26 Persons Are Seriously Injured in Areas—Some Are Expected to Die.

Mississippi—The death list in the Wisconsin-Mississippi storm areas reached 59, with 26 reported seriously injured, several of whom were expected to die.

Additional reports of casualties trickled in as communication facilities were re-established and relief expeditions which went into the isolated districts returned.

From survivors of the tornado came strange stories of freaks produced by the winds and details of how the victims were killed. Flat-topped barns, razzed houses and shattered chimneys bore a report of trees or poles fallen across a vehicle, trapped the heavy mass of life.

South Dakota is Hit.
The most severe damage to property and loss of life was in the Thorpe area, near Wheatland. In an area seven miles southwest of Thorpe, extending 15 miles toward Owen, virtually everything was swept clean, a path 200 to 400 yards wide. More than 50 farms lost buildings and stock. In southern Minnesota, the heaviest damage was reported in the vicinity of Owatonna, Austin, Albert Lea and Wadena, while some spots in the western part of the state suffered from heavy rains and winds.

From South Dakota came reports of areas which had been cut off by communication following a severe storm.

Crops Are Badly Damaged.
A resume of reports received indicated that violent wind and rain storms prevailed generally over Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, and extended south into Iowa. Crops throughout this area were damaged severely. The heavy rain will in many instances save crops from frost, however, experts said.

The Means statement was incorporated in a letter sent by Daugherty to John W. Bus Hits Auto Six Persons Hurt

Six young people of Duluth had a narrow escape from injuries that might have proven fatal, when the car in which they were riding was struck by a south bound passenger bus last Sunday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock.

The accident occurred about a mile north of town, opposite the John Duval farm. The young folks who were Bill Toftan, owner and driver of the car, Selma and Marie Celstula, Myrtle St. John, Luella Dulinski and Christ Dramer, all residents of Duluth were on their way home from a visit in the Twin cities. The car was a Buick Tourer, 5 passenger.

Passengers of the bus in describing the accident stated they saw the car approaching and it was zigzagging from side to side on the road. As it got close to the bus, it went over to the left hand side of the road. The bus driver had slowed down and to avoid hitting the car, had driven into the ditch on his left side.

The right front side of the bus crashed into the automobile, however, and it was completely demolished. The bus went into the ditch and the right front wheel was torn off and a gas cut into the bus. The car was caught fire, but was quickly extinguished by using sand and water.

The occupants of the bus were thrown out in all directions. Dramer, who was asleep in the back seat when the accident happened, was thrown thru the windshield. He was badly cut over the right eye and it is thought his right arm is fractured.

Toftan, the driver, was the most seriously injured and it was feared the accident would prove fatal to him. He received three broken ribs, his chest was crushed and he got a bad knock on the back of his neck. He was taken into the Duval home and spent the night there under Dr. Wiseman's care. Three of the girls were badly cut about the head and all received painful bruises. Marie Celstula had a badly wrenched back and was unable to walk. Selma Celstula escaped with but a few minor bruises. The girls and Dramer were taken to the Hotel Argus where they spent the night.

The car was one of the most completely wrecked automobiles that has been seen here for some time. The front wheels were torn off, the radiator and motor were jammed back into the front seat and parts of the motor and timing gears were scattered all around on the ground. The car of the bus driver is lying in the ditch, and the fact that the car was hit a glancing blow by the side of the bus is probably all that saved some of the occupants of the car from instant death. If the heavy bus had hit the car head on, the automobile would likely have been ground to pieces.

Only one of the passengers in the bus was injured. Mrs. Toftan, 37, of Minneapolis was injured across the back and stomach. Her son and brother drove up from Minneapolis Sunday evening and took her home.

Duluth, however, one of the injured girls from Duluth, arrived on the night train Sunday and took all the Duluth folks home on the train Monday.

Clara, 17, of Duluth, driver of the bus, was completely exhausted by any blame for the accident by the bus passengers. They stated they had been driving in when he saw the car coming from side to side of the road, but he tried to stop the bus, and when he saw an accident inevitable, he had driven to the ditch.

