

NESSEL MUTUAL MEETS

Over Hundred Farmers Attend Annual Gathering

3 MILLION INS. IN FORCE

Officers Elected and Much Other Important Business Transacted

The meeting of the Nessel Mutual Fire Insurance Co. at Pine City, Tuesday, drew more than a hundred members of the company to town. During most of the day, however, you wouldn't have known there was any special gathering for they stuck close to business in Rath's hall from 10 in the forenoon until nearly dark when the voting for officers was over.

The meeting was called to order by president J. Oscar Serline of Grasson at 10 a. m. and his address, together with the official reports, were listened to. At 11 Dr. Knapp appeared and made a speech of welcome in the course of which he extended an invitation on behalf of the Mens' club to take dinner as the city's guests at the Rath restaurant.

After noon various matters came up for discussion, the question of insuring automobiles and gasoline engines being among them. In both of these cases the company decided to continue its policy of refusing to insure either of these risks.

The location of the next meeting proved to be one of the hardest fought questions that the meeting had to deal with. Two years ago it was held at Braham and a year ago at Rush City and many of the delegates wanted to send it on another tour of the same kind, but there seemed to be more who thought that it should come to Pine City another year until Mr. Smiley of Hustletown moved an amendment to the bylaws fixing the next place of meeting at Braham, the next at Rush City and the next at Pine City, which carried with a whoop, and the meeting will go merrily on its way from town to town.

The election of officers was more than ordinarily interesting and resulted in the selection of a new president to succeed J. Oscar Serline of Grasson who has held the office for the past eight years, of vice president B. T. Swenson of Danewood who was the first president of the society and has been vice president for the past year or more, and of secretary Frank Stahnke who has performed the duties of that position for eleven years. Henry Studt of Braham was elected president, Herman Rolf of Rush City vice president and Hans Rolf of Rush City secretary, while Henry Doney of Rush City was selected treasurer and Nels J. Anderson of Rush Lake and Louis Loren of Braham were elected members of the board of directors with Fred Starnum of Galesville as the new member. There were 192 votes cast.

State of Minn. vs. Mr. Hoberg.

County attorney Lamson, Attorney Sobotka and Sheriff Hawley journeyed over to Brookings last Thursday when the case of the state against Mr. Hoberg who keeps the saloon at Henrietta, charging him with violation of the state law, came up before Justice Woodbeck. The state introduced a number of witnesses but they had seen nothing out of the way that they could remember and so Mr. Sobotka, representing the defense, moved to dismiss and County attorney Lamson concurred because there wasn't much else for him to do.

So far as we are aware, this clears up all the charges against Mr. Hoberg except the case that comes up before the county commissioners on February 16th when the matter of the cancellation of his license comes up.

Pine County Boys in Base Ball.

Three Pine county boys will be enrolled among the professional base ballists in the Northern league this coming year—Yost of Pine City on the receiving staff of the Minneapolis team, Cunningham of Sturgeon Lake as the star twirler of the Duluth White Sox and Clint Breckenridge of Pine City covering the center garden for the Fort Williams, Canada, team.

All three are men of more than "good" ability in their several positions although all are young men—Cunningham not yet 20 and Breckenridge, the eldest of the trio, only 23. And it is the first year in league work for Yost and Cunningham.

A. G. YOST GOES TO MINNEAPOLIS.

ham, Breckenridge having played with his team mates on the St. Paul Northern elc last year when he made an excellent showing, especially in the latter part of the season.

Pine City almost claims all three of the players for Cunningham put in his novitiate there and two years ago he twirled for the Barringtons when they were considered one of the very best. Last year Cunningham and Yost have been the battery for the fast Cloquet team and with them on the mound and at the receiving end the team was considered almost invincible.

Cunningham has been sought by the Duluth team all this past year and the manager feels a mighty gratification that he has landed the youngster who has been sought by many, including Connie Mack, the chief of the Philadelphia Athletics. The boys all have the best wishes of the folks at home. County who hope to see them all some day the star players in the world's championship series—and that's fair enough.

Carlyle's Interest in the House.

