Duluth—Charles Hamilton of Duluth, 42 years old, was drowned in the city harbor in a motor launch. The launch was carrying four feet of water near Eveland on the Miller truck road.

Winona—This city has now a full fledged Kiwanis club of 37 members. It was organized by J. S. Seifert, Kiwanis club president for southern Minnesota, and Walter Hampton, Kiwanis club president.

Recherster—Olmsted county fair of 1906. The plan to make a test case of the operations of what is termed a "game of chance" at the Olmsted fair is being considered following the arrest of two concessionaries.

Luverne—Eleven contractors bid on a job of jackbolting bridge of state on a job located in Rock county. The county commissioners gave the work to Charles Byers of Jackson, on his bid of $14,000.

Winona—Barney Carson, southern Minnesota professional golf champion, recently resigned as professional of the Winona Public Golf Course Association, has accepted a similar position at the Chicago and Country Club, which is located here.

St. Cloud—Plans for opening the St. Cloud State bank of St. Cloud are being worked out. Since the bank closed this spring, the institution has been under the direction of Al Strobel, who has been acting as its manager.

Brainerd—Dr. W. L. Beebe, since 1878 a practicing physician at St. Cloud, died at the Northern Pacific Railway hospital here after a lengthy illness. Dr. Beebe was well known in Minnesota medical circles.

Hibbing—The Hibbing National Bank, which has been organized with ample capital and surplus, and backed by the notable association of business men of Hibbing, has been organized and takes over the business of the Hibbing State bank.

Crookston—Mrs. J. H. Jackson of Crookston, Minn., is in Crookston making preparations for organization of a chapter of the national Daughters of the American Revolution.

Paul—A patrolman knocked down in a fight with a former deputy sheriff, over the question of whether or not he was a deputy sheriff, at Ancker hospital. The patrolman was Frank Minoski.

Le Sueur County—Carl Whippa, a farmer who lost a gold watch chain while shooing what in Scott county 40 years ago, has had it returned to him by a man who had been playing as long and as varied a wardrobe as money and time permitted.

Duluth—Duluth was a maze of color in all directions. Smart simplicity is the keynote of the day—some of it elaborate simplicity, to be sure. Most of the uncolorful attire of the city is made of materials that are laid aside—stays and bones and ermine and the things that made fashionable features planned for the visitors.

Beaumont—S. W. Moorhead, of Beaumont, is now here completing the details for the sale of his island to an agent representing a number of Chicago people who intend starting a summer colony. Joe Gibbons also disposed of his island, an island for which he had been paid for the purchase of several more.

Hibbing—The woods are full of berries in the last few days, and coming into town this week. In the Woodstock section counts at the Boy Scout camp have been made of the berries in the woods. The woods north of Hibbing contain more berries than at any time in the last five years, it is reported.

St. Cloud—At a meeting of Stearns county farmers a general campaign to introduce a new breed of cattle was launched and given impetus by the big meeting of the cattle owners of the big county, which was held in St. Cloud in line with a general program being conducted by the Minnesota Holstein-Breders Association, which has successfully put over campaigns in 11 counties in the state.

Hibbing—Yes, we have some hay, says the revised version of the popular song sung by members of the local high school. Among the greatest attractions here at this time are the Hibbing village greenhouses, where the plants are growing in the open air. One of the trees in bloom, Yucca, and the other has just fruit on the trees. The trees are in bloom in the tropical heat and about all of the plants are in bloom.

Albert Lee—Owing to the possibility of a fire from doing trunk damage to the car, a car, owned by Albert Lee, has been found with other cars in the good yard of the farmers to save all the cars from being burned.

Hibbing—Probably the worst effect of the fire which forced the Hibbing out of the Lovers mine is that it has caused several weeks of work for the Lovers of Hibbing. The mine has been closed for a year and a half. The mine was closed for a year and a half. The mine was closed for a year and a half.

Red Wing—Miss Matilda Day and Mrs. J. H. Jackson are the country's largest exhibitors of the baked goods exhibit at the fair. Miss Day was taking home first prize in the bread-making contest. Mrs. Jackson was taking home first prize in the cake-making contest.

