BARS SPHERES OF INFLUENCE

U. S. Resolution Would Bind Big Nations to Agreement on China.

WOULD CREATE BOARD

British and Italians Accept Plan in Principle, France Balks, Japan Also Reserves Its Judgment.

Washington—An American proposal to establish the open door policy in China and create an international board to examine both existing and future concessions which appear to conflict with it was debated without decision by the Far East committee of the Washington conference.

The British and Italians accepted the plan in principle, France balked, and the Japanese reserved judgment. The committee will take up again with all signs pointing to a long and interesting discussion.

Except for another tentative session of the Shanghai negotiations and informal exchanges among the "big five" regarding the Pacific negotiations agreement, the meeting of the Far East committee will be the last of the conference activities. At the Shanghai conversations the question of China was discussed with an apparent progress and the further steps problem remained unsolved. It was reported by the committee that instructions from Tokyo.

Scale Company Effects

The annual meeting of the Farmers scale company was held at Pine City, last Saturday afternoon, when the following officers were elected: H. Anderson, president; A. J. Hanson, secretary; Peter Hall, treasurer. In addition to the officers, the board of directors consist of Wm. Fisher, Ed. Sward, George Rick and Harry Hayden.

As Seemst Cloverton

Two or three of the now famous county commissioners who saw fit to build expensive Four Farm buildings against the wishes of many and did not see fit to have a county expense when they were elected by 1200 taxpayers have now awarded (or rewarded) the Askov American the county printing at $1,000.00 over the bills of the county auditor papers. We see that it pays not to "antagonize" the county commissioners. An election right now would be interesting.

Creamery Assn. to Meet

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pine City Creamery Association will be held Saturday Feb. 11, at 1 o'clock in the village hall of Pine City. All stockholders are invited to be present. The meeting will be in the hands of the secretary, Henry Jan. 21st.

Special Notice

I have found it that our bank here in Pine City is doing better than ever. It is now in a position to loan money to our farmers. We are now in a position to loan money to our farmers. We are now in a position to loan money to our farmers.

Glaze Gives Views

Editor of The Pine City Weekly: Why and who will the best? It is not the editor of The Pine City Weekly and Pine City who want the Askov American. The Askov American is a paper that stands for the good of the Askov American. The Askov American is a paper that stands for the good of the Askov American.

It seems to be like a case of fallow. If the committee (represented by a good, fair-minded) should be of some to support the banks at least. It looks to me as though Mr. O'Connell was not the man that stood for the good of the Askov American.

Next Mr. Anderson's letter comes into regarding the Poor House (county farm) was a very interesting explanation. It looks as though it was not a bad idea. But the situation is not so simple as it seems. It would seem to be a case of some of the bad graft pulled in 1920. The situation is not so simple as it seems.

Respectfully yours, George W. Glaze, Hinckley, Minnesota.

PROMINENT ASKOV FARMER CRITICIZES

The following communication from James Moshack, one of the most prominent farmers of the Askov community, would indicate that the people of the county are very much dissatisfied with the actions of their representatives, and also that the actions of the editor of the Askov American are not approved by the people of his community.

We were certainly surprised to see that the September issue of the Askov Farm Bureau News was printed at Hinckley. This looks like a pure case of being a friend a favor at the cost of some one else. We have printed the Farm Bureau News for about three years here at Askov since its publication began and we have at all times endeavored to give the best of service and have heard of no complaints—often times the copy coming in on the 25th or 26th of the month or thereabouts and had to be turned out before the end of the month.

It is not so very difficult to answer the "why" of a service is worth it. I have noticed the Askov American repeatedly denouncing Mr. Thomas as a county commissioner—regardless of the fact that the 21st of the month is without representation and will be for some time. It is possible that there can be no more than a county commissioner's seat than the official commissioner. However, it is possible to have good friends help pick up at the right time.

On behalf of the Hinckley News we would like to state that the above letters are good illustrations of the honesty and honor of the editor of the Askov American (printed partly in the American language). The News was asked to put a price on this publication and did so. When the directors of the Farm Bureau met on the 15th of the month the price was asked one-half of the price the American (?) had been charging and the work was given to us.

Edward Jancyk Laid to Rest

Funeral services were conducted for Edward Jancyk at Monday morning, Jan. 16, at the home of Mrs. B. Jackson, and the remains laid to rest in the local cemetery. Edward Jancyk was born in Chicago, 19 years of age, and has been a member of the local fire company since his coming. Frank Jancyk is his brother. He was cutting wood on the farm last Thursday morning, work being very strung him and killed himself almost instantly.

PHYSICIANS REFUSE COUNTY JOBS

Why is it that these board members think that all county officials, including themselves, should draw money for their services that the law allows, but that the doctors and printers should be cut down to the lowest possible amount?