Carlyle's interest in domestic details, as shown by his letter (just published by Dr. Sieber Wright) about taking the house at Chazy, row, was always fairly well continued. He would on occasion find relief for one of his moods or take a pleasure in sweeping down with broom and water the path and dragged yard of his "lodgout of concern." Nor did he disdain personal affairs. One of his "lodgouts of concern" was the scrap of paper dated December 24, 1859, in which he scribbled Christmas wishes to his wife and "the promise of a washstand" as his Christmas gift to her.

S. D. University President Named. Vermillion, S. D., Dec. 16.—The appointment of Dr. Robert L. Blaine, president of the South Dakota State Agricultural college at Brookings, as president of the South Dakota university, was announced by the state board of regents. He is one of the best known educators in South Dakota. He has been professor of the State Agricultural college since 1909 and was formerly president of the State School of Mines at Rapid City.

Supplying a Necessity.

An English policeman entered the house of a publican one morning and informed him that it would be necessary to hold an inquest there in the afternoon. Now the landlord had a great objection to anything of the kind, and said: "Oh, I can't be troubled with inquests in my house. Here, what'll you have to drink?" Robert said he had a drop of Scotch, which he did. "Have a cigar, too," said the host. After the consumption of two Scotches and cigars the constable said he thought he could put the inquest held somewhere else, but as he was leaving the landlord remarked: "By the way, who are they going to hold the inquest on?" "No one as I know of now," said the man in blue; "but 'ud a' been me if I hadn't had these drinks an' snatches."

Austrian Cooking Fat.

Lard is very expensive in Austria, especially at Carlsbad, which is regarded somewhat as a luxury. As a substitute a preparation known as "spizett" or cooking fat is used. It is sold under the name of "ceres," and it is said that its principal ingredient is palm oil. This substance is prepared in the towns of Bodenbach and Anasch and sells for 145 cents in large quantities, or 14 cents a kilo (14 cents a pound) in small quantities. It is put up in casks weighing one-half kilo (1 1/2 pounds) and is sold without a container. In appearance it is much like codliver oil, owing to a treaty with Germany, enters Austria under very much more favorable conditions than cotton seed oil, the duty on the former being 22 cents a kilo, while the duty on the latter is 40 cents.

In Bohemia.

"I fear I shall have to let you go and employ a brasserie model," said the artist. "I hoped," responded the model, "that I was giving satisfaction." "You are. But you are a blonde, and I am all out of yellow paint," said the artist.

Cemetery Association.

Mr. Piper made a report at the meeting of the Mens' club, Monday evening on the matter of a cemetery association to maybe take over the present cemetery here and to make adequate provision for the future. A new committee consisting of F. M. Smith and Mr. Piper was then appointed to continue the investigations and to make adequate provision for such an association if found feasible.

In the first place it has not been thought advisable to organize a cemetery association without taking the owners of lots in the present cemetery for the reason that such an arrangement would at once divide the public interest, which would be much deplored. And so it seems greatly preferable that the association, if it shall be formed, shall take in the portion of the cemetery which has previously been sold out in lots at least and shall make such addition in land as is possible.

The proposition was made that some additional lots, probably amounting to nearly as much as the present occupied area, can be secured at a reasonable cost on the north of the present site. It is also thought that "Lambert's point" can be gotten hold of without too much outlay. Either arrangement would, we believe, be satisfactory to the public if they could be put through.

Several of our people are greatly interested in this matter and we understand that Hon. F. A. Hodge has stated his willingness to donate $300 in aid of a cemetery association if it can be organized. Doubtless others will give financial aid to the proposition and there ought to be little doubt as to the possibility of organizing successfully with two as good hustlers as Messrs. Smith and Piper to push it.

Basket Ball Game.

The game of basket ball played between the teams of the Hinckley and Sandstone high schools in Patrick's hall at Hinckley last Friday evening was won by the Sandstone team with a final score of 39 to 15.

This is the first time within the knowledge of the writer that Sandstone has ever been able to worst Hinckley in a game and the team from the Quarry city and the large number of rooters who accompanied them were all correspondingly pleased.

It was a red hot game from start to finish. The Hinckley boys had the advantage in weight and in their own ball but they lacked in experience and team play. The Hinckley team was composed of Currie and Dunphy forwards, DeVore center and Bloomfield and Merritt guards while Pryor was substituted in the place of Merritt in the second half.