The Duluth folks had driven to Minneapolis Saturday night and were returning home Sunday. They had had a party at the home of Miss Toftan and it is thought the fatigue of the party had caused the erratic driving of Toftan.

Miss Toftan brought the bus passengers to Pine City following the accident, and they were later taken to the Twin cities in touring cars.

Another bus and a large truck arrived Monday morning and it is thought that these with the six bus and truck, to put the bus from the ditch into the road, it was towed to the hotel garage where it was repaired.

Our former violin instructor, Mr. J. J. O'Brien, of Minneapolis, will give a Monday morning concert, again this Friday and will be at the hotel garage on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 26, 27.

Miss Toftan, who was in Minneapolis Sunday when she was with her mother, will be in Pine City every week for sale.

Crushed

Chas. Moquist, living near North Branch, was brought to Pine City by Sheriff Hawley, last week, and at a hearing held in Justice Stephens' court, he was fined $50 and costs for petty larceny.

Moquist had been accused of taking a cap, gloves and a coat from an automobile at the Iron mines about a year ago. Information had been filed by the local authorities recently that he had taken the stuff. When the sheriff paid Moquist a visit, he didn't find the articles that he had taken from Beroun but he did find some other articles which Moquist admitted having taken the clothes from Beroun, however, and stated he did it because some girls with him were cold.

A window in the Robt. Derr residence in town was blown in by the force of the wind.

The machine shed, owned by Aug. Spaulding on the Ives Hotel place, near the fair grounds, was blown down by the wind.

Out of the large territory served by the Eastern Minnesota Power Co. only four towns were without lights during the night—North Branch, Isanti, Bethel and Foreston. Considerable damage was also done locally and at other points by branches falling on the wires.

Mostly all of the telephone poles out of Pine City were out of commission from damage done by the storm and also some of the town lines were torn down by falling branches.

The heavy rain and wind was also the cause of a number of automobiles skidding into the ditch and we are informed that the wind was so strong it blew a car off the paved road between Friedland and Sandstone.

Two county bridges were washed out by the storm Sunday. One of these was on Hay creek, east of Sandstone where the water in the creek raised about 7 feet and was 3 feet deep over the road.

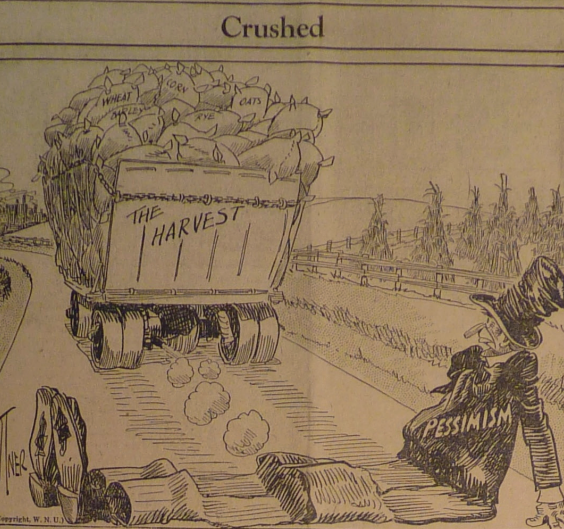

Another temporary bridge was washed out on McDonald Creek, east of Sandstone. Brooke and Jatacock of Pine City are building a new bridge at this location. The bridge will be about 7 feet in McDonald Creek.

Peterson, Republican nominee for U. S. Senator. John Ebert of Hickey spoke in the interests of Godfrey G. Goodwin of Cambridge, Republican nominee for congress from the tenth district.

Best Lindsay of Willow River closed the cause of Theodore Christenson, the Republican standard bearer. Larson of Sandstone made a short talk for various candidates and Albert Johnson, county attorney, spoke on the supreme court judges. Mrs. Nick Perkins of Pine City was called on by the chairman and responded with a few remarks.

