PITCHERS MUST GET BREAKS TO SUCCEED

Winner of 25 Games in One Year Is Very Lucky.

The showing of Ed Rommel in winning 27 games for a club that lost nine seventh in the American league is one of the greatest pitching feats ever recorded. The showing of Ed Rommel in winning 27 games for a club that lost nine seventh in the American league is one of the greatest pitching feats ever recorded.

That was the case with Rommel last year. With the score tied and the pitcher straining, or having been removed for a pinch hitter, Rommel was the man Mack always called upon. In perhaps 9 of the 27 victories scored by Rommel, he was returned the victor in games in which he pitched only from one to three innings.

If the Athletics get the scores in the eighth or ninth, Rommel would be the choice for relief work, and on many occasions the Athletics would go right out and get the winning run for Ed in the very next inning, which, of course, would give him credit for the victory.

Of course, when a pitcher takes up at the game he has the same chance to lose or win, and is deserving of the credit for the game, considering it is a 50-50 proposition. However, one gets a big break when time after time the margin falls on their side. Rommel was blessed with that good fortune last year, otherwise he never would have been able to win 27 games with a seven-place club.

Maty Kilroy Demanded Bonus for Games He Won

Maty Kilroy was the found star of the Baltimore team when the American Association was a major league circuit. Kilroy was crowned about the greatest left-hander in the game. After a wonderful season in 1922, wherein he won 47 games and led the first-string rule, Maty believed he could better that record in 1923, with the return of the three-strike rule, so he demanded a bonus of $10 for every game he won. This was granted. Kilroy had an off season and won only 17 games. Before or after that season the southpaw would have pulled down close to $500 a season extra.

Crowding Eddie Collins

John Clifton Haggerty, infielder of Chicago White Sox, former college all-around athlete, is now trying to crowd Eddie Collins out of his second base position. His career is interesting, as he stepped from the college diamond into professional ball. He was a student at Massachusetts Tech and the University of Illinois.

It is surprising how many golfers can make themselves believe that the trouble with their game is the small size of the golf ball, when the real trouble is the large size of the opinion of their own ability.

SCHOOL NOTES
 (James Paffen, Editor)
 Alton Ruby has left the first grade. He has moved away with his parents.

A number of second graders are working for their Palmer Method Penmanship buttons.

The second graders are decorating their room for Easter. Miss Van Bunker's, the second grade teacher is offering a prize to her pupils for the best story submitted on "An Easter Bunny."
 The third graders are making paper furniture.
 Report cards are being given out in the grades this week.
 The eighth grade girls are taking a short course in cooking and the boys are taking a short course in manual training.

The eighth graders are doing very remarkable work in drawing. The bob hair epidemic has taken two more victims in the grades, they being Miss Maymer of the fourth and Miss Anderson of the fifth grade.
 A young man was left fifty thousand dollars, and the money was kept by the boy's uncle. The rest is a secret, at least for the present. The whole affair will be explained in the Friday evening Family theatre. The Senators succeeded in making the old uncle "cough up" and their methods will be enjoyed by all in the play, "When A Feller Needs A Friend!"

