The KITCHEN CABINET

Even after summer has passed these come days so warm and sultry that heavy, heavy dishes do not appeal to the appetite. Here are a few to serve on such days:

Jellied Chicken—Stew a half hen until quite tender and use all of the white part of the flesh. Put the meat twice through the meat grinder and then measure it. Add to the meat the same measure of thick white sauce and mix well through a sieve. Add one tablespoonful of olive oil, one tablespoonful of vinegar, eight tablespoonful of apple juice, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of grated onion. Mix and heat over the fire to melt the jelly. Oil is not necessary.

Chickadee—Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Kellen of this place celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary. Mr. Kellen is a Civil War veteran and 89 years old. Mrs. Kellen is 82.

Aspic Jelly—To make a quart of jelly take four or five chicken or turkey cubes, add to one quart of hot water and the juice of half a lemon and five tablespoonfuls of gelatin which has been softened in one cupful of cold water. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Turn into a warm place. Strain through a cheesecloth. Put into the icebox to set.

Chicken Aspic—Take a chicken which has been stewed. Curve the meat into thin little slices twice the width of the finger by the length of it. Cut slices of the same size and shape. Slice three hard-boiled eggs and prepare the yolks in a separate pan. Chop up the yolks aspic jelly and see that it is well seasoned. Fill the mold in layers and with the mushrooms, using the eggs for the sides and bottom. Let it become firm before turning out.

WHAT DOES THE BATTERY MEAN TO PINE CITY?

What does the battery mean to Pine City and this community? Looking at it in a cold blooded selfish way, it means a lot. Week ago last Friday night, members of the battery received their first pay for attending drill. This pay was for the quarter ending month of June and the battery was mustered into service on May 25th. The pay check totalled $788. Every cent of this amount went to boys in this community, and the chances are that every cent was spent in this community.

The amount spent here by the government will be much more per month, when the horses are received, as there will be about two or three full time jobs in the care of the horses. In addition to their feed and keep in the course of a year it is estimated that 15,000 will be paid battery members for pay and for care of the horses and other expenses. So that from a financial standpoint, it means a lot to this community.

In addition to the pay members receive, they get an hour and a half of training each week, that cannot help but be beneficial. They are taught discipline and respect for their government. They receive information about hygiene and are taught how to take proper care of their physical condition. They get a trip with pay, to camp each week that makes a wonderful vacation for most of them. It gives them an organization that is able to promote social athletic and other sports.

And what does the National Guard of the United States mean to its citizens? In addition to the beneficial training the nation's young men receive, it is providing a trained organization of young men that are ready and prepared to defend its citizens in case of any emergency. And the cost to the government, under this peace time plan, is but a small part of what it cost for the intensive training during the last war, and what it would cost again if the need arose.

The government is not training men with the expectation of sending them to war, but it is training them so that they will be prepared if they are ever needed again.

There is much less danger of a nation that is prepared having trouble than there is for one that is not prepared.

No, the National Guard is not only for purpose of making soldiers, but it is to develop men. To develop them mentally, morally and physically. To make one hundred percent Americans who will be a credit in themselves, their parents and their country.

Granddaughter of Pine City Man Starts Search for Missing Father

Mildred Weiland

Imagine the surprise of Emil Weiland of Pine City, while reading the St. Paul Pioneer Press last Sunday, to discover that the above picture was that of his granddaughter and the picture of the man was that of his son.

The above photographs and the following article appeared on the front page of last Sunday's issue of the Pioneer Press. Mr. Weiland stated he was reading the paper and had just started to read the article of the young lady who was in search of her father, when it suddenly dawned on him that the girl was his granddaughter, and her father was his son.

Mr. Weiland has never seen his granddaughter, and it is 17 years since he has heard from his son, who he has heard from in that time.

Mr. Weiland came to Pine City in 1907, coming here from the Iron cities. He has operated a cabinet and mill work shop here and is well known in this community. He is a pioneer resident of Minnesota, coming to this state on Nov. 15, 1861 when he settled in Winona. He was married in Winona, and it was there his son was born Sept. 21, 1883. Mildred Weiland's parents were married in Winona and it was there she was born.

Emil Weiland wrote to his granddaughter Monday and she wishes him to be well met here in St. Paul and assist her in every way possible in the search for some trace of her father. When questioned by a representative of The Pine POKER Monday, she showed us a picture of his granddaughter, taken when she was 2 years of age, and also a photograph of himself and his son taken years ago.

