them on the flat six miles of month as you wish, Aunt Charlotte, and then the other half at its end to suit Aunt Julia. In that manner you would find whose plan was really best," she suggested.

"Never!" said Aunt Charlotte positively. "It is just a sinful waste of Nature's supply to use it as Julia proposes. I think it is time the question was finally settled, for fifteen years we have lived in this house, and never in all these years have we had a single sweet pea of our own—simply because of Julia's wicked obstinacy."

"Plant everything to suit yourself, and I will do the same, but not within many miles of you as you wish, sister. It certainly is time that this question was settled, Charlotte, and I will do my share toward settling it by leaving the place to do with as you choose." Aunt Julia turned and left the room, closing the door not too softly in her wake.

"Ah, Aunt Charlotte, don't let such a little thing as a few stretched sweet peas separate you and Aunt Julia," cried Adelaide in dismay. "Julia is old enough to decide for herself; if she prefers to go off on a long enough at the business for your good, as such weight as Macgregor's" answered Adelaide; "but I will tell you why I want to see him so much. Perhaps you can make some suggestion."

She explained the trouble over the planting of the sweet peas, and told of Aunt Julia's threat.

"How would a booklet on the subject do, until Macgregor returns?" queried the interested young forist.

"I know he wrote one especially on sweet pea culture several years ago, and has received many letters from persons who have tried his method and been delighted with the result. As it bears his name, perhaps it might carry weight."

"That is a first rate idea," he assented Adelaide, gratefully. "I hope it may settle the whole question, for the next best thing to Macgregor himself would be something over his name."

"The obliging young gardener at once went for one of the booklets, and quickly returned with a copy. And you might sell them to Macgregor's sweet peas have taken first prize at the state fair for five straight years," he remarked, as he gave it to Adelaide.

Adelaide hastened homeward with the light of victory in her eyes. Upon entering the big dining-room where she had left Aunt Charlotte she was surprised to see that Aunt Julia was also seated in the bay window, working industriously at her knitting. With all the impetuosity of youth she snatched up the small but important booklet, and cried:

"Here is an authority neither of you can deny, for you have known Macgregor for centuries, and this is what he says about sweet peas."

Her aunt gazed at her in astonishment, but it did not take their energetic niece long to explain the situation she had acquired.

"And what can you want better than the way that has won the state prize for five years?" she inquired in conclusion.

Hastily throwing on her wraps she sent herself between the two spinsters and started to read them Macgregor's booklet. After several pages of general directions as to soil, situation, etc., the rule for planting was reached. To this both aunts listened with intense interest, while Adelaide slowly read:

"Plant in trench 18 inches deep six to ten in a trench, as soon as ground is workable."

That was all as to planting, and Adelaide looked up saying triumphantly: "So? That is all that is to be done; and I hope that next month you will have a good long trench of sweet peas planted according to Macgregor's directions. Sing Jumpers up and give each auntie a good hard hug. 'Now will you be good, and live together in peace and harmony!'"

Both Aunt Charlotte and Aunt Julia hastened to assure her that such was their intention, and that they should certainly try Macgregor's rule for sweet pea planting. Aunt Charlotte added:

"I think it would take more than a fiver to part Julia and me, in spite of all her threats; but we are both glad to have the matter settled peacefully. I am sure, even if we are fond of squabbling, you are a dear, thoughtful child, Adelaide."

The following evening on answering a ring at the door herself, Adelaide beheld to her surprise Macgregor standing before her, while behind him she saw the face of the obliging young forist, who had presented her with the booklet. Macgregor spoke at once:

"We have come to see if my former help is needed to settle the disagreement between your two aunts. Young Lotfin Macvane could not rest until he knew that the advice he gave was sufficient to smooth things over."

"Come in and see for yourselves," laughed Adelaide. "Your booklet acted like a charm, Macgregor, harmony now reigns supreme."

POULTRY

GENERAL ALL-AROUND BIRD

Little Difference in Three Varieties of Family Provided They Are Equally Well Handled.

In reply to the query, "How do the white, silver-laced and golden Wyandottes compare as general all-around birds, also for laying and breeding," the following reply is made: "There is very little difference in the three varieties of the Wyandotte family named provided that they are all equally well handled. Much depends upon strain, for there are good and poor egg-laying strains, in all breeds of fowls and their different varieties."