Thief River Falls—The committee of 12 recently appointed by the authorities of the city of Thief River Falls to investigate the fire which occurred on a 50 day session when a building on the east side of the city was destroyed by fire. The committee is expected to report to the city council in a few days.

Beauty and Lady's Car

This is the time of year when, more than at any other, one longs to look and invite one's suitors to be far away from the colorations of life. The dress, with its veiling matters as that of dress, wearing a fashion correspondent in the New York Times.

It is a time in which "everything goes" when one is expected to express one's self, and when individuality is approved, even when it is the result of a "peculiarity." Such diversity of styles, such latitude, such extremes in dress have never been known in the history of modern fashions has the unconventional been so conventional.

Many examples are presented in the illustrations that make a fashion for color which has made this season one of real beauty. Every type of gown and garment from the most simple to the most ornate, is shown in syntheses of color, in grace of line, and with a fine sense of subordination.

St. Cloud—Plans for opening the St. Cloud State bank of St. Cloud are being worked out. Since the bank closed this spring, the institution has been under the direction of Al Strobel, who has been acting as its manager.

carrying on past luncheon, with no need to change until tea time, perhaps not until dinner.

Early in the spring at Paris, France women dressed thus, and one saw many smartly dressed Parisiennes shopping at luncheon, even at tea, in the swaggar restaurant, wearing the informal frock. But always they were stylishly hatted and booted, and always with a bon of fur or other becoming stuff about the neck.

This summer, sports dress, with pretty, mussy skirts of plaited stuff, soft flattering blouses, sweaters, jackets, and blouses, are the fashion.

By LEON BISHOP Here is a diagram for a portable three-tube multi-audio circuit, using TV 100 tubes, operated entirely from dry batteries.

Procure a 180 degree type variocoupler. Wind the stator, S, with 40 turns of No. 22 double coated wire. Start from the ground side of the stator, tap every four turns for five taps, using the ground wire in turn connected to the aerial circuit.

The rotor circuit, R, may have any where from fifty to forty-five turns of wire, depending upon the amount of regeneration developed in the circuit. If regeneration is too strong, the number of turns may be reduced until violent regeneration is subdued.

This is not a single-circuit, but is really a two-circuit circuit of very simple adjustment. Isolation from the stator is almost impossible.

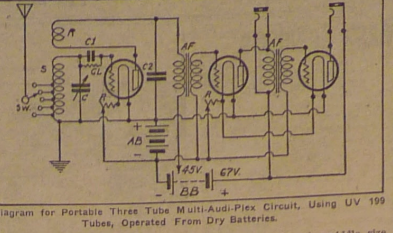

Across the stator, S, is connected a 0.005 mfd. variable condenser, C2, and a 1000 ohm resistor, R2, connected to ground. The grid condenser, C1, is of the mica type, 0.0025 mfd. The grid leak, GL, should be anywhere from two to three megohms, the figure the better.

The rheostats, R1 and R2, are 30 ohms one rheostat controlling the detector tube, while the other rheostat controls the two amplifier tubes.

The "A" battery consists of three cells of dry battery. Connections are made to the positive terminal of the battery, through a 100 ohm resistor, to the grid of the detector tube, and to the positive terminal of the battery, through a 100 ohm resistor, to the grid of the first amplifier tube.

The "B" battery consists of two cells of dry battery. Connections are made to the positive terminal of the battery, through a 100 ohm resistor, to the grid of the second amplifier tube, and to the positive terminal of the battery, through a 100 ohm resistor, to the grid of the detector tube.

There are no more plain gloves. Even the so-called silk ones are circular in shape, and range all the way from narrow ticks of the goods to wide lace fingerings.

Judging from the collections the suit makers will be making in the fall, a half-bad hand that completes a brown dandy hat edged in a fringe of gaiters.

For practical purposes and for the woman who travels there is no wear cheser than a negligee made on the lines of a coat. These are smart when developed in wide-striped silk in gay colors, or in the plain color bound with a contrasting trim.

Military buttons of silver or gunmetal are used effectively on dark silk gowns.

No matter what your experience may be, you can make the most of your life if you just make success, just as the small eat for the big are used in most beautiful mosaic.

There is such a wealth of good things for the table at this season that it is not hard to find a variety.