The Sandstone team was composed of Maloney and Harris forwards, Lynds center and Robey and Webb guards.

DeVore played the star game for Hinckley, making 4 field baskets and 3 baskets of free throws—all the points that the Hinckley team was credited with. Maloney made 6 field-baskets for Sandstone, Harris 4, Lynds 4 and Webb 2. Maloney made 1 free throw and Lynds 6.

Actor's Presence of Mind.

When something goes wrong on the stage the clever and experienced actor can always save the situation by making. An old hand worked it once time like that. "Oh, villain!" he roared, and shot off his revolver at the villain's head. But the gun didn't go off. Six times the hero pulled the trigger, and not a single explosion took place. The audience was getting hysterical, when the villain struck an attitude and said: "Your pistol has misfired, Sir Reginald, but what difference does it make? The thought that I was to be shot has frightened me to death," and he rolled over and died.

GOOD POINT TRY SHOW

Some Birds Come Over Three Hundred and Fifty Miles

ABOUT 150 BIRDS EXHIBITED

Local Interest Rather Light But Show Is a Success.

The First Annual Exhibition of the St. Croix Valley Poultry Association has been a center of attraction in Pine City this week. About 150 birds were on exhibition, some of them from 350 miles away, and Professor Smith, of the State University, who officiated as judge, pronounced them "Fine quality."

It is a matter of regret that the local attendance and patronage was so light, but interest has been aroused, and another year will no doubt see an active interest and many exhibits by county poultry fanciers. Fine exhibits were made in the line of barred Rocks, White Rocks, silver pencilled Wyandottes, white Wyandottes, Columbia Wyandottes, white Orpingtons, black Minoras rose-combed Reds, single-combed Reds, light Brahmans, single-combed white Leghorns, single-combed brown Leghorns, rose-combed brown Leghorns, single-combed buff Leghorns, Bantams, Bronze turkeys, white Holland turkeys, Pekin ducks, and white Indian Runner ducks.

Among county residents having noteworthy exhibits were Postmaster Webb and Fred Dahlberg of Sandstone, and Mr. Von Myhren, of Hinckley, president of the association.

The Minnesota State Poultry Show closed Monday after a very successful exhibit. Over 1,000 birds were shown, one bird alone being valued at $500. The Grand Forks Exhibit will commence tomorrow.

Tomorrow is the last day of the local exhibit, and a number of fine birds will be offered for sale; also a $25 setting of rose-combed black Minoras eggs, and a $9 setting of buff Wyandotte eggs.

LIVES IN DEADLY WEAPON

Inventor Will Long Be Remembered as Originator of Famous Gatling Gun.

The first of those terrible engines of warfare known as the Gatling gun was invented in 1825 by Richard James Gatling, who was born in North Carolina. Gatling, the son of a rich planter, was well educated, and early devoted himself to scientific work and mechanical experiments. His first device was a screw propeller for steamships, on which, on applying for a patent, he found himself antipathized by Ericsson. Next he contrived a machine for planting rice, wheat and other grain in drills, which proved highly successful. Having used his inventive genius in such a manner as to assist in feeding and procuring human food, he next set about the task of contriving a machine for killing his fellow-men. There were crude rapid fire guns in use about Gatling, but he paid attention to the subject, but they were of little practical value. The Gatling gun, soon led to the invention of the machine gun, and until his death the inventor devoted his time almost exclusively to perfecting and manufacturing that formidable weapon, which has been adopted by all the armies of the world. Tens of thousands of graves now attest to the deadly accuracy of the slaying machine invented by Gatling.

Mongolian Mutton Eaters.

According to a recent traveler in Mongolia, the inhabitants of that country are great meat eaters. Living in some cases entirely on mutton. In comparing the foods, the native will ask if they are as good as mutton. It is not uncommon for a Mongol to consume ten pounds of meat at one sitting. He pours mutton fat in his tea, which is prepared with milk from brick tea (the poorest grade pressed in bricks), and of this he drinks enormous quantities. One cup a day is not an uncommon amount for an adult. There are no regular hours for eating; the native eats when opportunity offers.

County Auditor A. B. Slatten greets of Chicago county resigned his position the first of the year and was succeeded by his deputy, A. F. L. Stromgren. Mr. Slatten greets has been recognized as one of the best county auditors in the state. He will engage in life insurance work.

