

UNIONS FORCE U.S. Pine County Gets TO WRIT ACTION Cup at State Fair

Nation Waits Next Move Following Arrests for Contempt.

Chicago—Impending federal action in cases growing out of arrests for alleged violations of the injunction was, overnight, the foreground of the nation's industrial situation.

The national Labor day celebrations and gatherings were featured generally by speeches assailing the injunction.

While some Labor day orators were cautious in their references to the injunction, other union leaders emphatically followed Samuel Gompers, in attacking the restraining order.

While union leaders were berating the Department of Justice, the industrial situation was dealt with by labor supporters of a different caliber elsewhere.

Secretary Davis declared "no gibberish can be built up here for those who expect such distasteful deeds as the deliberate wrecking of a train at Gary, LaCrosse, had successfully resisted attempts to lower wages.

One of the most outspoken denunciations of the government's injunction was made by R. T. Wood, president of the Missouri Federation of Labor, who told an audience of union men at St. Louis that he would regard Judge Wilentz's order.

The holiday was not without its contributions to the general discontent. A bomb was thrown on the porch of the home of H. M. Donkin, a State P. ship worker at San Bernardino, Calif.

CABINET DISCUSSES PROBLEMS

The Industrial Situation to Have Attention of Congress Also.

Washington—With the convening of the senate and house and a meeting of the cabinet, the government is again centering its attention on the coal and rail situations.

The administration bill to prevent profiteering in coal prices is still before the senate. Chairman D. C. Butler of the intricate commerce committee is prepared to continue his effort to have the senate substitute its own bill for that proposed by the house, which he has stated he believes goes outside the jurisdiction of the federal government by undertaking to regulate interstate commerce.

Discussion of the industrial situation in the light of the government's position in connection with the anthracite strike and also the virtual settlement of the anthracite dispute were looked for at the cabinet meeting.

TURK ARMY MAKES BIG GAINS

Turk Army Near Collapse; Athens Appeals to Allies.

LONDON—General opinion in well informed quarters in London is that the Greek army in Asia Minor is fast approaching complete collapse. There is some talk of anything but now days for a total debacle.

The Greek government has appealed to the powers to obtain an armistice with the Turkish nationalists, who have steadily driven the Greeks from the established area as a result of the breakdown among the chancellors at London, Paris and Rome.

It is hoped here that a meeting between representatives of the belligerents can be arranged for within the next few days in a neutral zone of Asia Minor, northwest of Smyrna, and that this meeting will be productive of a speedy cessation of fighting.

Pine County Gets Cup at State Fair

The Pine county agricultural exhibit captured first place in the Central division of county exhibits at the state fair and was awarded a beautiful silver cup. In addition to about $440 in premium money.

The county board appropriated $500 for the exhibit at the last meeting and most of that will be returned to the county, as the cash premiums will come close to paying the expenses. Mr. Pofert was manager of the exhibit, this being the third year he has had a county exhibit at the fair. This is the first time the county has received first place in any of its exhibits.

There were a possible 1250 points. Blue rosettes and diplomas in the exhibit was given 99 points out of a possible 100, and took second on the milk-park vegetables in competition with all county exhibits there.

Mr. Pofert's former experience in former fairs, showed him well in hand this year, as the arrangement was perfect. He started gathering for the exhibit last May, when the wild grass harvest was about at its peak.

Quite a lot of the exhibit was taken from the Hinkley and Rowan farms. The quality of the exhibit proves the quality of these exhibitors.

The award is wonderful advertising for Pine county, as the exhibitors are the center of attraction with all farmers visiting the agricultural building. It puts Pine county in the map in Minnesota, and it is a county that can produce the best in the agricultural line.

Commissioners Anderson and Hagan, with Mr. Pofert in charge of the exhibit at the fair, and they are a mighty happy bunch over the results.

On the Road of Good Intentions

Breckenridge Store is Sold

Mrs. L. E. Breckenridge has sold the Breckenridge store and fixtures to W. C. Hohn of Stanley, S. D. The new owner took possession last Friday.

Mrs. Breckenridge opened the store about 37 years ago—before her marriage—and the store has been operated by the Breckenridges since that time. It was the interesting attention to business of Mrs. Breckenridge and her husband, the late J. E. Breckenridge, that resulted in the store developing from one with a small stock, and a small beginning, into one of the substantial business firms of Pine City today.

At the death of her husband, 6 years ago, the active management of the store was assumed by her son, John, and daughter, Miss Helen. An attractive offer from the Federal government, bought the store from the Breckenridges, and he is in the Federal drug store at New Orleans. Since her late husband's death, Mrs. Helen has taken care of the business.

The store has grown with other Pine City firms and with the best section of the village, from a small business center of a few shops, to the present important place, which our business firms hold in this part of the state.

Mrs. Breckenridge will be missed from the business activities of our village, but she will continue to make her home in Pine City, and will now have the opportunity to enjoy her social side, which her close attention to business has limited in the past. She plans to erect a small home, in her property on the corner of the street, where she will be at home to her many friends. Miss Helen will remain at home with her mother.

