Who Wants to Get Married?

Who wants to get married? Here's an opportunity for all some young couple to be married free. To receive lots of nice wedding presents that will include furniture, wedding ring, cooking utensils, dishes, etc. And to have the largest crowd of wedding guests that have attended a wedding in these parts, in many months.

There is going to be a big county fair at the armory on Friday and Saturday evening, October 13 and 14th, and the committee in charge are looking for a young couple that will be married at the armory. Of course they don't want them to be married on Friday the 13th, Horror! Not but the wedding will be Saturday evening, and the committee is getting a lot of nice wedding presents together. Rev. Buckton will officiate, and Sandy Gunn will furnish the license. The next couple to hand in their names to Rev. Buckton, will be the lucky ones.

This will be a big affair, with oodles of good fun. There will be wild animals and tame animals, the fat lady and the thin lady, fortune tellers, the stock show and the poultry show with chickens of every kind. All kinds of side-shows with regular speakers, hot-dog booths, red lemonade and the old trimmings. Remember the date and make your plans now to attend. It will be a big carnival, and the committee hopes that the Saturday evening program will be opened to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, when two hearts will be made to beat as one.

SUICIDE DOCTOR WRITES OF DYING

Milwaukee Physician Calmly Re-counts His Sensations as the Poison Works.

TOOK BIG DOSE OF MORPHINE

Ill Health and Business Reverse Made the Step Desirable, He Writes in Last Message—Ended With Cyanide.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Dr. A. J. Hershman, sixty-two years old, scholar, philosopher, and linguist, who professed disbelief in all religion, but who called Christ the greatest man who ever lived, died by his own hand here.

Dr. Hershman swallowed poison and then attempted to write out, as death came on, what was in his mind. His last farewell note, started just after swallowing the poison, and the address he made while awaiting death.

"Personally I have been kept so busy on this last day in the effort to straighten out matters without overlooking anything that no time is left for petty thoughts. Besides, many clients interrupted me, keeping me from meditation. I nevertheless would all up, and at 5:40 p. m. took twelve small grains of morphine which will be a sufficient quantity, but which works slowly. Now, at 6:30 p. m., I feel somewhat drowsy, but far away from actual sleep.

Puts Off Deadly Draught. "I intend to follow the morphine with a draught of cyanide of potassium, the deadliest of all poisons, but am putting it off until the morphine's effects will be more marked and my extreme reluctance to avowal the nasty cyanide be overcome.

"I am in no manner kept in suspense, just pleasantly and curiously watching developments. Queer enough, my only wish is I had an additional handkerchief so that I could dispose of the surplus perspiration, it being close and my skin clammy from the morphine effects.

"Dr. A. J. M.—" It was at this point Doctor Hershman became unconscious.

Doctor Hershman spoke seven languages and for more than 15 years, before he quit practicing medicine, he was known and loved in thousands of small towns in Milwaukee.

Aged Man Pitches Hay. Waynesburg, Pa.—Fred Steel, aged eighty-one years, of Grassville, veteran of the Civil war, spent one week in the harvest field, and despite his years is still able to pitch two stacks of hay in a day.

consonant. Still I cannot make up my mind to swallow the cyanide, and have lit a cigar awaiting further increase of drowsiness and hope to be soon able to coax me into the infernal.

"7:42 p. m.—I am here, yet hesitating to take this cyanide. My thoughts become blurred from the morphine and a sensation of supreme quietude reigns in me. If it was not for my beloved wife, who had phoned, I would go on waiting, but I am afraid of too long a delay because a lapsing into unconsciousness might result in being saved by medical assistance. Ten minutes more and then the end by cyanide.

Parsee Boy's Trick. In installing a sile, make it fit the size of your herd. The diameter should allow you to feel your herd at least two inches off the surface to prevent surface grazing, then make it deep enough to last as long as you expect to feed during the year.

"Salt improves the calf's appetite, so keep a box with clean salt in sheltered place where the calf may eat of it freely," Mr. Hanson advises. "Provide all the good clover or alfalfa hay the calf will eat up clean. Never allow the calves or yearlings to run with the herd."