Tomato Stuffed With Corn—Cut out a piece around the stem of the required number of tomatoes and scoop out the centers; cut off the tops and fill with corn on the cob, leaving the hulls on the stem. Sprinkle a little salt on the inside of the tomato, and a bit of butter on the corn. Set the pieces out from the tomatoes in place and fill with the liquid mixture and cook for five minutes; this is the important part of the process. Have ready two shallow pans, greased and floured.

Water Corn Bread—Mix thoroughly one cup of fine meal, one cup of salt, two teaspoons of baking powder, beat one egg, add two cups of milk, stir into a thick batter, which has been heated and then dissolve one tablespoonful of butter. Add the corn meal to the liquid mixture and cook for five minutes—this is the important part of the process. Have ready two shallow pans, greased and floured.

Vegetable Salad—To one-fourth of a cupful of French dressing add one teaspoonful of each of finely chopped onion, celery, carrot, sliced radishes and cabbage, cooked beans. Toss and mix well with two forks then serve on lettuce.

South American Chocolate—Melt one-half pound of sweet chocolate over hot water, add one cupful of very fine coffee, stir well, add one cupful of milk, add six cupfuls of scalded milk and beat until a thick froth forms on top and leave over water for one hour. Then add to a vacuum bottle with a few pieces of water.

Contact Cleaner for Use on Your Sockets By JOHN A. DENGLER If you're finding set to work at maximum efficiency, it is necessary that the tube socket contacts be clean. A dirty or corroded contact will often spoil what would otherwise be excellent reception.

The blazing wax is held under the joint until the flux flows, and then the joint is touched with the piece of wire solder. A further application of heat causes the solder to flow in the joint.

Frank A. Day, Editor of the Fairmont Sentinel, is one of the leading Democrats of the Middle West, a noted political writer and is ready to give praise when praise is due.

J. F. Gould, state fish and game commissioner, addressed a meeting at Fairmont recently, and following the meeting Mr. Day's paper had the following editorial: When it is remembered that Mr. Gould was appointed by Gov. Preuss and that Mr. Day has been generous in his criticism of the Preuss administration, it speaks well for the ability of Commissioner Gould and his administration of the Fish and Game Department of the State.

Gould Has The Goods
Members of the Martin county Game and Fish League were thoroughly "sold" on State Game and Fish Commissioner J. F. Gould after his inspiring talk at the league's annual dinner here last night.

Few state officials have ever spoken here who showed more knowledge of their subject or such evidence of having studied and read up on it during their terms of office. Mr. Gould was a human encyclopedia on every matter pertaining to the North Star State's millions of dollars worth of fish and game resources. One might think he had been in office as commissioner for many years instead of one or a dozen months.

We understand from Mr. Williams who accompanied him, that Mr. Gould has traveled by automobile alone 18,000 miles on game and fish business which certainly shows he is on the job.

The commissioner is an excellent speaker, in love with his work, a good organizer, businesslike and a hustler in every respect. We believe that if he continues the fine record he is making, the new state administration, regardless of political color, should make every effort to keep him in office. The statehouse needs businessmen like Mr. Gould.

Services next Sunday as follows: Sunday school at 9:00 a.m.; Morning worship at 10 o'clock; Epworth League at 7:15 p.m.; evening service at 8:00 o'clock. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. John Lowe will be home to take charge of the services. He and his family have been visiting relatives in Lake Wilson the past week.

Local News
Mrs. Mary Fisher and son Benny of St. Paul arrived last Sunday for a few days with friends and relatives in this community. The Methodist ladies have received another consignment of Peerless Stain Remover which may be had at Beechel's store or Mrs. W. P. Guttry. Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Fremel and Mrs. Thomas Hlavcek and daughter, Miss Lillian, of Mission Creek, were callers at the J. C. Hancock home Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Resch and family left last Saturday for Cass Lake and other points in the western part of the state for a visit with relatives. Ed Swanson is substituting on route three during his absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Buirge entertained three of his brothers and their families here last Sunday. Those here were Al Buirge and family of Proctor, Willis Buirge and family of Mason City, Ia., and John Buirge and family of Minneapolis.