The new owner and his wife arrived last week and are very pleased with Pine City. Mr. Hohn and his brother own a drug store at Britton, where they have been for their business for many years, and starts in here thoroughly acquainted with every department of the business. He will continue the business under the name of the "Breckenridge Pharmacy." The Pine Poker extends to Mr. and Mrs. Hohn a welcome to Pine City.

Explosion Kills Henriette Boy

A terrible accident occurred at Henriette, last Tuesday afternoon, when Dal, Edward Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Peterson of that place, was killed in an explosion that demolished the hardware store belonging to his father, and did extensive damage to adjoining buildings.

A quantity of dynamite that was in the rear of the hardware store, was exploded in some unknown manner. The unfortunate young man was the only occupant of the store at the time. His body was torn to pieces and scattered over the premises.

The hardware store is in the north half of a brick building, owned by Mr. Peterson, which is located on the east side of the street. The explosive was in the rear of the store. The force of the explosion tore out a section of the hardware store, and flew forward out of the store in the front of the bank. The store is on the north side of the bank building was cracked.

Miss Giese, owner of the grocery store, his wife and Mr. Demsey of Hinkley, were in the grocery when the explosion occurred. Mr. Giese was injured, but the other two were standing in the rear. The explosion knocked over the shelves of the store, and buried Mr. Giese under a pile of groceries. He was killed a little, but otherwise was unharmed. Mrs. Giese and Mr. Demsey were unharmed.

Dale had been in the country during the afternoon and returned home with his father about 5 o'clock. The family had supper and the young man went to the store. His father was on the street in front of the store. A car which passed the store, just after her brother entered the store, saw him standing on the street, and stopped. She went on around the building, where she met her father. It was then that the explosion happened. Simultaneously with the explosion, there was a crash and a flash of lightning. It is thought the store was struck by the lightning, which caused the explosion, but there is no way of knowing for a certainty.

A girl was seen to slip Pine City department, as Henry thought he might recall from the explosion. The department responded but fortunately was not needed. A large crowd from the Pine City and other nearby towns hastened to the scene of the tragedy. Coroner Gutzke was called and assisted in gathering the remains, only part of the body being found.

The unfortunate young man, 20 years of age, was the oldest son, and leaves his parents, 3 sisters and one brother. Funeral services will be held at Henriette tomorrow afternoon.

Anthracite WAR IS OVER

Anthracite Coal Mines Exploited to Reopen Next Week Full Handled.

Philadelphia — Anthracite miners and operators, having settled their wage dispute after more than five months of controversy, will make every effort to reach a production as soon as possible. The strike committee went into session here to consider and approve an agreement reached and to call a delegate convention of miners at Wilkes-Barre to ratify the new pact formally.

The production is estimated at about $9 million more than last year. The settlement announced by United States Senators Pender and Reed of Pennsylvania came after an all-day session of the operators which resulted in their accepting the compromise proposed by the miners, and a three-hour joint session of miners and operators. In the joint conference the miners also accepted the proposition and an agreement made subject to the action of the miners' convention, in accordance with the rules of the United Mine Workers.

The terms of the agreement as announced are as follows: The contract in force March 31, 1922, to be extended to April 30, 1922, the production of coal to begin at once.

The miners and operators to join in a recommendation by Congress that legislation be forthwith enacted creating a separate national coal commission with authority to investigate and report promptly on every phase of the industry.

The continuation of production at the rate of the strike is to be made under the terms of the agreement as announced. The parties may agree upon the light of the report of the commission.

Copies of the announcement was a letter addressed to the operators and miners by President Harding in which he urged both sides in the nation to public welfare to accede.

INDUSTRIAL PEACE SEEN

Government to Press Rail Policy by Injunction.

Washington—The settlement of the anthracite strike, in the opinion of officials at the bureau of the industrial crisis from President Harding and the administration, it is pointed out that although full arrangements are still in the hands of the government, a decision on policy has been made.

Attorney General Clegg's opinion in looking to halt disorder in connection with the strike of the coal and rail industry is a significant step toward service July 1, apparently stood out as representative of an amicable course which the administration has adopted.

Future steps outlined in the policy are considered in official circles to be clearly marked, and to include possibilities of negotiating, mediation, or other contact with transportation organizations, as well as the possibility of disturbances and possibly the quarantining of railroad cars, may occur the situation of responsible officers.

Contract since the strike injunction order was obtained, has appeared in connection with the strike, which the executive department has reached in dealing with the industrial situation and its members have in general refrained from comment.

The Expense of Credits and Delivery. Some years ago we conducted a store on the credit and free delivery system. The expenses of bookkeeping, delivery man and truck, including losses, cost us about $3,500.00 a year. The high cost today would total about $5,000.00 a year. Our Cash and Carry System enables us to save you the above unnecessary expenses.

HORSE SUPPLANTING TRACTOR ON NORTHWEST FARMS

Tractor Fuel, Wear and Tear Cost More Than Horse.