Fire Razes Henriette Home

The Frank Millen house at Henriette was completely destroyed by fire last Tuesday afternoon. The fire was discovered by Guy Millen who was working in the field near the house. No one was in the house at the time. The fire, which started from the chimney, soon gained such headway that it was impossible to save the house, although all the furniture and contents were saved.

The Pine City fire department was called and Chief Collins, Dick Koswale, and Matt Pofel made a quick run to the scene of the fire with the chemical truck. The house was beyond saving when they arrived.

The house is one of the old landmarks of Henriette and was used as a hotel years ago. It is covered by $2,000 of insurance.

The Grasston Mercantile Company, owned by N. A. Pearson, was visited by robbers last Monday night and about $2,000 worth of merchandise was taken.

The robbery was not discovered until about 7 o'clock Tuesday morning when the store was opened for the day's business. The safe had been blown open and $65 in currency and silver was taken.

Mr. Pearson had just received a shipment of new fall stock of overcoats and suits and these were all taken. A number of leather jackets, some high grade flannel shirts and some cheap watches were also taken.

As soon as the robbery had been discovered, police of neighboring towns and the Twin cities were notified but up to the time of going to press no information as to the perpetrators of the crime had been received.

Archie Babcock is Married

Archie Babcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Babcock of Pine City was married in International Falls last week. Archie was attended by the pastor with Harry Spickler last groom and has been playing ball on the Falls team this summer.

Archie was raised in Pine City and attended the local grade and high schools. While in high school he was one of the prominent athletes and has also been a member of the town baseball and basketball teams. His many friends here will look forward to meeting his bride and will wish her every success in her new home.

The following item regarding the wedding was taken from the International Falls paper.

Yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the priest's home took place the marriage of Miss Muriel Fortner and Archie Babcock. In the presence of the immediate family, the service was officiated by Rev. Father O'Farrell. Miss Fortner was beautifully attired in a suit dress of navy blue with gray hat, fur and shoes and carried a shower bouquet of pink and white roses. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Herbert Bahr, attired in a gown of black crepe satin with bouquet of orchid sweet peas. The groom wore the conventional black tuxedo and was attended by his brother, Mr. Fred Babcock. The wedding dinner was served the bride and groom at the home of the bride's parents at 6 o'clock. The young folks will immediately take up their abode in International Falls. Following the dinner a number of Mrs. Babcock's girl friends kidnapped her and spirited her away to the Sabourin cottage up lake, keeping her until a late hour. The groom was likewise captured by the boys but in the end everything was lovely. The newlyweds will have the best wishes of all who know them.

Bankers Back Spud Assn.

County bankers have endorsed the potato growers sections of Minnesota, particularly the Red River Valley, are particularly solidly behind the orderly marketing plan of the Minnesota Potato Growers Exchange. This became known last month of the series of ten meetings held under Exchange auspices from Sept. 10 to Sept. 20, well under way.

At the first meeting, held at Detroit, every banker of that city signed a resolution pledging their support in making the association a success. The resolution promised that all potatoes upon which the banks hold mortgages would be sold through the Exchange with understanding of course, that the Exchange would give proper assurance that the claims of the bank would be fully protected. The resolution recognized that success of the movement depends upon the Exchange retaining control of sales to promote orderly marketing, and better pricing. It pledged the bankers to assist financially members who will be in need of advances before the Exchange begins distribution of funds obtained from its exchange of the season of coming year.

This was adopted because the bankers agreed that the seasonal dumping of the crop always has meant flooded markets and low prices.

A similar resolution was adopted by the bankers association in Kilkon, Polk, and Pennington counties. Bankers of Red Lake and Marshall counties were reported to be in favor of the plan.

The Exchange is pledged to make payments to growers as fast as sales are received. The plan will be made to all members on the basis of their actual deliveries, whether such deliveries be to Exchange warehouse or contracted delivery in farm store houses.

TO RETIRE U. S. DEBT BY 1950

Wiping Out Interest Burden Called Necessary for Tax Reduction.

Cleveland, Ohio—Complete retirement of the gigantic public debt of the United States in the next 25 years is contemplated by the Treasury.