 THE MOTORIST buys gasoline at frequent intervals and pays cash for it, because the unit of purchase is small.
 For this reason the price of gasoline is ever-present in his mind.
 But, in fairness, the price of gasoline should be considered in relation to other fixed charges incident to the operation of his automobile.
 Petroleum Age, in its issue of February 1, 1924, states that "reliable figures obtained in the study of the operation cost of automobiles in oil field service between July, 1922, and July, 1923, shows that the average cost per mile for cars ranging in price from $400.00 to $1,400.00 was 10c. During that period approximately 22c per gallon was paid for gasoline."
 Computing the average mileage at 15 miles per gallon it is shown that out of a mileage cost of 10c gasoline represented less than 1 1/2c. In other words the 15c wags the 8 1/2c, and the 1 1/2c covers the hazard of drilling and bringing the crude oil above ground—its transportation to the refinery—storage—refining—maintenance of the refineries—transporting of gasoline—bulk storage depots—delivery system, including tank wagons and service stations—cost of labor—and a fair and reasonable profit.
 If the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and others engaged in the petroleum industry had not expended millions in experiment and research, which has resulted in taking from crude petroleum scores of other products, the present low price of gasoline could not be maintained. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana), because of its advanced work in refining petroleum, has been able to recover these other products without in any way affecting the quality of the gasoline.
 In this way the operations of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) accrue to the advantage of the consumer in keeping the price of gasoline down to a point where the man of modest means can enjoy the pleasures of motoring without bearing a burdensome charge for fuel to propel his car.
 Gasoline, in relation to the service it renders, is one of the cheapest commodities yet discovered.

Home Talent Play April 15
Have you ever arrived at a place in life whose every step is to be "All A Mistake" to you? Well, this is just what happened to Lieut. Geo. Richmond, a newly made bride's groom.

After enduring many of the tortures of the medieval ages suffering in the fire and brimstone of Hades he at last succeeded in persuading his wealthy uncle, Capt. Obadiah Skinner into realizing that he had made a terrible mistake in trying to select a wife for his son.

Then there is Cornelis, the Captain's old maid sister, who helped to bring matters to a screaming climax in her search for Romeo, the man of her heart secured through the use of the famous maxim, "It pays to advertise."

Besides these, there are Nellie Huntington and Richard Hamilton, once lovers, now "strangers" so to speak who sided in mixing things up in a most delightful tangle.

And last but not least there are Nellie Blanchard, the young bride, and the cause of all the trouble, and plain Nell, a servant, who always managed to mix someone else's plans just in the bud.

All this and more too, you are to see at the West Rock school on the evening of April 15th.

Watch for cast of characters in the next issue of this paper.

There's a laugh for every moment. So don't delay in purchasing a ticket.

WHY FINANCE FAVORS INCREASED FARM EXPERIMENT FACILITIES

American Bankers Association Indorses Purnell Bill Because It Believes What is Good for Farming is Good for the Country—Obsolete Farm Methods Doomed.

By D. H. OTIS, Agricultural Director, American Bankers Association

If the agricultural colleges and experiment stations are to function effectively and give up-to-date, reliable information and aid in respect to farm problems, they must have sufficient funds to carry on adequate research and experimental work so as to discover practical ways to improve agriculture. The present Federal appropriation of only $30,000 a year to each of the experiment stations is deplorably inadequate to meet the pressing needs that are constantly coming before them.

The Purnell bill, which has been before Congress and will again be urged during the present session, provides for an increase of $15,000 in the national appropriation for each agricultural experiment station. It also provides for gradually increased appropriations until the total amount equals $85,000 annually for each institution. The American Bankers Association, through its Administrative Committee, has placed itself squarely as record as being in favor of this measure because it believes that what is thus fundamentally good for farming is good for the country.

What Farming Requires
Farming requires skill of no mean sort. A farmer is ever facing new conditions and must adjust his activities to cope with them. The problems of the soil, of crop production, livestock breeding and feeding, and business management of the farm call for as high an order of brain power as any industry. The young man of today need not leave the farm for a career. There is abundant opportunity for the exercise of his best faculties in helping to develop a basic industry that affects the welfare of every human being.

In order to farm properly and economically, the farmer must be equipped with a high degree of technical skill. Farming by guesswork belongs to the past. No longer can he gauge his activities by the position and shape of the moon. Success demands the application of the best knowledge and experience available. New problems arise daily. New solutions must be found. Discoveries are being made that affect practical farm methods tremendously. Insect pests and plant diseases are constantly putting in their appearance and must be combated by the most effective methods. Competition makes that imperative.