We recently received a circular letter from a number of misguided zealots in Chatfield, Minn., who have organized an "Iverson Club," to promote the gubernatorial aspirations of Sam Iverson. They say that the only way to restore confidence in the Republican party is to make it honest. We might ask our Chatfield friends who hasten to endorse Mr. Iverson why he hasn't taken the people into extravagance of our state government. As auditor, he has doubtless had many opportunities to give voice to his economical theories and they would have worked out just as well two years ago as now. Honest and sincere is indeed an admirable trait, but like Caesar's wife, Iverson in the past, should have so conducted himself as to be above reproach. — Center City News.

Heywoods Are Popular.

The new theatre that Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Heywood have been building at Aitkin the past few months was opened to the public last week and the Independent-Age of that city gives a pleasing account of the occasion, part of which we are glad to quote, being prevented from including the entire article only by lack of time. It follows:

"The opening of the new Movement theatre last Thursday evening certainly partook the nature of a civic celebration as was the desire of the managers, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Heywood, for everybody was there—excepting those who were turned away because the utmost capacity of the house had been taxed before the hour of 8 arrived.

The house has a seating capacity of 396 and 446 people were admitted, and there were several hundred disappointed ones who came late. All inside, however, were in the best of humor and the fact that in the audience were people from all parts of the county goes to show that much interest has been manifested as to the theatre and that Mr. and Mrs. Heywood are held in highest esteem by the patrons of the theatre, who could show in no better way than by their presence, their appreciation of the efforts of the management for clean, wholesome entertainment."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Heywood are well known in this region where "Jack" was born and raised and where Mrs. Heywood made her home for some years prior to their marriage. Everyone is glad to know of their success and they may be sure that the best wishes of the folks from home are all theirs. They have been at Aitkin about a year.

Catholic Church Notes

Rev. Father Leo was a visitor at Sturgeon Lake Monday afternoon, returning the following noon.

The members of the Altar society will be entertained at luncheon next Tuesday afternoon in Mrs. Neubauer's building and all members are requested to be present.

The ladies aid will serve a chicken pie dinner in Mrs. Neubauer's building opposite the court house next Tuesday and [we understand that it will be the regulation church dinner—50 cents worth of the best food for half the price. So get ready for chicken next Tuesday.

German Lutheran Church Notes

The ladies aid held a good meeting at the parsonage last Friday afternoon.

There will be services in the church at 7:30 next Sunday evening and Sunday school as usual at 2 in the afternoon.

Rev. Leubker will preach at Rush City next Sunday forenoon. The church there has a new altar, pulpit and baptismal font that will be used Sunday for the first time.

The young people will have another meeting at the school house tomorrow [Friday] evening to prepare for the entertainment that they expect to give.

F. E. Church Notes

Saxon Bede will preach in the evening of Rev. Parish next Sunday evening when the latter goes to Meadow Lawn.

The candy sale of the Clover club—Mrs. Piper's class in the Sunday school—at the Piper store last Saturday afternoon, was a success and netted the girls between $6 and $7.

Rev. Parish will begin a series of meetings in the school house at Meadow Lawn next Sunday evening, probably to last two weeks or more. His uncle, Rev. Justus Parish of Ogilvie, will be present to assist him.

Rev. Parish will preach at Beroun tomorrow evening when a church organization will be perfected and incorporated and a church building erected in the spring. It is also hoped that a new church may be put up this coming summer at Meadow Lawn and probably a rearrangement made of the property here that will make it much more commodious and convenient with a full basement, containing kitchen, dining room and Sunday school room.

The D. D. class of the Sunday school held a stag party at the parsonage last Monday evening—Mrs. Parish being still away at Villard where she is visiting her husband's folks. Fine clothes were taboored and 19 members of the class appeared. Fred Berlin, president of the class, was voted by ballot the best dressed man present and was punished by being compelled to stand on his head and whistle "Yankee Doodle," take off his collar and go without his favorite dish of beans for lunch. Fred Berlin was re-elected president of the club. Jesse Frazier vice, Dewey Kilner secretary, and Spencer Daniels treasurer. Ralph Richardson was named chairman of the social committee. C. H. Sutherland of the membership and Rev. Parish of the devotional.