The two local doctors have already notified the county auditor that they cannot save the postage by sending the contracts to them, as they would not be accepted. The doctors have one of the largest territories in the county, so why is it that their salaries should be the lowest? The doctors do not doubt the board have to take a great deal of work with what each call is worth, as I would not take many tips by going over to the Soo territory and back.

It may be that this move on the part of the county board is to cause these scattered county charges to go to the poor farm to help fill up that "grand and glorious" building, and make a better showing for the people of the county. It is possible to partly support themselves, as they are doing at the present time.

Pass Good Resolution

The following resolution was passed by the board of county commissioners of Pine County: "Whereas it has become the practice of certain foreign attorneys to bring into this county and other foreign counties of the state for the purpose of bringing suits against all suits from other states and from their parts of the state where suits originated for the evident purpose of obtaining very large and unnecessary costs and to convert the same to those that seek justice at home."

Will Fight Auto Tax

Minnesota automobile dealers and a citizens will not purchase license tags for cars in their possession that are not using the highways of the state until ordered to do so by the state supreme court.

The Farm Bureau meeting of District 22, will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Zastka on Wednesday, January 21, at 7 o'clock. All members are cordially invited to come and bring your 1-cent dues. Lunch will be served.

Cambridge started the season by giving a basket from the center of the floor. In a few minutes they had secured another and had basket which left Pine City basketball.

Cambridge never did the best after this and the second quarter ended 9-1 in favor of Pine City. Pine City again started their accurate playing and they scored another field goal. The game from here on was a battle royal and the baskets were being made by both sides alternately.

Pine City was handicapped by the small floor. The Cambridge players being accustomed to a larger floor were not using the highways of the state until ordered to do so by the state supreme court.

CARBON MONOXID WORKS QUICKLY

Open Season for Fatalities Resulting From Inhaling Exhaust Gas of Engines.

GRADUAL INCREASE IN DEATHS

Running of Motors in Closed Garage for Testing or Warming Up Is Dangerous Practice, According to Scientists.

With the onset of cold weather comes the open season for fatalities resulting from carbon monoxide poisoning by inhalation of the exhaust gas of automobile engines running in small, closed garages, says a report issued by the American Medical Association.

The gas responsible, carbon monoxide, is one which quickly overcomes persons exposed to it above certain concentrations, so that it is particularly important to determine the limits necessary to cause fatality.

Among other conclusions reached by the experimenters, the most important was the determination that, when the time of exposure is multiplied by the concentration of carbon monoxide in parts per 10,000 of air equals three, there is no perceptible physiologic effect.

Experience has shown that the running of a motor in a closed garage for testing or warming up is a dangerous procedure.

Don't neglect your steering mechanism. A car whose direction cannot be controlled is dangerous—Make frequent inspections.

Prevent misses of engine. Do not neglect manifold, and if spark plug is not tight trouble will follow.

Don't neglect your manifold. If you have a spare plug which is not screwed tight, or a petcock partly open, or a gasket which is not absolutely airtight, your engine will misfire badly when you try to make it pull at slow speed on a hill.

CHEAP CAR PROBLEM IS SOLVED

"Children thought of her as their friend, and they told her their secrets and she never told on them. She kept secrets, every secret. She never thought the next day they were good, or rather she never said who was doing good by repeating secrets."

"Yes, she wasn't that kind! She was a real, real person and when I say that I mean she was just as wonderful as a person can be. She never told on anyone as I've said, and she never hid her life."

"She was never fussy and she liked to hear the noise of children playing. I've always wanted to go to school with a good old without growing fussy and cross and fussy. And to have all the Redwoods trees."

REDWOOD TREES

"Happy New Year," said the Redwood Tree to the little Redwood trees which were growing up round about.

"Happy New Year," said the little Redwood trees.

"You are all growing around me and you will become fine trees. There are some of these nice values," said the Redwood tree.

"Yes, we are strong. We live centuries through fire, and send our new branches even though the fire has burnt a great deal of us away."

"When you grow up to be tall as I am you will often be visited by Nurse Fog."

"Nurse Fog will tell so many stories to your top branches that I will almost be as tall as the King of the Clowns and the Army of Raindrops had come to visit you."

"Yes, people who really know have said this. And they've said that we lived to a greater age than other trees and that we were larger in size every way."

"Our trunks are so big and such a distance around."

"I'll perhaps, children trees, you do not know what ornamental means so I will explain the word to you. To be ornamental means that one is beautiful and handsome and an ornament or a decoration."

"Now a New Year is about to begin, and when I wish you a happy New Year I know you wish me one too."