Lambert and Helen Beery drove to Mankato last Friday to accompany their sister, Miss Lela Beery home on her return from Storm Lake, Iowa where she spent the summer. They spent an enjoyable time visiting friends and relatives at Mankato and returned home Monday. Miss Lela will teach at the Lincoln school southeast of town this coming term.

The Henry Buirge family have moved back into their home opposite the shoohouse from the postoffice building where Mrs. Buirge conducted a restaurant and bakery the past two months. She had an excellent business there but the work was too strenuous and she had to give it up on account of her health.

Ray Point, member of the Poker fore, left for Slayton last Saturday, where he is spending the week visiting at the home of his parents. He expects to return to work next Monday. Jimmy Pofari, chief cook and bottle washer of The Poker plant, is also taking a vacation this week, so if anything is wrong with this week's issue of The Poker we won't be able to blame Jimmy.

AETNA-IZE

"IT'S GREAT TO BE BACK ON THE JOB!" How many OF YOUR employees return to work with unimpaired morale?

When an employee is injured, great damage may be inflicted upon the healthy spirit of other workers if settlements are slow, doctors' services slighted, or if there is haggling over trivial matters. Every accident, too, takes toll of other employees' productive time, lessens machine return and increases labor turnover.

Under an Aetna Compensation Policy, claims are adjusted in a way that creates confidence among employees. No effort is spared to restore the injured employee to highest possible efficiency at the earliest moment. The free services of expert safety engineers and inspectors tend to reduce industrial accidents to a minimum.

This Agency is equipped to give you wise counsel and complete service in connection with your Compensation risks as well as protection for ALL your assets, . . . your life, property and your business.

McCormick-Deering Spreader

There is no machine on the farm that produces greater returns on the investment than a Manure Spreader

No substitute is known at present capable of completely filling the place of farm manure. Notwithstanding its value, there is probably no material on the farm in which so great and needless a waste occurs.

If not applied properly it will lose from 20 to 30% in its fertility value. Fresh manure, frequently applied by a McCormick-Deering Spreader, will produce positive results. It is unprofitable to put manure on the land in piles.

SINGING PART OF DUTIES

By GEORGE ELMER COBB

When Rodney Phall inherited the little Westrook factory that had been the quiet, unassuming property of his deceased uncle...

"What does he mean, anyhow?" growled well-meaning but surly Jeff Dodson, the foreman...

"Well, the old hands here are so settled in a rut and slow and gloomy like at times, it provokes me."

"I wouldn't say slow, Jeff," objected the assistant. "Rather it's steady, isn't it? As to being gloomy, that's all."

"Well, yes, we're a modest, respectable crowd. It's needless, though, this singing order business."

"And, besides, we've a very comfortable nest and don't like to be disturbed, eh?" chuckled the assistant.

"Before another day, however, all hands in the plant will be singing in unison."

"That won't do," said the foreman. "I've got to have a man who can sing in his eyes and a gentle, sympathetic voice that attracts the eighty odd employees."

"I've told them that he felt something more than mere enrichment in being the favored owner of the business."

"Records Proved Case" - Records of the Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture are frequently required to settle court cases.

"Cyclones Unduly Blamed" - Cyclones are blamed far too much for the damage that is done by tornadoes, according to P. H. Smyth, meteorologist at Montgomery, Ala.

"Simple Solution" - Professor Twaddle had bought a talking typewriter and was demonstrating it to a spin with his wife.

"Pleasure to Be Found in Writings of Bryant" - Bryant belongs to classicism in the best sense of the word.

In the PUBLIC EYE

Neal Gallatin of the Spring-Builders

(1004 Oak Crest, Casper). So shall you acquire the title of Spring-Builder.

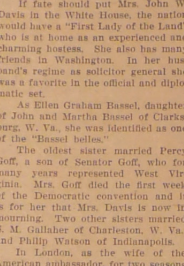

If a man who makes two blades of grass to grow where grew only one before in a plain plot and benefactor, that is a woman who makes to bubble a cold, sweet, refreshing spring where before but a very plain and unattractive well.

You have just a spring-expected, forlorn, uninviting. You dig it out. You line the bowl. You fix it so that its waters will run off and so that its waters will not drain in. Then you mark it "Living Waters," "Spring-Builders of America," etc., according to instructions from headquarters.