Rev. Parish was re-elected teacher and Mr. Sutherland assistant. There were games and a great lunch at which Fred Berlin acted as chief cook and Mr. Sutherland as foreman of the dish washing brigade. The annual banquet of the class will be held sometime in February or March.

ON THE WRONG TRAIL

By FRANCES SMITH.

Appropos of the leading incident here related, I will say that I was never other than a theoretical sportsman.

The only excitement I ever had, except getting enough to eat, was a love affair in my early twenties. The object of my affections was a little brunette with more money than sentiment, and more brains than either. I had two rivals; Mr. Bonny, minister, whose physique, finances and prospects were light; Mr. Meals, grocer, whose physique, prospects and finances heavy.

When my ardor had reached the appalling point, I said: "Madge, will you marry?" "Yes," said Madge. "My darling," I murmured, "how I love you."

"Well," she murmured back, "what of it?" "Why, we are going to be ones, aren't we?"

"It appears to me that you are already wed," she smiled. "Who is the other one?"

"You."

"You?"

"Me?"

"Yes, me—I mean you!"

"Oh," at last she understood.

"Where are we all three going to live?" You know, Mr. Bonny.

A horrible fear smote me. "Great heavens!" I cried, "is he going to marry you, too?"

"That's what he said," averred Madge.

"He never shall!" I swore. "I'll kill him like I would a— a buffalo."

I think Madge laughs too much sometimes.

"The idea of you killing a buffalo! I'll tell you what I'll do— I'll marry the first one of you that does kill a buffalo!"

I would rather Madge had accepted me in a more conventional manner, but suppressing all selfish consideration, I cried: "Done!" and was off to challenge Bonny. He accepted readily.

A week later found us camped in the then sparsely buffalo-settled region of Colorado. The first day we spent trying to get suggestions relative to buffalo hunting. These suggestions were discussed over our coffee that evening.

"Cowboys (all men west of the Mississippi were cowboys to him) are cowards," said Bonny. "I asked one of them 'if you were I where would you go to hunt buffaloes?' Where I would be least likely to find them, he replied. 'My good man,' said I, kindly tell me how you do bring down a buffalo.' He took another chew of tobacco and squinting one eye, replied: 'I shoot them in their tracks. That is the best place for you to shoot a buffalo, young man, right in its tracks, and the older the tracks are, the better.'"

My own information had been more practical. I had been told to lasso my buffalo and tie it to the nearest tree, where I could shoot it without danger "at least to the buffalo." My informant added absent mindedly.

Unfortunately, I forgot my lasso the next morning and had to depend entirely upon my gun.

While we lunched Bonny was apparently seized with an attack of delirium tremens.

"Buffalo, buffalo!" he shrieked, and danced about.

"A cluster of them!" I asked.

"Only a solitary," he shouted. "but it's mine," and mounting his horse he backed rapidly away, presumably to keep the buffalo in sight while he circled it. Rival as he was, I had to admit that it was the tactic of a brave man.

As for me, I bodily started toward the buffalo. I had gone but a short distance when I came to an old dug-out which had partly filled, leaving enough ingress for a man nearly half my size to crawl through. The animal, seeing danger, approached me. Fearing lest I frighten it away, I got as far as I could into the dugout. The buffalo came on. Its head lowered, its tail furiously lashing at the diabolical, until it was within twenty feet of me!

I slipped the rest of the way into the dugout, and though my heart beat like a sledge hammer, I coolly put my gun to my shoulder, braced myself firmly against the farthest wall, and with bated breath watched the majestic creature move slowly by and out of range of my aim. I panted with pain, but that it would require an hour's work with my knife to enlarge the egress sufficiently for me to get out. When I did get out, the buffalo had escaped, and in the distance I beheld Honny spurring his horse to full speed. I was disgusted with Bonny. Why should he sit calmly on his horse within a mile of the buffalo, let it escape him, and then exhibit such trepidation because it had done so?

On the return I found a couple of men skinning buffaloes. I bought a hide, went on and was first to reach camp. Pretty soon Honny arrived.

"Well," said he.

"Well," said I.

"What do you think of this?" and he unrolled a fresh hide.