Growing feeds, he says, consist of skim milk, clover hay, oats, bran and oil meal. The fattening feeds are corn, barley and oil meal. For calves under six months old in good condition and having a soft, mellow hide a mixture of 30 pounds ground corn, 20 pounds ground oats, 20 pounds bran and 10 pounds oil meal, fed three to five pounds daily, is recommended by Mr. Hanson. A mixture of 30 pounds ground corn, 20 pounds ground barley, 40 pounds ground oats and 10 pounds oil meal, also fed at the rate of from three to five pounds a day is advised for calves in poor condition.

parried them to Stanchfield for a week's visit.

Chicken thieves have begun their work again this year and on Monday evening made a visit to the Otis Schmidt home. Otis was awakened during the night by barking of his watch dog and on looking out saw two men, one in his chicken pen and the other on top of the wood pile, where the dog had him cornered. When Otis made himself heard the thieves took a hasty departure without any chickens. About a week ago two calves of Eric Marklund's went astray and when they came to look for them one was found and a spot where the other one had been latched along the road was found. It would be a good plan for all farmers to take special care with their chickens during the fall season for there are some who will stop at nothing in trying to make a get-away with them.

This week is the time

RIGHT now - today - make sure you'll be one of the lucky homeowners who get ARCOLA, the wonderful new hot-water heating-system, installed in their homes before cold weather. Last Fall there was a big ARCOLA shortage. This Fall we predict the same thing. So many people wait until the last minute, some will be disappointed. This week, while we have more time, let us install ARCOLA in your home.

Save money on ARCOLA now

(These figures, though rough, will show how reasonably ARCOLA can be completely installed - despite the fact it pays for itself in the fuel it saves.)

3-Rooms Arcola with 2 radiators $175
4-Rooms Arcola with 3 radiators $215
5-Rooms Arcola with 4 radiators $250
6-Rooms Arcola with 5 radiators $350

Phone or call and we'll gladly give you the exact cost of putting ARCOLA in your home - but for your own good, do it now before the Fall rush.

DAIRY HINTS

FEED POINTS FOR DAIRYMEN

To Obtain Maximum Milk Production Cow Must Be Attended to at Proper Moment.

If you would get a maximum milk production from your cows, feed the right feed at the right time and in the right amounts, advises M. H. Keeney, dairy specialist at the New Jersey State College of Agriculture.

Mr. Keeney gives the following practical suggestions for dairymen in feeding for milk production:

1. Feed all the roughage a cow will

2. Feed some succulent feed such as silage or roots.

3. Feed a balanced ration.

4. Feed grain in accordance to milk production. For a Holstein or Ayrshire, approximately one pound of grain for each 4 pounds of milk; for a Guernsey or Jersey, about one pound grain for each 3 pounds of milk. A variety of grains in the mixture is desirable.

5. During short pastures supplement with silage or some green feed, together with some grain.

6. Feed and milk regularly.

7. Supply an abundance of pure fresh water at all times.

8. Give access to salt daily.

9. Purchase grain feeds on the basis of their protein and energy content and not alone on just the cost per cent.

GROWING RATINGS FOR CALF

In Feeding Young Dairy Animals Material Supplied Must Be Fresh-Building-Salt Is Needed.

"There are two things to remember in feeding dairy calves," says E. A. Hanson, dairy specialist with the agricultural extension division of the University of Minnesota. "The feed must make them grow and must supply flesh-building material so they will be in good condition.

Growing feeds, he says, consist of skim milk, clover hay, oats, bran and oil meal. The fattening feeds are corn, barley and oil meal. For calves under six months old in good condition and having a soft, mellow hide a mixture of 30 pounds ground corn, 20 pounds ground oats, 20 pounds bran and 10 pounds oil meal, fed three to five pounds daily, is recommended by Mr. Hanson. ## The Facts in the Case

RECENTLY there has been some revival of the story that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) belongs to a trust, and is operated as a part of a larger organization directed by interests other than its Board of Directors.

Such stories are absolutely and unquestionably false.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is an independent corporation owned by 27,109 individual shareholders, many of them employees.

No individual owns as much as 10 per cent of the capital stock.

The policies of the Company are formulated, and the practices directed, by a Board consisting of nine men, all actively engaged in this business, and in no other.

Robert W. Stewart, Chairman
W. M. Burton, President
W. E. Warwick, Second Vice-President
B. Parks, Third Vice-President
E. G. Seibert, Fourth Vice-Pres., Sec. & Treas.
Allan Jackson, Fifth Vice-President
R. H. McElroy, Traffic Manager
E. J. Bullock, Director of Purchases
T. J. Thompson, General Manager-Sales

These men are striving to manage the business of this Company so as to render the utmost of service to the people of the Middle West; to furnish steady employment to 26,000 men and women; and to render a fair return to the stockholders on the capital they have invested in the enterprise.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) neither owns, nor acknowledges, allegiance to any individual or other organization. It stands squarely on its own feet and says proudly that its trying to do a big job in a big way.