It is a work of love, you can go as far as you like. You can put a canopy over your spring and make a walk to it. You can plant trees, shrubs, hot and dusty road bearing an arrow and the magic word, "Spring."

Or you may keep your secret—except from the birds and wild things and a friend or two.

Mrs. J. W. Davis Well Known at Capital

(1004 Oak Crest, Casper). So shall you acquire the title of Spring-Builder.

If she should meet Mrs. John W. Davis in the White House, the nation would have a "First Lady of the Land" who is at home as an experienced and charming hostess.

As Ellen Graham Bassel, daughter of John and Martha Bassel of Clarkburg, W. Va., she was identified as one of the "Blended belles."

The oldest sister married Percy Goff, a son of Senator Goff, who for many years represented West Virginia.

Mrs. Davis was the wife of the American ambassador, for two seasons Mrs. Davis was hostess at the American Luncheon club, was honorary president of the American Woman's club, was member of its board of managers and took an active part in other patriotic societies.

U. S.-Mexican Claims to Be Balanced

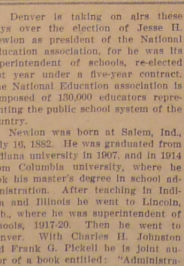

How much shall we have to pay Mexico for damages caused by the Vera Cruz occupation—which did not secure a Mexican salute to the flag—and by the Pershing punitive expedition—which did not get Villa, dead or alive? It remains to be seen.

How much shall Mexico have to pay us for damages in the various revolutions from 1910 to 1920? That also remains to be seen.

As Justice, Ambassador Charles B. Warren has announced on the ground that his work is finished. And one result of conferences in Mexico last year in which he and John Barton Payne represented the United States is that two claims commissions are at work settling the foregoing questions.

On its part the United States government has named Nathan L. Miller (portrait herewith), former governor of New York, who was also a former judge of the Court of Appeals, for general commission, and Ernest B. Perry of Lincoln, Neb., a former judge, for the special commission. The special commission will deal with and decide upon all claims against Mexico caused by the revolution from 1910 to 1920. The general commission will adjudicate upon all claims in general.

Newlon Now Heads National Educators

Denver is taking on alms these days over the election of Joseph H. Newlon as president of the National Education association, for he was its superintendent of schools, re-elected last year under a five-year contract.

The National Education association is composed of 150,000 educators representing the public school system of the country.

Newlon was born at Salem, Ind., July 16, 1882. He was graduated from Indiana university in 1907, and in 1914 from Columbia university, which did not take his master's degree in school administration.

After teaching in Indiana and Illinois he went to Lincoln, Neb., where he was superintendent of schools, 1917-20. Then he went to Denver, with Charles H. Johnston and Frank G. Pfeiffer. He is joint author of a book entitled "Administration of Junior and Senior High Schools," an educational number.

His articles on educational progress are published in the National Council of Education and the National Society for the Study of Education.

Mrs. LaFollette Is a Real Helpmeet

Do you remember the old-fashioned word "helpmeet," used to describe a wife who is a real help? Well, that's just what is Mrs. Robert M. LaFollette. In fact those who know her well say she is a force to be reckoned with quite as much as the Independent Progressive candidate himself.

Helen Caine and Robert LaFollette met 35 years ago at the University of Wisconsin. They became engaged in college and were married two years after graduation. Then they read law together and after he had been elected prosecuting attorney she took the law course at the university. His election to congress in 1904 prevented her from practicing law. In Washington Mrs. LaFollette was her husband's secretary, though there were two boys in the family. She has written for magazines and the press. Since 1912 she has taken part in her husband's campaigns and is a forceful political speaker. The LaFollette family have never children have grown up in the official set of Washington.

Ruler of the Camp at Last Meets Defeat

By JEFFERSON JOHNSON

THEIR was a rivalry in the lumber camp before Jan Sorenson appeared. A lumber camp without a king is like a live of live without a ruler. There was no attempt to dispute Big Jan's kingship.

The contest, some 12 miles away, had a king, too. It was natural that he and Sorenson should meet. Dozens of pairs of socks were wadded upon the lattice, but it lasted only a minute and a half. At the end of that time Sorenson, with half a dozen pairs of feet round his neck, the trophy of his victory, was emptying the blood from his prostrate enemy's eyes.