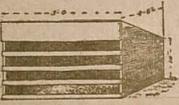

Champion White Wyandotte Hen.

The skilled poultry keeper breeds out the obsolete broodness so characteristic of some strains. Philander Williams bred out the broody instinct in his Light Brahmas, and advertised for many years previous to his death, the "Aristocratic Strain of Non-Setting Light Brahmas." Just fancy breeding the sitting propensities of such a determined strain as a Light Brahma usually is. As for beauty of plumage, that is another question, which does not enter here.

long, two feet six inches from front to back, two feet between the front and 14 inches high at the back, says the Homestead. One and one-half inch slats are nailed on the front three inches apart.

IMPROVE THE POULTRY FLOCK

Colorado Agricultural College Expert Suggests Practical Way to Secure Best Stock.

W. E. Vaplon of the Colorado Agricultural college, has suggested a good method to improve the poultry stock. Twenty hens in a colony house about 7x9 out in the orchard, with a yard about 50 feet square, will furnish a setting of eggs per day during the season, which is about all the average farmer will care to use. Keep two males for the laid pen, changing every few days. The right kind of a cock bird is too unselfish for his own good and will call the hens to eat all the good things while he goes hungry, shutting him up a few days and feeding him will keep him in better condition.

This plan also prevents fighting and will mean more fertile eggs. Weight, vigor, appearance of the flock, laying qualities, all will be greatly improved and the infertile eggs produced by the balance of the flock will keep better during warm weather, and will be much better for putting away for next winter.

Feed for Plymouth Rocks.

Twenty White Plymouth Rocks he could probably feed one and one quart of oats or wheat in the morning, all the green food they will eat at noon, and all they will eat at night of a mash made of ten pounds of wheat bran, five pounds of corn meal, five pounds of ground oats, two and one-half pounds of oil cake meal, and one and one-half pounds of dry feed scraps.

Lice Among Hens.

When a spell of bad weather comes, look out for lice. They multiply fast and their bites are very annoying. These pests will soon reduce the vitality of the liveliest cock over hatched, so that it will be in good condition to take gapes or some other ailment.—Poultry Journal.

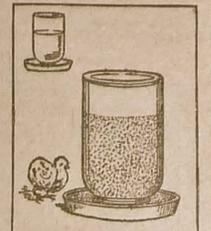

Raise Good Poultry.

Get some eggs from a reliable breeder, start right, and raise good poultry. It is only a few weeks later, better, sells better, tastes better, and will cost you no more to raise them.

FOUNTAIN KEEPS FEED CLEAN

Automatic Device Regulates Supply of Grain or Water as Little Chickens Clean It Up.

When the raising of chickens was haphazard, the percentage of losses from a setting was light. Now it is down to a science and everything in the way of sanitation counts, just as it does in the preserving of human life. An Illinois man has devised an automatic feeder and fountain which keeps the water, grain, grit, etc., that is fed to the little fowls clean and wholesome. It also regulates the supply, so that they do not gobble it all up at once. The contents of the fountain flow from a glass reservoir, for which purpose a fruit can be used as well as anything else. This jar is filled with water or feed, and the pan that forms the bottom of the fountain placed on top. The jar is then inverted, bringing the pan right side up. The jar rests on raised portions of the pan, and the contents of the reservoir flow from it gradually as the chickens deplete the supply in the pan.

DEVICE FOR CATCHING FOWLS.

A handy device for catching fowls is shown in the illustration. It consists of a hand's with a bent wire fastened to the end, so shaped that the leg easily slips in and the foot holds it from coming off.

Feeding for Profit.

The poultryman who can give just the right amount of the right food at all times is fortunate, indeed, for with individual hens, as with people, they require different quantities at different seasons. A hen that is laying an egg a day, or even every other day, will consume considerable more food than one that is not laying at all. Early maturing pullets should be extra well fed, they are making growth as well as eggs, so don't stint them, and if they don't lay eggs so soon as you think they should remember that a food eaten in making flesh and bone and that they will be better size than if they are too pro-scrucous.

Kill Averted Birds.

If the discharges are green when fowls are afflicted with roup they are generally past all aid, and the sooner put out for their misery the better it will be for them and for the rest of the flock. Kill and burn the diseased birds in some place not frequented by the rest of the flock.

POULTRY NOTES

The duck generally lays at night. A simple egg record for the year should be kept. Ducks do not make good sitters—let a chicken brood.