Federal fiscal affairs have reached the stage, Assistant Secretary Dewey of the Treasury said in a statement prepared for delivery at the annual convention of the Investment Bankers' association, where the Treasury has been warring in mapping out a program contemplating the wiping out of the entire debt, now about 21 1/2 billions, by 1950.

To go through such a program, however, the statement said, the Treasury must have the full co-operation of all. He said the investment bankers that any effort to interfere seriously with the present wide market for government securities would wreck the plan and urged them to aid in combating any movement that would result in the trading off by their holders of the government securities.

Let's Back Our Teachers

School is now well under way, and both teachers and pupils have settled down to the steady routine of school life. Let's pause a minute and give a thought to our schools.

The American public school is the foundation of American citizenship. In our schools, to a great extent, is moulded the character of our boys and girls who tomorrow will be the citizens of this great country of ours.

It is not enough that our boys and girls should receive an education, but they should learn discipline, respect and love for their country, and loyalty to their town, their school, and their teachers. It takes co-operation between the teachers and their students.

Pine City should take pride in her schools. We want our students to be successful in athletics and all other school activities, but above all we want our students, upon graduation and on entering advanced educational institutions, to reflect credit on the Pine City school with a hundred per cent education that they have gained while attending school here.

School spirit. We doubt if any subject has received the space in school and college papers that this subject has. What is School Spirit? Nothing more nor less than cooperation. The energy, the enthusiasm, and the loyalty of the students for their school and their teacher.

And co-operation can't be one-sided. The teachers have a big part to play, in addition to just teaching reading, writing and arithmetic. They must always remember that they should be an example for their students and their conduct, both in and out of school, should be above reproach.

And there will be co-operation at school, if there is co-operation between the parents and the school. The view point of the student, naturally reflects the view point of the home.

Let's make the Pine City school one of the best in the state of Minnesota. It can't be done by knocking, but it will be an easy thing to accomplish by cooperation.

Best Wishes

The Core of Standard Oil Service

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is more than a vendor of petroleum products. It is an organization of service.

When we say that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is an organization of service, we mean much more than the every day tangible service rendered our customers through the manufacture, sale and delivery of oil products.

"Service" is a comprehensive term. It means anticipating the needs of the public and preparing to supply these needs when the demand comes.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is laboring day after day to widen the sphere of usefulness occupied by the petroleum industry.

It is broadening the field of service which oil products offer to humanity. It is extending the application of exact science in this most fundamental of all modern industries. It carries on continuously a search for knowledge which shall be of value to society.

In carrying on this great work, it calls upon human ability in every field; it seizes upon the most daring ideas and labors to make them practical through unceasing effort.

Problems which presented seemingly insuperable difficulties have been overcome—limitations which threatened to hamper the development of the industry have been removed.

Improvements in refining, marketing and distribution have been developed, perfected and put into daily operation.

Yet, this is but part of the great service rendered by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). This generation scarcely can appreciate the role which oil will play in the future. Anticipating the demands which will be made upon it, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is attracting to its ranks, men with the training, knowledge, vision and enthusiasm necessary to pioneer in the development of the petroleum industry as it will be tomorrow and in the days to come.

The core of Standard Oil Service is in the lean minds of the men who labor in the laboratory and the workshop—unseen and unnoted by the public. It is this part of the organization which has enabled the Company to render so complete a service to society.

Here a host of perplexing problems are taken—problems of manufacture, problems of application, and problems of effectiveness—and each is studied, worked upon and solved, that the patrons of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) may get the greatest value for the money they spend.

By IRVING BACHELLER
Copyright by Irving Bachelier

"There are many here who have nothing to wear but rags," with a flourish, he held up a length of rope. There are hundreds who have no blankets to cover them at night. They have to take turns sitting by the fire while others are asleep. For them a night's rest is impossible. Let this letter be read to the men who are asleep and may they not lie down to sleep until they have stirred themselves in our behalf, and if any man dares to go to bed to help us, he will be given of his abundance to that end and besought his neighbors to do the same. I would wish that his praying would choke him. As we worry to be saved—that is the question. If we expect God to furnish the flannel and the shoe leather, we are mad. That is one part of the great task. Are we going to shirk it or fail?"