Following is the article which was printed in the Pioneer Press: Life moments when the imagination goes to work on a young woman's ambitions do not carry Mildred Weiland to romance in distant streets, nor to all fabled corners on Fifth avenue. She is not an extraordinary girl. But having selected a man and almost hopeless task, she must be practical and take her return as it comes. At the age of 19, her life is dedicated to finding, if possible, her father, Edward Weiland, whom she has not seen for twelve years.

Miss Weiland, a Winona girl, is glad she doesn't remember the first real blow which fate dealt. She was willingly entered the bonds of husband, home and baby and left never to return. But the circumstances under which her father disappeared when she was 7 years old, Mildred believes were such that he had no alternative, and she is steadfast in believing it was his intention to return for his girl.

Not Without Home. Mildred has not been without a home. Her father's relatives at Winona have cared for her since she was a baby. But now attaining young womanhood, she will not be content with an life, knowing that somewhere there probably is the father with the same heart-aches. She has cast aside the hopes which in childhood she built around an imaginary father, and, aside from earning a livelihood, she has a sole objective—her father.

Only one thin clue to her father's whereabouts and well-being has been available in the twelve years. It was a telephone message in Philadelphia, soon after the United States entered the World war, to a friend of Mildred's uncle. A man's voice said the speaker was Edward Weiland. He asked the friend to inform Mildred and her uncle he was going to war, and, emphasizing the importance of this part of the message, he requested that Mildred hold that he would come for her if the war spared him. She clung only to this Mildred's hopes.

Hopes for Recognition. The father, if alive, is now 41 years old. The picture of him was taken when he was in his twenties and looks like a not a good resemblance of his present features. But Mildred hopes that some one who knew him when he was young and since has been familiar with his activity will recognize it. Her father, she says, may have been using the name of an uncle, Edward Miller.

Mildred came to St. Paul several days ago to work and look for her father. Because of the uncertainty of where the search may lead her, she has not taken a permanent address. She calls every day at the general delivery window for replies which she expects her inquiries to bring.

The Importance of a "Right" Labor Policy

In his new book, "The Organization of Modern Business", W. R. Basset says:

"One hears a good deal about the iron heel of capitalistic despotism squeezing blood profit out of the poor, down-trodden worker. But, I have yet to discover a company that became really prosperous when operated on the lemon squeezer principle."

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) long since appreciated the essential value of putting the "right" labor policy into practice. And such a policy is as important to the community as it is to the Company.

The only way to achieve a "right" labor policy is to consider it in its broad aspect as affecting the whole social fabric. Consumers as well as employers and employees profit by industrial peace. The public as a whole suffers when an industry does not afford economic protection to its workers and their families.

The Directors of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) in every policy they institute, consider all parties involved—consumers, stockholders, workers, and the public as a whole.

The keystone of this Company's policy is that all must be benefited by its existence as an industrial organization. One of the latest plans by which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has recognized the partnership of its workers, is to establish a death benefit plan for the dependents of its employees. It must be clearly recognized that this policy is not a benefit solely to the employees. It benefits, indirectly, every one in the community because it is forward-looking, sound, economic measure.

A sage summary of the service rendered by this measure is given by the Lapeer, Michigan, Clarion: "The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has insured the lives of its 25,000 employees. The insurance costs the employees nothing. The Company pays the premiums.

"Here we have a splendid example of the new spirit which is pervading industry, and which if persisted in must eventually level the barriers that often lie between employer and employe.

"There may have been a time when corporations exploited their employes and yielded to them in better wages and working conditions only as they were forced to do so. Possibly a number of this type of corporation survives, but they are passing. Mutual distrust and antagonism is giving way to mutual friendliness and co-operation. If a social revolution ever threatened this country, the menace is fading. The ground is too barren.

"This single generous act of the Standard Oil Company will do more to sweeten the relations between capital and labor than all the propaganda in the world."

What a Pine Co. Exhibitor says about the Isanti County Fair. O. H. Wisdemann, after returning from Cambridge where he showed the Holstein herd of Wisdemann Bros. of Pine City, bringing back most of the blue ribbons and the special prize of the Holstein-Friesian prize of that county, says that the officials of the Isanti County Fair surely are a bunch of regular fellows and know how to put on a real fair. It seems that everybody had the fair spirit and backed them up. With that kind of cooperation a fair can't help being a success. The treatment and accommodations were simply great he says with everyone willing to help. The officers of the Holstein-Friesian Association of that county were right there with a check for their special prize which never before was taken out of the county.