Good whole corn is one of the best feeds for the sitting hen.

No class of farm stock can utilize screenings so well as poultry. A duck is not fully matured until it is about two and one-half years old. Geese are very profitable, especially if one has a farm admirably located.

An essential in the hen's comfort in cold weather is a floor where no drafts are felt.

The duck house should have an earth floor, and heavily bedded with straw or litter.

It takes a pretty good hen to stay on the job three whole weeks and bring off a nice lot of chicks.

The composition of eggs is about 65 per cent water. Hence the necessity for supplying it plentifully and pure.

Early in the season, when the flocks are broody, the incubator will be found necessary to produce early chicks.

When hen nests are supplied with fresh clean material there will be no need of washing the eggs before sending them to market.

In the fall, guinea fowls are mated in pairs, and many, particularly earlier, writers on the subject recommend that they be kept in pairs.

Even with the large addition to the plants that have been made the past ten years, the demand for guinea fowls is in excess of the supply as it was then.

Just young turkeys and their mothers, once every six weeks, with under powder, until they are at least six weeks old. They may not be discovered, but they are in the neighborhood. It is a good habit to acquire.

KIDNEY CHILLS AND BACKACHE.

If, when you get wet or take cold, it "settles on the kidneys" and there is a shivery, chilly sensation in the back, it shows kidney weakness which is often the beginning of a serious disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills should be used persistently until the backache and other symptoms disappear. Mrs. D. K. Jeffers, Colfax, Wash., says: "For two weeks I had to be propped up in bed and I lost 50 pounds in weight. I was in terrible condition, in fact, I came very near dying. As a last resort I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. Since then I have gained back my lost weight and feel wonderfully improved."

The Most Beautiful Thing.

A newspaper recently invited its readers to state in a few words what they considered the most beautiful thing in the world. The first prize was awarded to the sender of the answer: "The eyes of my mother." "The dream of that which we know to be impossible" suggested an imaginative person, and this brought him second prize. But the most amusing thing was that which read, "The most beautiful thing in the world is to see a man carrying a mother-in-law across a dangerous river without making any attempt to drop her in."

SCALP WAS BADLY AFFECTED

"I am more than gratified by the successful results I obtained by the use of the Cuticura Remedy. For several years my scalp was very badly affected with dandruff and scales. My scalp itched terribly at times and my hair fell out. My coat collar would be actually white with the dandruff that had fallen from my head. My profession being that of a barber, I was particularly about having my hair in good condition, and was also in a food eaten in making flesh and bone and that they will be better size than if they are too pro-scrucous.

I had heard so much about the Cuticura Remedy that I resolved to try them. I shampooed my head with Cuticura Soap twice a week and after drying my head thoroughly, I anointed parts of my scalp with Cuticura Ointment. I was pleased from the outset, and continued to keep up this treatment. To think that only three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one and one-half boxes of Cuticura Ointment rid my head of this annoying trouble made me feel quite contented. I have now got a thick growth of hair and I am never troubled with any dandruff or itching of the scalp. There Remedies cured me. I frequently recommend them to my customers, and they think a great deal of them." (Signed) John P. Williams, 307 North Sixth Street, Rochester, Boston, Mass., July 23, 1910.

timber with their trunks, and it was a novelty to me. At 10 a. m. we passed into the upper Bitter lake. There are three of these lakes, upon the largest is situated the city of Ishmeel where a great battle was fought 130 years B. C. The water in these lakes is extremely bitter to the taste.

Passing on to the south, we come again into the narrow Canal, and continue on, the scenery always the same, sand, sand, sand, broken here and there by a spot of green. At last just at sun down we arrive in and pass the city of Edon, this is a place of about 10,000 people, and marks the south end of the canal and the entrance into the Red sea.

We let go anchor at 6 p. m. to let off the mail and our search light. Small boats came around and we got some souvenirs, the wind was blowing a gale. At 7 p. m. we hoisted our anchor and after starting ahead we went on the ground and lay until 9 o'clock when the rising tide floated us and we got away at last. It is hot and the deck of the ship is one mass of coverings and awnings and by the use of fans we manage to keep cool. Last night we passed Two Brothers island at 9 o'clock.

The stork visited the ship three times in two days and livened things up a bit, once in 2nd class, once in 1st class and once in steerage, but this is not the kind of stork you are thinking of, but a large bird, and it lit on three places on the ship designated as above.