"I think you are about as smart as I am," I frankly answered. "Where did you shoot your buffalo?"

"Right in its tracks," said Honny. "While we traveled at each other's 'collet' telegram was brought us. It read:

"Don't say buffalo. I have married Madge—H. Meals."

SYNOPSIS

The Watermelon and James, two banters, banter each other regarding their personal appearance, desire to clean up, acquire new clothes and let their companions know of it. James, who is to which is the better looking, Watermelon goes to a barber shop, gets the contents of the barber's drawers, and takes a clever trick and gets a wig in a lake and steals his clothes. While sitting in an automobile, he discovers a standing emper by the roadside, General Crossman and his assistant, Henietta, drive up in a car. Assuming that his car is disabled, the general orders assistance. Watermelon hands him a card bearing the name William Hargrave, and the general, who is the brother of the general, orders assistance. Watermelon hands him a card bearing the name William Hargrave, and the general, who is the brother of the general, orders assistance. Watermelon hands him a card bearing the name William Hargrave, and the general, who is the brother of the general, orders assistance.

Watermelon had to have gone naked today. "He'll have the police after you," warned James, "as soon as he can reach the village." "That's all right," returned the Watermelon. "Here's a ten-spot for each of you, and mind you do what I say." "For you," said Mike, "I'd give you heart's blood." "Where do we find this pond?" asked James. "Come with me and I'll take you to the road that leads by it. You give me time to get to the hotel, though, before you give him his clothes." "Trust me," said Mike, "lovingly condescending the greenback in the dark dirty recesses of his rags." They parted in the road where the Watermelon had come upon the big road turning car. Mike and James watched him until he disappeared over the top of the hill, then climbed the wall and made their way through the woods to the little mountain lake.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued. "Yes, there was quite a bit. He's fresh at the game and carries a roll to show off with," returned the Watermelon, pulling a roll of bills from his pocket. Mike edged a bit nearer. "See here, I want you fellows to do something for me." "For you?" said Mike. "I would give you immortal soul." "I want something more than that, Mike," said the Watermelon. "Me plus of batcy?" asked Mike with feeling. The Watermelon shook his head as he slowly pulled a greenback from the bunch he held. "I want you to go to that lake, get my clothes out of the log and give 'em to the poor devil."

There was no one in sight as they made their way cautiously to the edge of the lake. The trees grew nearly down to the water's edge, and the water was reflected in the quiet depths of the water. The little brook, tumbling over its miniature waterfall, with a ripple and splash, was the only sound that broke the all-pervading silence. Nothing stirred in the underbrush, neither man nor beast, and James and Mike were about to slip away as quietly as they came when a stick snapped behind them sharply and Mike

CHAPTER IX. The general never went anywhere without a well-stocked library, guide books, instruction books, maps. He was consulted long and often, and with a childlike faith that Henrietta's accuracy and the sign-posts had not been able to shake. Henrietta knew of this unfortunate condition of the general's and resolved to get rid of these books and maps and papers. With every mile indicated and nicely tabulated, every turn and landmark mentioned, it would be almost impossible to get off the beaten route, and they must avoid telegraph stations and post offices as much as they could. The success of the scheme lay in keeping the books away from all touch and communication with the village. They must, if possible, get lost.

"Apiece" asked James. "Apiece," declared the unhappy youth. "Apiece James," said Mike, turning inquiringly to his companion. "Make it thirty," said James, "and we may be able to help you." "All right, thirty apiece. Get me the clothes." "You might write each a check," suggested James, and drew forth the pen and check-book. "For innocence," groaned Mike, "command me to me loving comrade, James."

When they had separated to prepare for the trip, Bartlett returned hastily to the garage. No one was in sight except a strange chauffeur lounging in the doorway. Bartlett collected the literature from the general's car and hastened back to the hotel. Surprisingly, he entered an empty room near the one assigned to him and when he emerged again, his arms were burdened and he was smiling gently. They waited for the Watermelon on the porch, intending to have an early supper and start while it was still light. Bartlett greeted the returning youth with relief and led the way to the dining-room. He mentioned a small village some thirty miles to the north, where they could find accommodations for the night in an old farmhouse. "Friends of mine," said he, "I go there every fall."