Old Ways Do Not Pay
Land prices have been soaring following the Civil War, immense areas of fertile land were available almost for the asking. But today the most efficient land is all taken up, and the expansion of our agricultural production must come from either increased yields per acre or from farming the less efficient land. The higher the price of land the greater the overhead. What was profitable on cheap lands may be very unprofitable on high-priced land. To meet these changing conditions requires new stores of knowledge and new methods of applying knowledge.

Today many old methods of farming are inadequate and unprofitable. Time was when it may have been cheaper to let a horse or cow die rather than to go to the expense of calling a veterinarian. Today we must discover new methods of treating disease and saving our cows. We must also discover ways and means to prevent disease, to improve our

HAND RAISING OF CHICKS SOME JOB

Little Fellows Don't Know a Thing—Owner Must Train 'Em Even to Eat.

By the Agricultural Dept. of U. of M.
Raising chicks by hand is no light being done every year. An old brooder and artificial brooder are coming into more general use. Some of the things that are raising chicks are success and failure raised by N. E. Chapman and Cora Cooke, poultry specialists with the agricultural extension service of the university.

The first thing necessary, they say, is to have the right kind of place for the chicks when they hatch or when delivered to the farm. This means a good warm coop or house with a floor of warm dry sand or straw. The heater should be started several days before it is needed so that the poultry keeper may know just how to handle it and keep the house thoroughly warm.

The fact that chicks do not know anything should always be kept in mind by poultry keepers. "You will see to train your brooder chicks," say the specialists. "Then you will see to teach them where their best is or you will learn where the best is. If the chick gets out from under cover and goes into a net or the hen calls him back, the brooder has no way of calling them back, and you cannot spend all your time watching them. But you can set up a piece of one-inch mesh chicken wire around the outside of the brooder about 15 inches from the edge so that the chicks cannot walk far away and pile up in the corners. As the chicks grow older, this fence may be moved farther away. You will find it will pay to spend considerable time with the chicks during the first week so that you can notice the first sign of disease and correct it before it is too late. Especially do you need to be there when the chicks are being fed so that you can be sure that they are getting out well under the edge of the brooder."

PIG MORTALITY IS LOW

Litters are Big, Too, but Crop Probably Will Be Lighter Than in 1923.

By the Agricultural Dept. of U. of M.
A large crop of spring pigs is forecast in Minnesota, but not so large a crop as last year. The extension specialists of the university's many parts of the state and the weather prevailing in March and low moisture in large spruce litters have reduced the number of pigs to surpass that of any recent year.

Large sized litters are reported from all parts of the state. Weberg, breeder of purebred Chester Whites, says that on March 15 one of his litters had 25 pigs, 17 of which are living. This he believed to be this season's record.

Litters at University Farm are averaging about 15 pigs. One litter of 12 Chester Whites pigs, one litter of 10 pigs, one of 11 pigs, one of 12 pigs, one of 13 pigs, one of 14 pigs, one of 15 pigs, one of 16 pigs, one of 17 pigs, one of 18 pigs, one of 19 pigs, one of 20 pigs, one of 21 pigs, one of 22 pigs, one of 23 pigs, one of 24 pigs, one of 25 pigs, one of 26 pigs, one of 27 pigs, one of 28 pigs, one of 29 pigs, one of 30 pigs, one of 31 pigs, one of 32 pigs, one of 33 pigs, one of 34 pigs, one of 35 pigs, one of 36 pigs, one of 37 pigs, one of 38 pigs, one of 39 pigs, one of 40 pigs, one of 41 pigs, one of 42 pigs, one of 43 pigs, one of 44 pigs, one of 45 pigs, one of 46 pigs, one of 47 pigs, one of 48 pigs, one of 49 pigs, one of 50 pigs, one of 51 pigs, one of 52 pigs, one of 53 pigs, one of 54 pigs, one of 55 pigs, one of 56 pigs, one of 57 pigs, one of 58 pigs, one of 59 pigs, one of 60 pigs, one of 61 pigs, one of 62 pigs, one of 63 pigs, one of 64 pigs, one of 65 pigs, one of 66 pigs, one of 67 pigs, one of 68 pigs, one of 69 pigs, one of 70 pigs, one of 71 pigs, one of 72 pigs, one of 73 pigs, one of 74 pigs, one of 75 pigs, one of 76 pigs, one of 77 pigs, one of 78 pigs, one of 79 pigs, one of 80 pigs, one of 81 pigs, one of 82 pigs, one of 83 pigs, one of 84 pigs, one of 85 pigs, one of 86 pigs, one of 87 pigs, one of 88 pigs, one of 89 pigs, one of 90 pigs, one of 91 pigs, one of 92 pigs, one of 93 pigs, one of 94 pigs, one of 95 pigs, one of 96 pigs, one of 97 pigs, one of 98 pigs, one of 99 pigs, one of 100 pigs.