"We are making a real army. The men who are able to work are being carefully trained by the crusty old Baron Steuben and a number of French officers."

"That they did not fall was probably due to the fact that there were more than the five hundred men who have some little understanding of the will of God and the duty of man. The king and others like it, traveled far and with mud more than a million hands began to work for the army."

The Schuiskill was on one side of the camp and wooded ridges, protected by entrenchments, on the other. Trees were felled and log huts constructed, 10 by 14 feet in size. Twelve privies were scattered in each hut. The gates of Paris were again being pushed. Anonymous letters complaining that Washington was not protecting the people of France from the New Jersey from depositions were appearing in sundry newspapers. By and by a committee of investigation arrived from Congress. They left satisfied that Washington had done well to keep his army alive, and that he must have help or a large part of it would die of cold and hunger."

It was on a severe day in March that Washington sent for Jack Irons. The scout found the general sitting alone by the fire in his office which was part of a small farmhouse. He was eating a cold luncheon of baked beans and bread without butter. Jack had just returned from Philadelphia where he had risked his life in a spy, of which adventure no details are recorded.

The general arose and went to his desk and returned with sealed letters in his hand and said:

"Colonel, I have a task for you. I could give it to no man but you. You have earned a respite from the hardships and perils of this war. Take your horse and two letters. With them I wish you to make your way to France as soon as possible. The enclosed letters to Franklin. The doctor's plan is of help. Put your services at his disposal. A ship will be leaving Boston on the 15th. Your horse has been provided; your route is mapped. You will need to start after the moon rises. You will have time in ten days there will be fresh beef on the tables. Two hundred blankets have arrived and more are coming. After they have eaten, the men a farewell talk and get them in good health, if you can. We are going to celebrate the war's end, and cannot be long delayed. When you have left the table, Hamilton will talk to the boys in his witty and inspiring fashion."

Soon after one o'clock on the 7th of March, 1775, Colonel Irons bade his long journey good-bye and set out on his long journey.

CHAPTER XXIII

In France With Franklin. Jack slipped in the park. He was of 70 tons, under Capt. Simon Sams, wife of America's ablest naval commander. Blue jacks, the built for rapid sailing and when the built for day out, they saw a British frigate heading from upon their course and easily ran away from their pursuers. Their first landing was at St. Martin on the Isle de France. They crossed the island on mules, being greeted with the cry:

"Vive les braves Français!"

In France the word Revolution meant American revolution. At the ferry they embarked on a long galloon for La Rochelle. There the young man employed his first rope in a French built up of sunny layers of feather-logs.

In the morning he set out in a heavy vehicle of two wheels, drawn by three horses. Its position in front and back, powdered hair, under a covered hat, with long space on his back and in great boots, looked with iron, not a lively little fellow. French engineers of those days, they remained ever having been planned with an eye to economy. They were not to furnish his own horse. The day's journey was not to be made. The highways around horsemen and robbers were well of felled. All travelers were to help themselves to an aid which was on the vine.

They arrived at Charenton on a cold rainy evening. They were settled in their rooms, heavy that they were protected from the weather. They had provisioned them from rooms to room in forwarding them that they would have to move on.

to explain the evidences of high regard which were being showered upon him. "It means that you are a man of standing and small control of a mysterious and violent force of nature has appealed to the imaginations of these people," he said. "I am the only man who has used thunderbolts for his playthings. Then, too, I am speaking for a new world to an old one. Just at present I am the only man of human liberty. I represent the hunger of the spirit of man. It is very strong here. You have not traveled so far in France without seeing thousands of beggars. They are everywhere. But you do not know that when a child comes in a poor family, that father and mother go to prison pour mois de nourrice. It is a pity that the poor cannot keep their children at home. This old kingdom is a mitering Venetian, growing better year by year, with discontent. You will presently see his voices."