Recently summarized data collected by the farm management division of a group of farms in Steele county show that on 104 farms where tractors were owned the use decreased 28 per cent in 1921 as compared with 1920. In 1920 these tractors averaged 415 hours of use, in 1921 only 288. Of the 415 hours in 1920, 318 hours were spent at traction work and 78 hours of belt work. Of the 288 tractors only two were used more in 1921 than in 1920. The use of the others was cut from 25 to 412 hours per farm. In 1920 six tractors were used 400 hours or more, in 1921 only two. The use of horse labor, on the other hand, increased on an average of 610 hours per farm in 1921 over 1920.

The cause for this substitution of horse labor for tractor labor, according to Prof. G. A. Pond, in charge of cost accounting at University Farm is apparent to one who observes the relative price of tractor fuel and horse feed for these two years. The

PHOSPHATE NEEDED ON 10,000 MINNESOTA FARMS

Crop Rotation a Rapid Depletor of Natural Phosphates.

It is probable that phosphate can be used with profit at present on at least 10,000 farms in Minnesota, says Dr. F. J. Alway, chief of the division of soils at University Farm.

The phosphate content of soils in general is low, he finds, and most in general in Minnesota form no exception. Further, phosphate is sold on the farm in the form of grain mill and live animals. To replace that removed in the bones of an ordinary cow, for example, requires the purchase of 125 pounds sack of ordinary acid phosphate. A good steer removes a heavier draft upon animals make more to the feed they consume than require animals.

One of the most rapid methods of exhausting the phosphate supply of a farm is the use of a good rotation, says Dr. Alway, which includes clover, the feeding of all the produce to cattle, and the return of the manure to the soil.

Live-stock farmers in the state who for thirty years has devoted himself to horse production, treated a strip five rods wide across five fields of his farm. Clover alone of the crops showed a very marked response in the first year, but that the yield from the phosphate treated land was four times as heavy as on the untreated. The soil was typical black silt prairie loam.

About twenty years ago phosphate rock was found in Utah and later in Idaho, Wyoming, and Montana, but not until about 1908 was the great extent of the phosphate fields recognized. In that year 5,000 square miles were withdrawn from public entry with the result that now the world's greatest reserve of phosphate is to be found on land belonging to the federal government. Minnesota is the nearest prospective market of any considerable magnitude for this western phosphate.

"It would appear," says Dr. Alway, that every progressive farmer would like to try a truck or two which are readily available phosphate, applying it in long narrow strips in his fields, and then keep the experiment under close observation for a few years.

From the response of the crops he can decide for himself whether he can use phosphate with decided advantage. It is important, however, to mention on this point that the soil is sold on the individual farms, and may vary in effect on his neighbor's drops it has proven very profitable.

Entomological Specimen Hunt.

Dr. H. H. Knight, assistant professor of entomology at University Farm, is a nationally known expert on certain insect groups and a taxonomist of wide reputation. He is now in charge of the department, an authority on aquatic insects from the University of Kansas, and Dr. Hoffman, research assistant at University Farm, is now on an extensive three weeks' expedition into extreme northern sections of the state collecting specimens for the University's entomological museum and conducting a detailed survey of the insect life of northern Minnesota.

Thousands of new insects will be secured as a result of the trip. During the summer of 1921, 20,000 specimens were collected by Dr. Knight, curator of the entomological museum for the University. The survey is one of a series which was completed while the University was comprehensively and complete a collection of the insects of this state as are found in any state university in the country. More than 75,000 mounted specimens from all corners of the globe are now in the cabinets of the museum.

Dr. E. L. Washburn, professor of entomology and economic zoology in the division, reports to add several hundred more beetle specimens during his present day expedition on which he is to start in September. Dr. W. A. Hilly, chief of the division, is in Porto Rico under suspicion of the Rockefeller foundation investigating disease parasites, particularly the hookworm.

If you win at the fair, don't crow; if you lose, don't groan. Spend your money wisely, and you can't lose, maybe the Judge will tell you.

Here receiving all the animal products they need will produce about five times as many eggs in the year as those receiving none.

The extraneous and memberships are the greatest plant disease distributers in the world. There are many ways in which disease spreads, but the least of these is on seeds and plants.

Dairyman Loss $2,261,919 Butterfat.

If the analyses of 742 butterfat samples taken from entries in the Minnesota butter scoring contest conducted by the state dairy and food commission were taken as an index of composition of the 170 million pounds output in 1921, the loss to Minnesota dairymen of $2,261,919 would result because of the incorporation of more than 30 per cent of fat in the butter, according to Prof. J. H. Kehley, of the dairy division, who is conducting the tests. Consumers of butter, he contends, are entitled to an average 100 per cent product, but more than that amount of butterfat means an unnecessary loss to the farmer.

It wasn't the nicest ball these two teams played this summer, but it was a dandy to watch. Graham won by a score of 5 to 4, making the winning tally in the ninth inning. Mr. Dean is one of the pioneers of Pine county, coming to Hinchley in 1885 when he settled on a farm which he later sold to the county—the present site of the town of Moor farm. After selling out at Hinchley, Mr. Dean came to Pine City and after a few years stay here, left in March 1914 for Virginia where he has resided since. It is mighty interesting for some of our newer residents, to visit with these old pioneers and hear some of Pine county's early history. Table it all around, it was some moving, and it was "your move" and then they all moved just like an endless chain, and "ling around" home.