Today at noon we are by observation in 21.48 North Lat., 37.46 East Lon., 567 miles from Suez, 1,759 miles from Naples and Sandy Hook 5,877 miles. We will be in Eden on Sunday evening the 15th, and as today is the 14th, we have two more hot days on the Red sea.

Will write further from Colombo of the run through the Indian ocean. Thanking you for past favors, let me remain,

An absent friend,

F. C. INGLETON.

DEER VALLEY

Alvie Stevens and wife went up to Pine City last week and this week were up to the Creek to pay a visit to Chas. Heineman.

Luther Harvey and father drove to Pine City one day last week and purchased a new wagon which they were badly in need of.

W. H. Bruce and wife went up to Rock Creek on business Saturday. Mrs. Bruce remained at the Charles Heineman home until late in the evening.

Jos. Parent, Sr., took a trip to St. Paul last week to meet his wife, who has just returned from Montreal, Canada, where she has been staying for the past year. She was accompanied here by her niece, who has come to stay.

John Collins went up to the Creek Monday and received some very bad news from his wife, who is staying with their daughter, Mrs. Stark. The latter lady has been taken to a hospital where an operation will be performed. The doctor says that chances for her recovery are slight.

ROCK CREEK

George L. Stevens was in the Creek Wednesday of last week. It being a cold day he walked in.

Ben Bush took the early train for North Branch Sunday to spend the day with relatives. He returned on Monday.

The two sons of Jos. Pepin, Arthur and Paul, who are employed in Minneapolis, were up on a visit to their parents over Sunday.

Mrs. John Mein visited with Mrs. Chas. Heineman Monday and found that lady much improved, as she is able to walk some now.

Mr. Kjolriack, manager of the Farmers' store, and Ben Bush went up to H. E. Dane's Wednesday to assist him in erecting a wind mill.

A beautiful new top buggy has made its appearance in town to be used by Mr. Godfrey and Angeline Heisler. It is certainly a swell rig and the young people may well feel proud of their purchase.

Mrs. Dugan and the Misses Heisler and Anderson visited Mrs. Sandy Tate Thursday evening. It was a sick call as Mrs. Tate has been very ill for some time. We are pleased to report that she is very much improved at the present writing.

Thomas Gill and wife went to St. Paul Wednesday to visit their son, Eddie, who is now at the University hospital. Mr. Gill returned Thursday morning, but Mrs. Gill will remain until Wednesday of this week as Eddie will undergo an operation the few part of the week.

Oscar Erickson arrived from Canada Saturday noon and informed us that his father, Ole Erickson, had been killed while out there. He was working in a saw mill and was killed by the bursting of the saw, a piece of which struck him in the stomach. They arrived in the Creek Monday noon and he was at once taken to his old home. He was accompanied home by his son, Arthur and cousin, Remar Madison. The funeral was held from the M. E. church Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the body laid to rest in the Rock Creek cemetery, Rev. Blackhurst officiating. All of the family was present at the funeral excepting one son, who remained in Canada to look after the ranch. Mr. Erickson was a gentleman highly respected by all who knew him. We sympathize with the family in their hour of sorrow.

AN INVESTMENT

The recent raise in advertising rates by the Curtis publications set new marks for magazine advertising prizes. The new rate is as follows: Ladies' Home Journal, $7 per line, $5000 for inside page, inside cover page, $5,500 and $7,000 for back cover. Saturday Evening Post: $5.00 per line, $2,000 per inside page and inside cover $3,000 for each insertion. And at those prices the advertising sections are always filled, because it pays. It certainly requires considerable conceit for a merchant in a small town to give it as his opinion that "advertising doesn't pay", or that he "cannot afford to advertise", in the face of these facts.

Modern business men in all lines have come to the realization that newspaper advertising is not an expense, but an investment, and a mighty good one.—Ault Advertiser.

And the biggest advertisers in the above papers never mention prices. They advertise their goods to keep before the people. The Washburn-Crosby flour, known the world over for the last twenty years, keeps right on occupying page after page in those papers.—Tribune.

DOING THEIR DUTY

Scores of Pine City readers are learning the duties of the kidneys.

"To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty.

When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick.

Backache and many kidney ills follow.

Help the kidneys do their work. Doan's Kidney Pills build up weak kidneys.