There was a dinner that evening at Franklin's house, at which the Marquis de Mirabeau, M. Turgot, the Madame de Brillon, the Abbe Raynal and the Comte and Count of Human Liberty, his Colonel Irons and three other American gentlemen were present. The Marquis de Mirabeau was first to arrive. She entered with a carriage full of jaunty air and ran to meet Franklin and caught his hand and gave him a double kiss on the cheek and one on the forehead and called him "papa."

"At table she sat between me and Doctor Franklin," Jack wrote. "She frequently looked her hand in the doctor's and smiled sweetly as she looked into his eyes. I wonder what she thought of the doctor's eyes. I am sure she would have thought of them with a great deal of admiration. Yet here, I am afraid, no one thinks of that kind of thing. The best women in the world do not treat their favorites with like tokens of regard. Now and then she spread her arms across the backs of our chairs, as if she would have us know that her affection was wide enough for all."

"She assured me that all the women of France were in love with the great savant."

"Franklin, hearing the compliment, remarked that it is because they love my age and infirmities. First we pity, then embrace, as the great Mr. Pope has written."

"We think it a compliment that the greatest intellect in the world is willing to allow itself to be, in a way, captured by the charms of women," Madame Brillon declared.

"As the dinner proceeded the Abbe Raynal asked the doctor if it was true that there was a possibility of discovery in the average male American."

"Let the facts before me be my answer," said Franklin. "There are in this table four Frenchmen and four Americans. Let these gentlemen stand up."

"The Frenchmen were undressed, the Abbe himself being a mere stripp of a man. The Americans, Carmichael, Harnes, Humphreys and Irons, were big men, the shortest being six feet tall. The contrast raised a laugh among the ladies. Then said Franklin in his kindness:—

"My dear Abbe, I am aware that manhood is not a matter of feet and inches. I only regret that the doctors are average Americans and that they are pretty well filled with brain and spirit."

"The Abbe spoke of a certain printed story on which he had based his judgment."

"I am sure that the doctor is right," said Franklin. "I am sure that the doctor is right."

"I am sure that the doctor is right," said Franklin. "I am sure that the doctor is right."

"I am sure that the doctor is right," said Franklin. "I am sure that the doctor is right."

"I am sure that the doctor is right," said Franklin. "I am sure that the doctor is right."

"I am sure that the doctor is right," said Franklin. "I am sure that the doctor is right."

"I am sure that the doctor is right," said Franklin. "I am sure that the doctor is right."

"I am sure that the doctor is right," said Franklin. "I am sure that the doctor is right."

"I am sure that the doctor is right," said Franklin. "I am sure that the doctor is right."

Frank Schulte Was Wonderful Player

"I wonder" mused Bibbles Hargrave, "where Frank Schulte is now? When I was a kid catcher with the Cubs, Schulte was drawing near the end, but I still remember how he outlasted all the rest of the Cubs. When Frank joined the Chicago team, they said he had no pep, but he was a natural, and he naturally laid out—but he simply wouldn't do. And, as he remarked one day, 'they said Schulte had pep and ambition, but he is gone. They said he had pep and ambition, but he is gone. They said he had neither pep nor ambition, but I'm still here!'"

WAGNER COULD SOLVE 'BIG SIX'

Matty Was No Master Pitching Against Duteham.

A statistician, going through the records of the stars, found one later, Christy Mathewson didn't get much success against. Who? Why? Hans Wagner, of course. Here is what Wagner did to the pitching of Duteham in the 86 games he faced him, according to the dope dug up:

In 10 seasons, Huns had 327 times hit at against Matty and drove out 109 genuine base hits as 'Big Six' Huns a batting average of .320. Records show that Wagner batted Huns in a most consistent manner since the pitching of Mathewson for in only three seasons did Christy prevent Huns from touching the 300 mark. On the other hand, the Pittsburgh star never induced in many batting staves at Matty's expense.