HINTS ON FEEDING THE CALF

Don't Stuff Him, but See That His Food Is Clean and Wholesome.

Several general principles are laid down by University Farm livestock men for the feeding and care of the newborn calf. Feeding of the cow properly before calving is important, because it helps to insure a strong, healthy calf.

The best time to wean the calf is after it takes the first milk. It is better if the calf is weaned at the agricultural extension service of the university. "Early weaning makes it easier to teach the calf to drink. Everything the calf should be kept scrupulously clean. The milk which it is fed should be sweet and clean. It should be given in small quantities and should always be a little less in quantity than it desires. Milk from infected cows or from a creamery should be pasteurized before use. All calves should be fed regularly, the very young ones three times a day.

"At first the calf is fed whole milk, the quantity being gradually increased. The milk should be given as practicable and as cheap as continued until the calf is six months old. Ordinarily the maximum quantity of skimmed milk which a calf economically is 20 pounds a day. When the calf is two weeks old grain and bright clean hay should be offered; the quantity fed should be increased as the calf's appetite demands.

"Milk substitutes are not equal to milk, but give fair results when used with care. Quarters must be clean and dry with plenty of bedding. Stagnations save milk and prevent calves from sucking one another. Young dairy stock should have all the hay, clean straw and grain in proportion to weight."

States Combine to Fight Borer.

Ohio, Illinois and Indiana—three corn belt states—have joined forces to check the progress of the European corn borer which was found last year in ten northern Ohio counties. The borer was first found in the west in the middle of April 21 to 26 for a concentrated attack on the corn borer by burning all the stalks of corn in the field. The fact that it was introduced on the Atlantic coast has now reached the middle west and is spreading westward. If it is not controlled in the states it the east it may soon be a factor to reckon with in Minnesota.

Any grain or chick feed left over from last year should be examined carefully, for unless it has been well kept it is likely to have become moldy. Such moldy feed will kill chicks. If there is any doubt of the thing to do is to throw it away.

Neither growing nor fattening pigs do well on corn alone. It is lacking in mineral matter and protein, and the proteins are not of the proper kind to balance a hog's ration.

A dairy cow requires an ounce or more of salt a day, and should have all she needs for her milk and meat. It is best, therefore, to give only a small quantity in the feed, and to place rock salt in the feed in the pastures where she can lick it to will.

Acid phosphate is a bang-up fertilizer for many uses. But don't store on concrete or earthen floor; don't pile one sack on another; don't forget that dampness causes lumping.

If the family budget for food is divided into five parts, one-fifth for milk, one-fifth for vegetables and fruits, one-fifth for cereals and nuts, one-fifth for meats and meat substitutes, and one-fifth for fats, sweets and miscellaneous articles, the diet won't be wrong.

MILK SUBSTITUTE IS EASILY MIXED

Dairy experts at the United States Department of Agriculture experimental farm at Beltsville, Md., have prepared a calf milk substitute. It is a mixture of whole milk and cream, mixed and which contains a greater proportion of home-grown feeds than is used in most milk.