"You'll notice," said he, "that this nobby spring suit in our latest style is cheap at the price. Fancy, a thing like that for only sixty dollars!" "I see," said the stranger. "Payable in advance," said James. The stranger handed them each a check and thoughtfully drew on the shabby clothes of the Watermelon. It had not been long since he had worn rags of a necessity, and he hitched them up with the skill bred of familiarity. He thrust the pen and book into a pocket he had made sure was holeless. Then he turned to the two and his eyes gleamed. "How much for the car?" he asked. "The car," James, does he think we stole his car?" "A stock broker," said James, "would suspect his own mother." "If you want your car," said Mike, "go to the hotel."

"Why?" asked Bartlett coldly. "I liked to locate every town visually on the maps or in the books before he undertook to motor there." Desperate, Bartlett declared that it was not on the maps. But the general would not be daunted. They could look on the maps themselves if they knew in which county it was, near or just off.

Women Everywhere

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Women from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from all sections of this great country, no city so large, no village so small but that some woman has written words of thanks for health restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. No woman who is suffering from the ills peculiar to her sex should rest until she has given this famous remedy a trial. Is it not reasonable to believe that what it did for these women it will do for any sick woman?

Wonderful Case of Mrs. Stephenson, on the Pacific Coast.

INDEPENDENCE, OREGON.—"I was sick with what four doctors called Nervous Prostration, was treated by them for several years, would be better for a while then back in the old way again. I had palpitation of the heart very bad, fainting spells, and was so nervous that a spoon dropping to the floor would nearly kill me, could not lift the lightest weight without making me sick; in fact was about as sick and miserable as a person could be. I saw your medicines advertised and thought I would try them, and am so thankful I did for they helped me at once. I took about a dozen bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and also used the Sanative Wash. Since then I have used them whenever I felt sick. Your remedies are the only ones I employ. You are at liberty to publish this letter."—Mrs. W. STEPHENSON, Independence, Oregon.

A Grateful Atlantic Coast Woman.

HOPKINS, ME.—"I feel it a duty to owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides, a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite, I could not sleep, and then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no more sleep, had good appetite and was fat and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Hodgdon, Maine.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with women's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health. Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

ELDER'S STRICT AS TO DUTY

Observance of the Sabbath Most Rigorously Enforced in Scotland in the Sixteenth Century.

The sixteenth century practice of the elders in Scotland of going the rounds to pick up offenders against Sunday rules, survived until the eighteenth century. Mr. Thomas in his "Weavers' Craft" gives a description of the "gangs." The minister himself would make the rounds to spy with his own eyes the sins of the absentees. Here one man is found romping with his wife, two men were found drinking ale, and one was found with his coat off, as if he were going to work, and still another was seen eating a hearty dinner. All were pulled up before the session of the Kirk and "repentances" enforced upon each. And now one can understand the warehouse of the drunken blind on the Sabbath, which struck James Payn as astonishing in the Edinburgh of the sixties.

Bad Air. "Don't you notice how bad the air is in this room?" asked the fussy old lady of the railroad conductor. "Yes, I do," replied the polite official. "I guess the last time they filled the airbrakes they got a bad lot of air."

Unknown Quantity. "Darling, do you love me still?" "Dearest, I never knew you were still."

SKIN CLEARER. By Simple Change in Food. It has been said by a physician that most diseases are the result of indigestion.

There's undoubtedly much truth in the statement, even to such a degree that many unsightly eruptions, which many suppose can be removed by applying some remedy on the outside. By changing her food a Kan girl was relieved of an eczema which was a great annoyance to her. She writes: "For five months I was suffering with an eruption on my face and hands which caused me a great deal of inconvenience. The suffering was almost unbearable. The medicine I took only gave me temporary relief. One day I happened to read something about eczema was cured by indigestion. Then I decided that many persons had been relieved of eczema by eating Grape-Nuts. I decided to try it. I liked the taste of the food and was particularly pleased to notice that my digestion was improving and that the eruption was disappearing as if by magic. I had at last found in this great food, something that reached my trouble."

When I had a visit to the doctor I remember my own former stippling and advise a trial of Grape-Nuts for curing my indigestion. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "There's a Reason" in the Digest.