Seldom did Wagner severely maul Mathewson's delivery, but on July 28, 1908, Wagner made a hit every time he came to bat, four times up and four hits.

One of the proudest moments of Wagner's career was when he made his first home run off of Mathewson. For 13 years, John Henry Wagner had tried to hit a ball when facting Huns from touching the 300 mark. In the year 1913 did the Pittsburgh star never induced in many batting staves at Matty's expense.

Born Batsman and Great Infielder

Cuyler and Wright, Pittsburgh regulars, have made a record this season unequaled by any pair in recent years. Wright is hitting around .300 and playing a strong, steady game in the field. Cuyler is now the proud owner of a hitting average of .370 and is third only to Hornsby and Wheat.

Dodgers Sign Pitcher Tried to Make Pitcher

Out of Bib Falk of Sox. Bib Falk, the slinging left, is leaving the Chicago White Sox, to be lured by the officials of the Chicago club who told him, last winter, that he must give up the idea of being an outfielder and return to the pitcher's box, where he starred while in college.

When Johnny Evers took over the reins of the club, he kept Bib on the bench and played Bill Barrett in left field. But when Harvey McClellan was taken ill and it became necessary to shift Barrett to short stop, Evers was forced to use Falk in the outfield. And Bib just stepped out and started to hit so well that now he is leading the league and there is no chance of ousting him from his outfield job. Bib did not want to be a pitcher and has convinced his bosses that he is the better player as an outfielder.

He Is Fastest Swimmer. Pitcher John Hollingsworth of the New Orleans Southern league club, who has been purchased by the Brooklyn Nationals for $25,000.

Big Pittsburgh Stadium. Ground has been broken for the University of Pittsburgh stadium, which will be available for football, baseball, basketball and track by September 1, 1925.

Now High Priced Coach. Knute K. Rockne, who entered the University of Notre Dame fifteen years ago as a poor, working student, doing all kinds of odd jobs to pay for his tuition and board, has become one of the highest paid coaches of football in America. He will be paid $100,000 by the college for the next ten years.

Pitcher 'Rip' Wheeler. Floyd Wheeler, Chicago Cub pitcher, is now popularly known as "Rip." He comes from the Texas league and joined Killebrew of the Chicago Cubs in 1915. He is used as a relief man and is considered one of the best of the new crop of slab artists.

Waterbury has obtained First Baseman Graham from New Haven, under optional agreement.

Brick Kane of Bridgeport is reported to have been sold to Columbus of the American association for spring delivery.

Infielder Charles Dorman has been released by Vernon to permit him to fill a prior contract with Lincoln of the Western league.

Red Holt, hard-hitting first baseman of the Jersey Skeeters, is reported to have been sold to the Detroit Tigers for 1925 delivery.

Cecil Criss, a right-hand pitcher, who had a trial with Vernon some time back, is again with the Tigers. He has been pitching for San Fernando, Cal.

St. Paul times correspondent had his nerve to ask for Johnny Neum, star first baseman at this time, for the Saints are very much in a pennant struggle themselves.

Catcher Graham of Shreveport is out of the game, awaiting for the remainder of the season, with a broken thumb, suffered when a foul tip came in contact with it.

Jim Scott, who quit the San Francisco team because he was not named in the lineup to justice to himself or to the club, is twirling for the Burlington (Cal.) semi-pro team.

Max Berk, third baseman of the Minneapolis team, has been loaned to Toledo, the league player transfer rule being lifted in this case. Jimmy Van Hook has been shot out of play by injuries.

Gene Van Houck, recently released from San Francisco, has been given a contract for next year by the St. Louis Browns. He is a pitcher, stands six feet tall, and has had about a year and a half professional experience.

Divorce Psychology

Representative Thinkham of Massachusetts said at a Washington dinner party:

"Divorce has increased 100 per cent among us since 1913. It is terrible. 'Divorce thoughts distort and dwell, or even our stigmata. A young and pretty girl applied to me for a position the other day.

"'You are unmarried?' I said to her. 'Oh, no,' said she, with a blush. 'I haven't been married yet.'"