The department's recommended ration is as follows: Five 50 parts finely ground corn, 10 parts linseed oil meal, 15 parts finely ground rolled oats, 10 parts dried blood flour, 10 parts skimmed milk powder, one-half part salt. Stir up with warm mixture at the rate of one pound of the meal mixture to about six pounds of water. Increase gradually as the whole milk is decreased, until at the time the calf is 50 days old it should be getting only the ground oat. At this time 15 to 20 pounds of the meal mixed with water will constitute a day's feed. The total quantity of milk used about 300 pounds; if less fed the calves are likely to be unthrifty.

The time which calves can be put on milk substitutes alone say department dairymen, depends upon the same factors as in the use of separated milk, such as the breed, vigor and age of the calves, etc. It is hardly safe, as a rule, even with the most careful attention, to attempt to raise on milk substitutes alone within one month after birth; and with calves with sharp-pointed cuts to dress almost without loss.

The department suggests, as a guide for feeding the calves, the following schedule: First 10 days, 10 pounds of milk daily; second 10 days, 8 pounds of milk and 1/4 pound of corn (mashed up in 6 times its weight of warm water); third 10 days, 6 pounds milk and 1/2 pound meal; fourth 10 days, 4 pounds milk and 1 1/2 pounds meal; fifth 10 days, 2 pounds milk and 1/2 pound meal; sixth 10 days, 1 pound milk and no meal. Smaller and less vigorous calves should be fed somewhat less, and the milk feeding should be continued as long as in any event, a total of 300 pounds of milk should be sufficient. Grain and roughage should be fed with milk substitutes the same as with separated milk.

Whole milk is the best food for a calf; skim milk ranks second. Calves fed the substitute as stated above have no subject to no more digestive troubles than the skim milk calves and the gains in weight have not been materially less.

Dairy Calf Is Subject to Digestive Disorders

It is best to let the calves stay with their mothers for two or three days after birth. Then they should be taught to drink from a bucket. Care should be taken to see that the milk is clean for, as every farmer knows, calves are subject to digestive disorders.

The calf should get from 6 to 12 pounds of whole milk daily for the first three weeks and then may be gradually weaned over to skim milk and a little grain. Most feeders find it best to give the calves their grain immediately after they have finished drinking their milk. A good concentrate allowance will contain molasses and bone-blended nutrients and will contain some fat to replace a part of that abstracted from the milk.

Here are three rations recommended:

1. Corn, 3 parts; bran, 3 parts; oats, 5 parts; oil meal, 1 part.
2. Corn, 5 parts; oats or bran, 3 parts; oil meal, 1 part.
3. Oats, 3 parts; bran, 1 part; oil meal, 1 part.

Ringworm on Calves Is Very Common in Spring

Ringworm or horn itch is very common among calves in the winter and spring months. It is a skin disease and easily distinguished by the bare and crusted spots it causes. These are white or yellowish in color, first appearing on the head and neck and moving back over the forequarters. If no treatment is used it causes an irritation or itching and spreads by contact with other calves.

It is caused by a fungus or vegetable parasite which lies under the crusts or scales. In order to get the seat of the trouble the scale must be washed off with hot water and the spots painted over with tincture of iodine. Repeat this treatment every two or three days as long as necessary.

Difficulty With Hubam

It may be said that the culture of hubam as a farm crop encounters more obstacles than does any other legume grown in the Middle West. That explains why there is such a difference of opinion among farmers and others.

Source of Plant Food

Acid phosphate, one of the most valuable sources of plant food for farmers, is now close to the pre-war price.

Cows to Be Profitable

Under ordinary conditions, a cow needs to produce 20 pounds of butterfat a year to pay all expenses in connection with her feed and care. In other words, the cow must produce this amount of butterfat will pay for her feed at market price, pay for labor in connection with her keep, interest on money invested, taxes, etc.