Pine City people endorse our claims. Mrs. Charles Spearing, of Pine City Minn., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Breckenridge's Pharmacy, have been used in our family with excellent results and we always keep a supply on hand. Since I took this remedy, I have not had any trouble from my back and kidneys and I can also say that another member of my family was entirely relieved of lameness in the small of the back that had made stooping and lifting difficult. Our advice to anyone suffering from lumbago is to give Doan's Kidney Pills a thorough trial."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

CORNELL

August Norlander is digging himself a cellar at present.

The foundation for the creamery is being laid as rapidly as possible, so that carpenter work may be commenced.

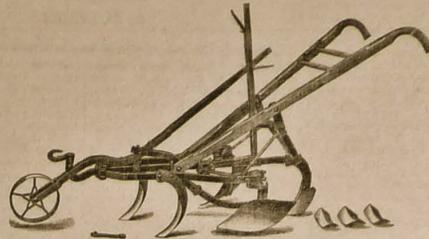

Louie Art, our blacksmith, is erecting a new building to be used as a shop. Another improvement for Cornell.

Cornell has been real lucky by escaping the fires which have been raging around here for the past week. Nothing has been lost except brush.

We understand that our old pioneer and citizen of Cornell, John Reynolds, has sold his lumber business to the Reimann Lumber Co. We hope to see a good lumber yard here in the future.

Mr. Peters was out exercising his single driver the other day. He took a pair of young deer with him. We

The Farmer Knows

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Electrically Welded FENCE can be trusted

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Wire Fencing is best all through.

The wire is drawn from a special quality of open hearth material—tough, pliable, strong, long lived like old-time iron wire. It is the finest fencing wire possible to manufacture.

Heavily galvanized by our own new and perfect process, the wire is positively, moisture-proof. The fact that not only eliminates the weakening and moisture-gathering wraps, clamps and ties, but practically transforms the fence into one piece of perforated steel.

All Stay Wires and Line Wires are Electrically Welded

No Waste Wire There is no waste wire to make useless weight! Instead, heavier wire is used and all the weight NoWasteWeight is fence. Stay wires being of the same size as line wires, the hops he enjoyed the rain, and that he will soon be out again.

It has been so dry here lately that the ponds have caught fire and the wagons have been running around with their tongues hanging out for the last week. The plows have even dulled their noses by rooting in the dirt.

Our hardware man, W. F. Richards, now enjoys the pleasure of riding around in a new Overland auto. Our little city has seen the oxen days, and hopes to see them no more. Buzz carts and stink wagons are all the go now.

We understand that Chas. Volting had a narrow escape from burning out last Saturday. Someone, it seems, had set fire to a swamp near by, which was soon out of their control, and reached the Volting property. People should be very careful with fire these days.

BEROUN

Mary Pilsek returned from St. Paul Monday.

Marie Pulkrabek was a Pine City caller last Wednesday.

Don't forget the dance to be given May 18th at Kusta's hall.

Mrs. Frank Rys, of Wapshott, N. D. is visiting with her parents J. Chalupnik and wife.

The infant daughter of Jas. Satava and wife that died last Thursday was buried on Friday.

The dance given at the Beseda hall Sunday evening was enjoyed by all those that attended.

Masters Paul and Louis Chalupsky, who have been quite ill at their home are slowly recovering.

Wm. Petronik, who has been visiting in St. Paul and the Dakotas' for the past two weeks, returned home Wednesday.

PLAY GIVEN BY SENIORS

That senior class of the Webster school is certainly a hustling, bustling and very busy organization. They are going to present a class play on May 23, which, though a farce, will not be entirely so. The seniors have practiced long, hard and steady and are now learning a few of the elements of acting. The proceeds of the play are to be used for purchasing a memorial for the high school. Every man, woman and child in the town should support the seniors in their patriotic endeavor.

John Tate and wife visited at the Alex Tate home Sunday.

Mrs. Alex Tate is slowly recovering after quite a long illness.

Andrew Carlson is doing some carpenter work for George Walton.

A good rain would make the hearts of the farmers glad, but they are living in hopes.

The school in Dist. No. 13 will close May 19. There will be a picnic, with plenty of ice cream and other good things. All come.

A number from this neighborhood attended the Erickson funeral at Hook Creek Tuesday, which was a very sad affair, as he had a host of friends who will miss him greatly.