"And when I see it when it finds happiness in standing straight and tall, not even mind the wind or the rain, but bowing about and laughing at the jokes and drinking in the delicious Mist Water Nurse Fog gives us."

"We wish you a happy New Year too," said the young trees.

"And may you live to be as old as I am," said the Redwood tree.

"We would love to be that old," said the young Redwood trees.

"You are so wonderful," they continued, "for though you stand so majestically and so beautifully and with such dignity you like to think of the children trees too."

POLE VAULT LIKENED TO PASTIME OF GOLF

Both Sports Require Powerful Wrist and Cool Nerve.

Bob Gardner Was First Man to Prove Conclusively That Two Games Fit in With One Another in Astonishing Manner.

Strange as it may seem at first glance, a great pole vaulter becomes an equally great golfer, if he takes the latter game as seriously as he does the first annual.

Both sports—although apparently vastly different—require a powerful wrist, a cool nerve and intense concentration.

Outside of the high jump, no sport in track and field athletics requires so much concentration as the pole vault, so such nerve and coolness.

The pole vault also calls for a strong, flexible wrist, the reason being obvious.

And so it is in golf. The two games fit in with one another in a most astonishing fashion. And the first man to prove this conclusively was Bob Gardner.

When a student at Yale Bob set a world's record in the pole vault. He didn't hold it long, but he had the glory of being world champion for a few days at least.

And, while wearing the Ill. blue, he won the national amateur golf championship at the Chicago Golf Club.

Bob sets a terrific ball away from the tee, a most flourishing drive to his opponents. His wrists have a snap, the same as he used in vaulting.

Click! Click! and Bobbie Jones are called the greatest amateurs in the world today, but when Bob Gardner is in shape he is as good a player as either of them.

There are differences of opinion regarding the ability of Mike Gonzales as a catcher.

One National League critic writes that the Cincinnati club will get waivers on him and send him to Toledo, while another view is that Mike can be waived out of the league and he added that if the Cardinals had the Cuban backdrop in the 1921 season said, Caris would have won the National flag.

Eleven games are included in the schedule of contests to be played by the Syracuse university tennis team next spring.

With the recent election of the Gun Hill Golf club to membership, Metropolitan Golf association of New York city now boasts of 106 members on its roster.

LAND OF WEALTH

Potentialities of Western Canada Abundantly Proved.

Prizes Taken at International Live Stock Exposition Show What Land is Capable of Producing.

Forty years ago the first sale was made of lands acquired by the Canadian Pacific railway. This is not a short span in the lives of many, and there are those who look back upon that period as if it had but of yesterday.

When one glances back it is to marvel at the accomplishments of that period. One of the most striking of these is the progress that has been made in Western Canada since that day, forty years ago, when an official of the railway placed his signature to the document that gave possession to the new owner of a section of land.

This was the first sign of the wealth that in time would be added to the wealth of the world in forty years. This single section of land being the base upon which the future would be built; the potential wealth was but in embryo; today it is a big, living reality.

Among the many things that reveal this, may be seen the winings made by Western Canada exhibitors at the International Live Stock show held in Chicago in 1921.

Every animal sent from the province of Alberta won a prize. Exhibits included Shorthorn and Hereford cattle, Jersey and Guernsey cows, and a splendid line of the excellence of the products of the farms of the new but rapidly developing country lying to the north of the international boundary line.

The results of the exhibition show, according to the Manitoba Free Press, that in live stock and grain exhibits the three prairie provinces of Canada made something like 100 winings.

Every animal sent from the province of Alberta won a prize. Exhibits included Shorthorn and Hereford cattle, Jersey and Guernsey cows, and a splendid line of the excellence of the products of the farms of the new but rapidly developing country lying to the north of the international boundary line.

When all is said and done, the real triumphs are the wins of both live stock and grains actually produced in the great Canadian prairies.

Commenting upon the enterprise of agriculturists of Western Canada in sending exhibits to the International Live Stock exposition at Chicago, the New York Herald in a recent issue said: "Western Canada is encouraging diversified farming in a way certain to bring an increased flow of dollars into the pockets of agriculturists, and at the same time devoted their energies exclusively to the raising of grain crops."

Thinking the trains were too slow, Bill walked from Hinckley to Pine City, last Saturday evening, leaving there about six o'clock and arriving here under a good head of steam, about eleven. 'Skiing has had its share of attention too. Not only is this sport enjoyed by the youngsters, but the older folks as well. Last Monday evening, a few of the dignified 'sifes of the village, with some of the popular young ladies, put in a hilarious evening, coasting on the slide near the Collins residence.