After that Sorenson was king as far as the limits of the spruce timber belt, and he reigned unchallenged. Far away to the south spread the rumors of Sorenson's fame. And the next month wild brought back reports of a lumberman of battle in a southern camp 80 miles away. He was a Scotchman, and his name was Andy McTavish.

It seemed impossible for the two kings to meet. Once Sorenson met at his snowshoes and covered the entire distance between the road and road. It happened that McTavish was away 15 miles in the interior, working an engine. Sorenson left his challenge and went back.

Presently the answer came. The two men were to meet in April, when the lumbering season was over, at a point half-way between the two camps.

Father Flynn, who had heard of the project, tried to dissuade Sorenson. He did not mind a fight, but he objected to one attended with so much bitterness as this must be.

The two men met at the appointed place. They fought for five and forty minutes, but it was a yelling crowd. It last both caused from weariness.

"I'll meet you on Christmas day," signed on the ground that his work was finished. And McTavish, who could not speak, nodded.

He did not forget. The thought that there might be another king in the lumber country was intolerable to him. The story of the impending fight went up and down the land.

"Jan," said Father Flynn, "you are not a fighter. McTavish on Christmas day. Give it up, Jan, or you will regret it."

"That time Jan Sorenson let loose a flock of bluebirds on Father Flynn's head. All his pent-up rage broke loose, and he felt in the padre an enemy. He turned to McTavish. Nothing Father Flynn would tell he had speaking.

"Jan," he said quietly, "God doesn't permit a man to grow too big for his boots. You are trusting in your strength and you are trusting in a big head, and you are trusting in a big head."

The two men fought each other to a standstill one hour. And Sorenson, starting stupidly from the ground at McTavish, upon the ground, was incapable of a movement, swore that he would meet him once more and win.

The fight was fixed for April 15. "Sorenson," said Father Flynn, "you have had two chances now. Give up your kingship."

Sorenson turned on the padre with an oath. "If I don't beat him I'll never fight again," he said. "I'll come to you, father, and you can make one of your cutting sniveling hypocrites of me."

Such things, and more, Sorenson had dreamed at night when he lay sleepless in his bunk.

April 9 arrived, and Sorenson, accompanied by his followers, started off along the trail to the meeting place. They were the first to arrive; presently the other party came into sight. In the center was a strapping eighteen or nineteen year.

"What's this? Where's McTavish?" shouted Sorenson.

"Dead," answered the young man.

"What?" yelled Sorenson wildly.

"Typhoid," explained the strapping man, "he ate the beefs men. I'm the new king of Watson's camp now."

"You are!" screamed Sorenson, pre-empting himself upon him.

That was a homeric fight, the record of which has come down to this day. For never once did Sorenson's blood land home. He hit the air, and returned, feet sticking, with his face and body. The youth's blood began to tingle after a while. Before many minutes he was a big Swede was glaring at his little opponent out of a bloody haze.

"Come on—miss you're beaten," said the other calmly.

Sorenson, with a bill's below, rushed at his man. That gave the youth an opening. He hit that caught the northern king upon the point of the jaw. Sorenson staggered and collapsed upon the snow. His last memory was of someone's hat and hand gently socks borne off in triumph by the men of Watson's.

Later the next afternoon a battered, shaggy old figure staggered into the little mission house.

"I've come, padre," said Sorenson humbly.

Turncoat Words

A Span was originally a vintner, a tiller was a farm laborer, and a boor was a cultivator of the soil. The fact that people in these humble circumstances were in times past usually in a state of ignorance as to the later meaning of the words. They became expressions of contempt.

The word "turncoat" means a man who has changed sides. This change has been cold hands. As in the case of the word "boor," it is a word of contempt, and a word of contempt.

It is a duty to respect other men's claims, so also it is a duty to maintain our own.

More hunting for farmer and sportsman!

Don't fail to send for this free book, "Hunting Posted Property." It shows you how farmer and sportsman can get together for their mutual advantage.

Sportsmen spend more time hunting for shooting grounds than they do hunting game. More property is being posted each year.

This book will help you find more and better shooting. Write for your copy today—it's free.