Country Press Organizes

At a meeting of representative publishers of the weekly papers of the country, held in Chicago, Aug. 26, the organization of a co-operative weekly press association was perfected, the purpose of which is the entering of the business field for the bettering of business for the country press.

Two meetings had been held previously, one on March 24 and another May 19, when temporary organization had been made.

At the Saturday meeting the temporary organization was made permanent and Herman Koo of the Northwest (Minn.) was made president, O. J. Benjamin of Nevada (Iowa) Journal, secretary and treasurer. The other members of the executive committee of five are R. B. Haskins of the Lumber, (Mich.) Record; L. H. Marshall of the Midwest, (Illinois) Sun-Bulletin and John A. Kuypers of the De-Pierre (Wisconsin) Journal-Democrat.

Arrangements were made for the incorporation of the association under the title, "Country Newspapers Inc."

The new organization which is to enter the advertising field is to be owned and controlled by the publishers themselves. The publishers of each state will elect one director and these 48 will elect the officers and an executive committee and formulate the policies of the corporation.

Headquarters will be opened in New York City and later a branch office in Chicago, both to be under competent men. A corps of advertising salesmen will be put in the field within a short time to present the claims of the country press to the National Advertisers and the agencies.

Before the Chicago meeting letters with invitations to join the movement had been sent out to all the weekly publishers of the United States and many had pledged their support. A rate book will be published and solicitors will be put in the field. The movement is far reaching and will be able to eliminate the defects and drawbacks of all the old plans of handling the national advertising of the country press. The response has started off with such enthusiasm from all parts of the country, that it is thought that it will not be long until all or nearly all country weekly publishers will be listed in the organization.

Theatre Notes

Friday & Saturday—Alice Terry and Rudolph Valentino in "The Conquering Power". It is a Rex Ingram production for Metro and in it Mr. Ingram has had the assistance of all the principals who aided him in making "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" the super production that it was. At its New York premiere, "The Conquering Power" was acclaimed with unstinted enthusiasm, some reviewers asserting that it even surpassed "The Four Horsemen". In the screen version Alice Terry the exquisitely beautiful Marguerite of "The Four Horsemen" has scored a sensational triumph thru her portrayal of Eugene. Rudolph Valentino, whose Latin temperament and graceful fascination fitted him pre-eminently for the role of Julio in "The Four Horsemen", is cast as the Porlino dandy. Also on this bill a comedy and Movie Chats. No advance in prices 10 and 25c.

Sunday & Monday—"Billions" They had the millions "framed up" to work the old Badger Game on him. The Adventures had embraced him—her confederates turned on the lights—and there was a Princess in his bed! This surprising dramatic situation is one of the many big scenes played by Nazimova. Also a comedy and Fox News.

Tuesday—Miss DuPont in "The Rage of Paris" Art Acord in "The Winners of the West." Family night, the whole family admitted for 4c.

Thursday & Friday—Wallace Reid in "The Love Sign" The wild engine ride through a mountain blizzard at night. Raging food and thrilling rescue. The majestic Yosemite and the most amazing snow scenes ever filmed. All blended into a romance of love and daring that speeds through your blood a mile a minute. And a two reel comedy "Topsy Babes." Benefit of the Legion Auxiliary. Prices 10 and 25c.

FRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NEWS
 T. J. Buckton, pastor

The shield has long been obsolete as an implement of warfare. But in the old days, no warrior took the field without the sword at his right hand and the shield on his left arm. The pastor believes that the policy of vigorous attack is the safest defensive policy for a church.

When Christianity dares to go forth and assault the strongholds of evil, it need not greatly concern itself for the defense of its frontiers. But to ignore attacks is to invite disaster, to refuse to defend awakens the suspicion that we have no defense, to offer no sword we have no need to fear, but there is a "A Gospel of the left Arm." This is the subject of Rev. Buckton's sermon next Sunday morning. We should be ready to give a reason for the faith that is in us.

Looking in on Congress

Seniority or length of service has become a controlling factor in many things in the house of representatives. I suppose it has always been so more or less, and it is a little more so now than formerly, if possible.