Anyone passing that neighborhood that night would have thought that a bevy of young girls were out having fun. The time of their lives, and according to reports, the ladies did have a good time, chuck full of lots of fun. Pine City has all the natural advantages for all kinds of winter sports, and if more of the older folks would get out and enjoy the things they did during their childhood days, they would find that this is not a very old and old winter sport. We are only as old as we feel, and a good romp in the snow, with the kids puts usures own color in our cheeks, and makes us feel many years younger than we are. Following the evening's skating party, the ladies who attended were served an oyster supper by Mrs. Soboka, at her home.

People Talked About

Gandhi, "Great-Souled One"

There is a new portrait of Mahatma Gandhi, leader of the independence movement of India, who is raising such emotions in that faraway country as to understand the East, as shown in the situation in India. Gandhi is said to be a disciple of Thoreau, an Indiana poet and educator. The title given him by his followers is "Great-Souled One," since the war's close, which "self-determination" has been so much on the world lip, Gandhi has gained many followers. His crusade is based on "tolerant non-resistance." The new leader is widely opposed to physical force. For years the quiet campaign of "non-co-operation" with the alien government in India succeeded without thought of force. Millions obeyed the injunction; it was a raboo against the British. It was rather effective.

When the quiet tide by granting a liberal measure of home rule to India. Quite recently it dispatched the heli to the British throne to India to take the minds of the people of the Gandhi boycott.

Stanfield, U. S. Sheep King

This is the latest portrait of Senator Robert Nelson Stanfield of Oregon, the young man—he was born in Oregon in 1877—who rode over former Senator George A. Chamberlain on the crest of the Republican avalanche of 1920. There are only nine lines about him in the Congressional directory autobiographies, but they contain these words "America's largest producer of wool and mutton."

The British government sought to stem the quiet tide by granting a liberal measure of home rule to India. Quite recently it dispatched the heli to the British throne to India to take the minds of the people of the Gandhi boycott.

Young Bob learned ranching from the grass roots up and got his schooling in a country school house. The Litter Root ranch of the Stanfields went the way of many another, as the extreme gradually admitted that the Umattina country was more naturally doer for sheep than for stock. So in 1904 the youth who had fought sheep herders went himself into the sheep business and prospered mightily. By 1911 his flocks were grazing their swaths out of Oregon into Idaho, Montana and Colorado. Today Senator Stanfield owns more sheep, probably, than any man in America. Every year he winters 80,000 sheep.

Maybe She'll Also Like Us

This is the latest portrait of Mrs. W. L. George, bride of the English novelist, who is here on his second nuptial tour. She was Miss Kathleen Gelpel, only daughter of Herbert Gelpel, J. P. of Old Hill, Cuxwold, York. She is a versatile woman, having distinguished herself in tennis and music and appeared in the films. During the war she served three years in the military of munitions and achieved the distinction of being the first woman to attain the rank of section officer.

Mrs. George professes to have fallen in love with America. His miller affections seem to be divided among New York, Washington, Dayton, O., Savannah, Ga. and New Orleans. Chicago apparently inspired him with a grand passion. He says of her, "I want to be upset again, as a shy girl shrinks from me, yet appearing a giant of America, he thinks:

"When I think of America I think of warm, pulsing life, life without doubt, life without energy. To me America is a sort of ganglion radiating life force."

Lady Astor's Fair Colleague

Mrs. Margaret Wistreichman, as member of parliament for the Louth division of Lincolnshire, is the second woman returned to the house of commons, and the first woman of British birth and upbringing to sit in that renowned house.

Mrs. Wistreichman was known during the contest at Louth as the silent candidate. That was not because she has not the gift of speechmaking, she is on the contrary an experienced and fluent public speaker. But having regard for her recent bereavement—the sudden death of her husband in the smelting-works of the house of commons—she naturally thought it more fitting not to take a prominent part in the election.

She is an attractive personality, well built, curly complexioned, with large brown eyes and a smile. A Yorkshire woman before her marriage in 1909, she was head mistress in a school at York. There she took an active part in movements social, religious, educational and political.

Three Years' Closed Season

Only husbands, wives and minor children of naturalized citizens and of persons who have taken out their first papers would be allowed to migrate to the United States if introduced by Chairman Albert J. Johnson of the house immigration committee should pass congress. While waiting for the house immigration committee to frame a permanent immigration policy, Chairman Johnson would have his bill operate for three years. In presenting the bill, Mr. Johnson said:

"One reason which appears to demand a complete suspension of immigration, which did not appear when a similar bill was before the house a year ago, is that the United States has been afflicted to be a party to the many varieties of fraud that are being practiced on matters of the limited number of immigrants permitted under the 9 per cent act. Neither can the United States afford to let and permit millions of those of those nations who have