PINE FORK, PINE CITY, MINN.

Tailor-Made Is Most Important

Because the tailor-made suit is the most important in the wardrobe of the man who is dressed at the most important occasions, it is not surprising that the afternoon clothes for older women and the evening gowns for younger women are being copied and exploited, they say, to long extent.

This may be a measure to try, but the unavailability of the dark colors used will be a factor in preserving its popularity and usefulness, and sometimes after a time of overpopularity a mode settles down into being an accepted fact, and a simple mode has more chances of survival than the more extreme types copied for the sake of novelty.

A tailored dress made to order is a thing so difficult to find that there is not much chance of it being duplicated to any great extent. There are as many ways to adapt it to the individuality of the wearer as there would be if it were an afternoon dress and no one advocates abolishing them because they have become wearisome.

In the first place the silhouette of the tailored dress is very much diversified by the addition of circular flounces at the front or all the way around, by plain and by panels of all kinds, by the addition of all the descriptions, by being pinned in at one side or at both and by hanging loosely in some degree.

Two Small Plates at the Sides Give the Slight Pinched-In Effect in This Suit.

It is scarcely a matter of comparison. In many of its latest manifestations it cannot be called straight and still make use of the circular flounce with varying in some degree.

This is a form of the tailored or simple dry dress that Drexel makes use of in a successful model which has for its chief decoration flakes of finely planted material. The color consists of two shades of dark blue trimmed with red. From the neckline straight tucks extend down to the hip line, where a square section is outlined with a narrow band of the tucks, the square having the effect of a large patch pocket. A line just above the lines of the circular flounce is set on. In this dress it is used at the back as well as in the front. Narrow bands of the material constitute the sleeves, the tucking running the up-and-down way of the sleeves.

Buttons on Black Kasha Model.

A black kasha dress has a line of the buttons as trimming set in a band of white extending the length of the tunic, which is belted and ends just below the fitted or pinched-in jacket is part of the design of this dress.

Shadow plaids in black with linings and platings in colors are frequent. A black-and-white plaid, or rather a black ground material with a scarcely visible cross bar in white, is made with a detachable cape of the same material lined in red and trimmed with red kid at the sides simulating a glass.

O'Hosen, who is counted an authority in suits, has presented his spring versions of the tailored type. The slightly fitted or pinched-in jacket is among the ones which have caused comment. It follows the generally accepted straight lines except that at each side above the slot pocket a little inverted plait catches in the fattest part of the material. Another suit by this maker has panels at each side of the front, ending in a curved button pocket trimmed with satinette.

Several of the other makers are showing suits accenting the curved manner in a slightly fitted jacket, contrary to the treatment of O'Hosen, allows the bottom of the jacket to set out from the hips with a suggestion of a flare.

Dress With Wide Flare

dress and the collar is white gorgette embroidered in blue, with a bright blue tie of crepe worn in an apron's bow hanging under the waistline. A wide shallow plait pulled tightly at the hips is greatly in evidence in many of the models both for the daytime for the earlier hours of the day. It is essential difference from the wide girde of the current models lies in the fact that it is used frequently with a straight waist above and as part of it. Below the girde the skirt apron or plating appears. In other words, it is part of the waist and is not merely a width of the material tied around a straight chemise dress. Just how this effect is achieved is not easily seen, but the result is new and rather attractive.

A Colorful Season

In an effort to obliterate the most brilliant of seasons, the designers are making gowns which graduate in color from orange to purple or yellow from crin to mother of pearl.

Cut Steel Bracelets

The day of the bracelet is not yet over. Each month sees something new and attractive in the way of bracelets. Just now bracelets made of cut steel in an openwork design are smart. These bangles are wide and look unusual.

For the Boudoir

Luxurious enough for any boudoir is a long and narrow pillow with a wide, striped series of the valences and shirred end. The pillow is made up over delicate pink silk.