A member gets his office room in the house office building, his seat at committee tables, his rank on his committee, his chairmanship of committees, his place as a conferee on conference committees of the house and senate, and many other little favors and opportunities for influence through seniority.

There was a time when the speaker had some choice in fixing up committees and chairmanships. You heard Uncle Joe Cannon ruminously "cuss" about his exercise of this privilege a few years ago. Even then most of the chairmen were selected because they had served longest on the committee. But the speaker had some latitude and he did make some independent appointments in an effort to get the best qualified man in the place. And often such appointments raised Cain. About twelve years ago there was a revolution. Uncle Joe was defeated for speaker, new rules were adopted. Committee assignments are now made by a large committee on committees and the seniority rule is closely adhered to. There has been but one notable exception in years. The present chairman of appropriations was not the high man on the list.

Chairmen of committees have much power and influence in directing legislation. They can help write legislation, help push it through the committee or hold it back. They have charge of it on the floor. Many bills pass the house in one form and the senate in another. If one house refuses to accept the amendments of the other, the bill is sent to conference. Conference committees include three or five members from each house. The house conferees now usually consist of two Republicans and one Democrat or two Democrats and one Republican who have served longest on the committee. These conferees get together and agree to anything they can and report their findings back. These reports are usually accepted by both houses.

The seniority rule has been much criticized, and there is room for criticism. But there is something to be said for it. Chairmen have the advantage of long experience on their committees. If they are not dull they must have learned much about the business in hand, and usually do so. They remain long in congress. Any other method of selection would start logrolling, build up machinery and factions and breed strife and trouble.

The old members are for the seniority rule, and while the new members may be critical, I rather fancy we will never get far away from it.

However, after all is said, it does sometimes appear that seniority and long service have more influence and power in the house of representatives than brilliancy and ability.

WHEN A CONGRESSMAN DIES

When a congressman dies the house solemnly names a resolution of condolence and then adjourns. But usually by common consent the resolution is held on the speaker's desk until the business of the day has been completed, and at about 5 or 5:30 o'clock the resolution is read, passed and the house stands adjourned. The resolution always runs the same. It reads:

"Resolved, That the house has heard with profound sorrow of the death of Hon. Mr. Blank, a representative from the state of —."

"Resolved, That the clerk communicate these resolutions to the senate and transmit a copy thereof to the family of the deceased."

"Resolved, That as a further mark of respect this house do now adjourn."

The work goes grinding on through the weeks and months. The house passes laws setting apart holidays that others may rest and celebrate, and reveres the memory of notable men but the house goes on with the nation's business without resting or celebrating.

The house evidently thinks that the best respect it can pay to the memory of the country's notables and its own dead is to go on with its important work. And so it does, usually.

Occasionally, if business is not too pressing and if the deceased member was more or less prominent, the resolution is passed soon after the house meets at noon. And when that happens I dare say that most of the members feel a good deal as the schoolboy feels when a teacher or a fellow pupil dies and school is dismissed; they enjoy getting a day off.

Seventeen members are usually appointed to attend the funeral and when a member dies in office he is likely to have a notable gathering at his graveside.

A day is set apart when those who knew him best pay eloquent tribute to his greatness.

First Congress Met in 1789.

The congress in session at this time is the Sixty-seventh congress. The first congress under the Constitution met in 1789. It should have met on March 4, but a quorum did not show up so it adjourned from day to day until April 1, when it opened for business. On April 8 of that year both houses met in joint session and canvassed the electoral vote for President and vice president. George Washington was found to be elected President and John Adams, vice president.

Congress Lasts Two Years. Congress consists of a two-year term. There are two regular sessions and occasionally a special session or two. Members of the house of representatives are elected for two years and senators for a term of six years. The congress elected in November does not convene in regular session until the first Monday in December of the following year. But for several years a special session has been called soon after the 4th of March following the election.

Hearing the Other Side.

"You have decided to stay on the farm?"

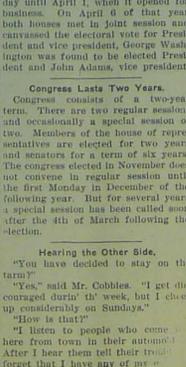

"Yes," said Mr. Cobble. "I get it discouraged during the week, but I cheer up considerably on Sundays."

"How is that?"

"I listen to people who come in here from town in their automobiles. After I hear them tell my troubles I forget that I have any of my own."
